TIBURON NET DEPOT: QUIET RESEARCH

Nixon Hopes To End War Before 1971

Claims Troop Withdrawal Proposals Hurting Effort

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon said today he is trying to settle the war in Vietnam before the end of 1970, and declared that proposals to set a deadline for U.S. troop withdrawal destroy and undercut his effort.

He appealed to the nation for "even more support" in pursuing his goal of peace.

At a White House news conference, Nixon twice talked of a settlement before the end of next year, or by the middle of 1971.

Nixon said efforts to impose a cutoff on U.S. involvement destroy the North Vietnam incentive to negotiate by telling the enemy in advance that "If he just waits for 18 months we'll be out anyway."

INFLATION CURB

Nixon also declared that administration efforts to curb inflation "have begun to work."

He said budget cuts and other economic steps are taking effect. "I'm not nawboning," said the President.

He defended his administration's school desegregation policies, calling it a middle course. "I do not consider it a victory for integration when the federal government cuts off funds for a school . . ." he said. "That's a defeat for education."

Back on the subject of Vietnam, Nixon said his administration has achieved "some progress" toward a settlement, and has made a comprehensive peace offer which seeks withdrawal of all foreign forces.

The only item not negotiable, Nixon said, is the right of South Vietnam to determine its own destiny, free of outside interference.

STEADY COURSE

Nixon called this a firm and steady course, then sounded this appeal for national backing:

"If we can stay on this course and have some more support in the nation . . . we have a lot of support but if we can have even more in the nation for this steady course, then the enemy will have some incentive to negotiate, recognizing that . . . it is not going to win its objective by waiting us out, then the enemy will negotiate and we will end this war before the end of 1970."

"That is the objective we have," Nixon said.

At another point, spurning troop cutoff deadlines, the President said "I am trying to achieve" a settlement before the end of 1970, or before the middle of 1971.

FIRST SINCE JUNE 19

The President told his first news conference since June 19 that imposition of a deadline would "undercut and destroy the negotiations in Paris."

He said the proposition to establish such a time limit for withdrawal of all American forces also represents "a defeatist attitude" about obtaining peace earlier.

Nixon thus took a stand in flat opposition to Sen. Charles E Goodell, Rn-N.Y., and the new Senate Republican leader, Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, both of whom favor a termination date. Goodell called for total withdrawal by Dec. 1, 1970 and Scott by the end of 1972.

"Any incentive for the enemy to negotiate is destroyed if he is told in advance" that the United States will get out by a certain date, Nixon said.

He said the United States had

Nixon Has Confidence In Judge

WASHINGTON (AP) —President Richard M. Nixon said today he still has confidence in Supreme Court nominee Clement F. Haynsworth's qualifications and integrity and predicted confirmation by the Senate.

He told a news conference questioner he has no plan to withdraw the nomination, on which the Senate Judiciary Committee is holding hearings.

"I believe he will be a great credit to the Supreme Court," Nixon said of Haynsworth, whom he designated to succeed the resigned Justice Abe Fortas.

STUDIED RECORD

The President said he had studied the judge's record before submitting the nomination.

He said he hopes the Senate can act to confirm the selection before the fall term of the Supreme Court starts Oct. 6.

A short time earlier, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell contended that opposition to the nomination has been couched in generalities. He also predicted prompt Senate confirmation.

"If we had put up one of the 12 apostles," Mitchell said, "it would have been the same."

Mitchell discussed Haynsworth's nomination in an interview in which he declared that all of the arguments against the South Carolina judge were expected.

CONFLICT CHARGES

He said he discussed possible conflict of interest charges "the first time I ever talked to Judge Haynsworth" more than two months before Nixon announced the nomination.

Asked whether there has been any impropriety in Haynsworth's actions, Mitchell replied, "Certainly not."

Mitchell contended that none of the judicial canons of ethics had been violated by Haynsworth.

He also said Haynsworth has, as a federal circuit court judge,

WAGE, PRICE CONTROLS

Cranston Fires Salvo On Inflation

By JOANNE GRANT

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., blaming the Vietnam War, today blasted the Nixon administration for not solving the nation's zooming inflation and suggested that wage and price controls may be in the offing.

Cranston, speaking at the 49th annual Redwood Empire Association convention at the Holiday Inn, said he believes the war in Vietnam is the single most inflationary factor in the economy.

"I will do all I can to get us out of Vietnam as fast as we can," he said to applause. He proposed cutting the military budget from $80 billion to $60 billion through slashes in Vietnam, the NATO forces and domestic armed forces manpower.

He contended the cuts could be made without reducing strength. Significant savings might also be realized in the welfare budget, he said.

Referring to the Nixon administration's efforts to combat inflation, Cranston said, "There is absolutely no evidence that these methods are working."

The California Democrat said he has been hearing from "serious, responsible, influential men who fear we may be on the edge of runaway inflation."

Cranston said a prominent congressman has predicted the nation may face wage and price controls within six months and he said he also has heard talk in Washington of voluntary or mandatory controls over credit.

Cranston also urged Gov. Ronald Reagan to take immediate steps to prevent "coastal chaos in the coming decade" by banning any major change along the California coastline until a land inventory is taken and a master plan developed.

"Time is running out on the California coast," Cranston warned. "Such an inventory and master plan should have been completed years ago. Now with the floods of coastal misuse swirling around us, we have finally gotten up the courage to stick our finger in the dike."

California has 1,050 miles of shoreline but only 335 miles are publicly owned, he said, and predicted the Bay Area and the south coast area will run out of vacant land entirely in 20 years.

"Unless we act now to preserve areas like the Point Reyes National Seashore, private interests will gladly acquire the land for their subdivisions and developments. I, for one, do not blame them at all, just as I do not criticize the oil companies for drilling in the Santa Barbara Channel.

"Their roles in our society is to build houses and to produce oil — and we can hardly criticize them if our government allows them to do their thing in the wrong place," said Cranston.

Last night, the association was told by State Controller Houston I. Flournoy that the state will lose millions of dollars in royalties and bonuses if it insists on requiring guarantees against leaks in tidelands oil wells.

Flournoy said that the State Lands Commission, which he heads, has approved no new tidelands drilling leases since the disastrous blowout of a Union Oil Co. well last winter off Santa Barbara.

The moratorium was agreed upon despite the fact that no major spill occurred on coastal lands within the jurisdiction of the commission. Union's well is on a federal lease.

"If the question remains one of an absolute guarantee in advance that no such leakage is possible, then I doubt that the present state of technology will allow the lands commission to ever permit another well to be drilled," he said.

Tourism and conservation themes threaded through yesterday's talks. "We're lucky we live in an area that can sell itself so eloquently," said Eugene Debbs Potts, the luncheon speaker.

He estimated three million persons would visit the Red-

Night Sky Glows Red As Pier, Ferry Burn

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— San Francisco's famed waterfront was lit up last night by a spectacular 4-alarm fire that roared along a 300-yard pier alongside the Ferry Building.

Flames, fed by the dry wood of Pier 14's abandoned superstructure, leaped more than 200 feet as timbers crashed and the walls of the pier's central warehouse area collapsed.

Nobody was injured in the inferno that erupted in one of the pier's small buildings. But the old San Leandro ferryboat was engulfed alongside the flamecovered pier.

A young caretaker couple hired by the ferryboat owner was pulled to safety by Coast Guardsmen battling the blaze.

Authorities blamed itinerants for the fire, which was fought by 200 men using 40 pieces of land equipment and seven fireboats. It was contained about 40 minutes after the first alarm sounded.

The buildings on Pier 14 have been vacant for the past five years except for a few offices and the pier itself had been condemned recently.

Because of this, damage to the pier probably will only run in the hundreds of dollars instead of the thousands. Open space north of the pier kept the flames away from the Ferry Building.

A full moon, reddened by smoke from the flames, hung over the Bay and added to the spectacle for the hundreds who gathered in the warm evening along the Embarcadero and in adjacent buildings to watch.

They also saw the end come for the 43-year-old San Leandro, last of the old Southern Pacific ferry fleet to go out of service in 1958.

Owner Leonard Martin had spent a reportead $150,000 refurbishing the old ferry and had been negotiating recently with buyers in Tiburon who wanted to dock it on their side of the bay for a trade fair. Martin is the developer of the Cannery near San Francisco's Fishermen's Wharf.

'Family Of Messiah' Tests Larkspur Law

Larkspur's antihippie ordinance yesterday was challenged as unconstitutional by a communal group which calls itself "The One World Family of the Messiah's World Crusade."

The "unincorporated association" filed suit in Marin Superior Court against the city, the city council, Police Chief Howard Clark and City Atty. Robert W. Elliott asking that enforcement of the ordinance be prohibited.

An amendment to the city's zoning rules passed last spring defines a family "as an individual or two or more persons related by blood, marriage or legal adoption, or a group not exceeding five persons, who need not be related, living together as a single housekeeping unit."

It went on, "A 'related' family may also include a maximum of two servants, but the 'unrelated' group shall in no event exceed five persons, including servants."

The definition was made to get rid of "families" of hippies living in single-family homes.

The One World Family, and represented by attorney Stephen A. Kauffmann, founded by Allen Noonan, feels the definition is "arbitrary, discriminatory and

Judge Says 'Diversion' Delays Trial

CHICAGO (AP) — Opening arguments in the trial of eight persons charged with conspiracy to incite riots during the 1968 Democratic National Convention was delayed today by what Judge Julius J. Hoffman termed "a diversionary effort" by defense lawyers.

One of the attorneys, Michael Tigar of Los Angeles, appeared at the U.S. District Court proceedings after spending the night in the federal lockup of the courthouse. He had been flown here after he was arrested yesterday in Los Angeles on a bench warrant ordered by Judge Hoffman.

The judge warrants for Tigar and three other defense lawyers of record came after they failed to appear Wednesday at the trial's opening session.

The defense, contending it was understood these four lawyers would not participate in the actual trial, filed a suit in the U.S. Court of Appeals today asking that the arrest warrants be withdrawn.

The suit also asks for a continuance in the trial until Charles F. Garry of San Fran-

Military Overthrows Bolivia Government

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Bolivia became today the fifth South American government to come under military rule. A movement headed by Gen. Alfredo Ovando Candia, commander in chief of the armed forces, overthrew the civilian government of President Luis Siles Salinas.

The new regime seems more left-leaning than most military governments. The cabinet is made up of young dissident leftist politicians from the Christian Democratic and the Nationalist Revolutionary parties, plus independents and young military men.

This trend opens a new chapter in this nation, which has been independent for 144 years and has undergone 185 coups or quick changes of government in that time.

In a message directed to the peasants, Ovando declared the new government will "defend the rights of the peasants, bringing into realization action that will make more profound the Bolivian agrarian reform" of 1953. Through its history the Bolivian economy has depended almost entirely on tin.

"The revolutionary government is on your side," Ovando told the peasants.

A message given out at Government Palace said the government "will fulfill the mandate which the people in its great majorities have been demanding." Among other things, Oviando promised to carry out a plan of "heavy industrialization."

14 Viet Civilians Die In U.S. Error

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. helicopter gunships for the second time in a week fired on a group of Vietnamese civilians mistaken for enemy troops, the U.S. Command said today. Fourteen civilians—12 men and two women —were reported killed, and seven civilian men and two regional force soldiers were wounded.

The incident occurred Tuesday, 25 miles west of Tam Ky, when the helicopter crews from the Americal Division observed a number of "suspected enemy soldiers in black and green clothing attempting to evade," headquarters said.

The helicopters opened fire with machine guns and rockets. "There was no reported return fire from the area and there were no U.S. casualties," the announcement added.

Later a U.S. advisory team reported the civilian casualties.

U.S. paratroopers found two Viet Cong sapper bases less than 15 miles from Saigon in the past 24 hours, and the commander of the U.S. 2nd Field Force said the enemy "is doing his damndest" to infiltrade the demolition and sabotage experts into the South Vietnamese capital.

Saigon may be in for a "flurry of terror," said Lt. Gen. Julian Ewell. He reported that captured documents indicate the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese will rely heavily on sapper attacks in the winter-spring campaign which the U.S. Command expects to start in November.

One base was hidden in the high elephant grass of a swamp and consisted of about 25 camouflaged huts. It apparently was abandoned just before the Americans, acting on intelligence information, swept into the area. Food found in pots was still warm.

Viets Deny Sale Of New U.S. Weapons

SAIGON (AP) — A South Vietnamese military spokesman today denied a charge by U.S. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., that the Saigon government is trying to sell new weapons the U.S. government has supplied it.

Proxmire clamed yesterday that the South Vietnamese government has offered private arms dealers more than 5,000 of the new, U.S. M16 automatic rifles plus grenade launchers, submachine guns and pistols.

The South Vietnamese spokesman said his government is negotiating with a British company for the sale of 200,000 weapons, but all are obsolete and very few are in operating condition.

He said most of the weapons were made in Britain, France, Denmark, Italy or Japan and the few U.S. arms involved were manufactured in 1917.

"The weapons ... were not provided ... by the United States," he said. "The Army of the Republic of Vietnam obtained the weapons before the United States involvement."

U.S. Trade Balance Climbs During August

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States' favorable trade balance rose in August for the fourth straight month, reaching its highest point since last March.

The Commerce Department reported today that the nation exported $204.9 million more than it imported during the month. The margin last March was $215.3 billion.

Israel Says War Deaths Show Increase

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israel's war casualties along the ceasefire lines with its Arab neighbors have risen to about 80 a month, Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said today.

Half of the casualties now are on the Israeli-Egyptian front, he added.

The year following the June 1967 war showed a monthly casualty rate of 50, one third of them fatal. In the second year, the rate rose to 80 per month, Dayan told an election rally.

Meanwhile, Israeli warplanes again hammered Egyptian military targets on the southern Suez Canal sector today, the military command announced. It said the planes went in twice because of what was described as Egypt's continued "aggression."

Nixon, Israeli Leader Continue Needs Round

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel's Prime Minister Golda Meir is briefing President Richard M. Nixon on the full array of her nation's economic and military needs.

While the White House says there is no need for an immediate decision on her plea for more planes, Nixon has saluted the "brave and courageous people" of Israel.

Toasting the 71-year-old prime minister at a White House dinner last night, Nixon said:

"We hope that as a result of our meeting that we will have taken a significant step forward toward that peace which can mean so much to the people of Israel, to the people of all the Mideast and also to the people of the world."

Nixon added that the people of Israel deserve and have earned lasting peace.

Mrs. Meir told Nixon that when she returns home "I will tell my people ... don't become cynical, don't give up hope, don't believe everything is just judged only by expediency."

Some differences of opinion, acknowledged following Nixon's hour-long talk with Mrs. Meir earlier yesterday, apparently center mainly on procedures rather than on Israel's bid for additional military hardware.

U.S. officials hope negotiations through the Big Four powers—the United States, Soviet Union, Britain and France—could bring a compromise solution that would avert open and large-scale war in the Middle East.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Red Press Warned

VIENNA (AP) — Party chief Nicolae Ceausescu told Romania's press yesterday to toe the official line in a speech underlining that the Communist regime's liberalism in foreign policy does not extend to the home front.

The speech threw cold water on speculation in some Western quarters that the Romanian regime's refusal to follow Moscow's dictation in economic and foreign policy was the prelude to liberal reforms within the country.

Ceausescu spoke in Bucharest on the 25th anniversary of the first issue of the official party newspaper Scienteia. He charged some cultural and artistic publications were not fighting "negative tendencies" in the arts, "trends that have nothing in common with Romanian realities."

Mansion For Sale

The mansion, on a one-acre site in the Los Feliz district of Los Angeles, has been used as the setting for several films, including "Jane Eyre" and "Too Much, Too Soon."

It contains 16 rooms and six baths, and has terrazzo marble floors, stained glass windows, thick concrete walls and an immense entry hall two and one-half stories high.

Pool For Press?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon, who favors salt water swimming, is reported discussing closing his indoor swimming pool to make more working room for White House reporters.

Nixon has made almost no use of the White House pool which was used regularly by Presidents Lyndon B. Johnson, John F. Kennedy and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The President recently took some reporters on a tour of the proposed new location for the press quarters. As for the current press room, Nixon said his dogs have better quarters.

GNP Rise Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Commerce Department figures indicate there will be a large increase in the Gross National Product for July, August and September.

The previous increases this year in the total of goods and services have been in the neighborhood of $16 billion per quarter. Some indications are that the third-quarter figure would be somewhat larger. If so, this would put the GNP at an annual rate of $933 billion.

OPERATION CHECKPOINT LUGGAGE

An armed British trooper searches a luggage compartment of an auto entering Londonderry, North Ireland. It is typical of measures being taken as massive security precautions go into effect following renewed violence. Yesterday British troops raised barbed wire barricades in the Roman Catholic Bogside area and called in reinforcements. Meanwhile, it was reported from Belfast that Britain's Home Secretary James Callaghan will make a return visit on Oct. 9 and 10 to check progress in restoring peace to the embattled province. School Chiefs Rebuffed In Teacher Plea

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Local school officials have been rebuffed in their latest attempt to block a threatened school strike.

They invited Teachers Union president James Ballard to discuss the union's strike demands at today's meeting of the Teachers Negotiating Council.

But Ballard yesterday refused and reiterated the union demand that it be permitted to negotiate for its members separately instead of through the council, which is dominated by the Classroom Teachers Association.

Ballard asserted the council was ineffective and unrepresentative and "has no right to present our demands to anyone."

The school authorities maintain that legal barriers prevent them from meeting the demand for separate negotiations even though Ballard insists this point will lead to a citywide strike Oct. 8.

School board president Laurel Glass said the board wants to hear the union demands. She said a court injunction won by the teachers group and the refusal of the state Legislature to pass a board-backed bill for separate negotiations has left the board in a "silly hands-tied position."

More men's hats are made in Connecticut than in any other state.

100 Arrested At Michigan Uprising

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Nearly 100 demonstrators were arrested early today when 250 state and city police moved into a student-occupied office building at the University of Michigan.

The police entered at the request of university President Robben W. Fleming, a university spokesman said.

The students had occupied the Literature, Science and the Arts building late yesterday in a dispute with the school administration over who should run a new university bookstore.

The persons arrested were taken by bus to the nearby Washtenaw County Jail.

It was not immediately known what charges would be lodged against them. Those arrested included the president and vice president of the school's student government.

Except for one brief clash between police and a group of demonstrators, there was little resistance to the arrests.

A volunteer first aid worker reported treating eight demonstrators for minor cuts. There were no reports of injury to police.

William Haber, assistant to Fleming, said damage to the building was one door kicked in and one window broken.

A crowd of 3,000 to 4,000 people—most of them students—gathered outside the building and jeered police as they moved in.

City and university authorities were rebuffed in two earlier attempts to serve an injunction ordering the students out.

About 400 students left the building after the university obtained the injunction but the others stayed put.

Police Chief Walter Krasny and university attorney Peter Forsythe were turned back in separate attempts to enter the building to serve the injunction.

About 1,300 students outside the building refused to let the two officials through.

Washtenaw County Sheriff Douglas J. Harvey had withdrawn about 100 deputies, declaring he would not stand by while the university president "plays footsie with some radicals."

"If Fleming had not been so wishy-washy to start with, he would not have to face now the damage those young people have done to the inside of the building," Harvey said.

The students were protesting a decision by the school's regents to put the bookstore under the control of the administration.

High School In Brooklyn Under Guard

NEW YORK (AP) —Three security guards were on duty today at Brooklyn's Erasmus High School where a gang of opponents of U.S. policy in Vietnam invaded two classrooms Wednesday, tied up the teachers and urged the students to go to Chicago for demonstrations.

The board of education assigned the guards yesterday at the request of Mayor John V. Lindsay, who also asked a special detail of detectives to investigate the incident.

The gang, about 17 in number, entered the huge school unnoticed and marched into two adjacent classrooms on the third floor, chanting "Ho Chi Minh lives—on to Chicago!" As they harangued the students, the teachers objected.

The radicals tied the teachers to their chairs, taped their mouths and continued the polemic. Then they slipped back out of the school.

Police later arrested two men and a woman outside the school as they distributed pamphlets from Students for a Democratic Society. The three pleaded guilty to loitering and two were sentenced to 10 days in jail. The other man received a 15-day sentence.

The principal, Saul Israel, said he thought the group did not contain any Erasmus students.

The board said the security guards will wear blue uniforms and will be empowered to make arrests. They will not be armed.

Cong Sympathizers Raid Harvard Campus

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A score of youthful Viet Cong sympathizers assaulted staff members and broke windows in a 10-minute raid yesterday on Harvard University's Center for International Affairs.

The youths entered the building shouting, "We're going to close this place down!" and, "We are SDS!", an apparent reference to the antiwar Students for a Democratic Society.

Ronald Brunner, a research fellow conducting a seminar on political participation, was pushed to the floor and kicked in the groin.

Dr. Benjamin H. Brown, an adviser, was cut on the ear when one of the group hit him on the head and pushed him down a flight of stairs.

Maury Feld, a librarian, was wrestled down a stairway when he tried to call police. His telephone was ripped out.

An elderly secretary was treated for a bruised hip.

Asst. Prof. James Kurth said he was punched repeatedly in the face.

"We're doing this to you for what you're doing to the Vietnamese people!" one attacker yelled.

Outside the building, other members of the gang pelted windows with rocks and used red paint to stencil slogans on the walls, including, "NLF will win."

Witnesses said no Harvard students were recognized among the gang members and police said there was no evidence any were involved.

Equipment Stolen

A $127 typewriter and an $89 adding machine were stolen from the front display window of the Marin Stationery Store at 1224 Fourth Street, San Rafael, sometime Tuesday or Wednesday, police reported today. The machine were taken during business hours or while a janitor had the door open that evening, store owners reported.

Hospital Seeks Cheaper Cooling

Alternative plans to air condition Hillcrest Hospital and bring down installation costs were reviewed last night by the hospital directors.

Loree Smith, hospital administrator, said the board would revise the specifications for the air conditioning and hopes to receive lower bids for the work.

All bids were rejected last month when the low bid came in at $89,435. The board had hoped to spend no more than $60,000.

Mrs. Smith reported that the storage building at the rear of the hospital is nearly complete with only electrical work yet to be done.

The board approved an expenditure of $3,000 for nursery equipment. Included will be isloettes and infalarms which monitor the physical conditions of babies.

Wilson Reluctantly Decides Parish School Must Close

The tiny parish school of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Belvedere, long the object of a neighborhood fuss, is going to have to close its doors, a Marin Superior Court judge has reluctantly decided.

Although Judge Joseph G. Wilson has not yet formally ruled on a 6-year-old law suit brought by neighbors against the school, he has indicated in a memorandum that he is forced to find the school an illegal use for the land on which it sits.

The judge said that the law is on the side of six Belvedere property owners — all neighbors of the church and school — who sued in 1963, the year the school opened, for an injunction to close the school.

The deed of sale for the church land prohibits its use for a school and allows only "religious worship purposes."

Although the judge noted that he had heard eloquent testimony about the religious experience which children attending the school gain, he said he could not interpret the law broadly enough to cover a day school.

The plaintiffs, Herbert Scheier, Gerald Sheehy, John Ostrom and their wives, complained that the school, at 3 Bay View Avenue, would subject them to "objectionable noise, traffic congestion, parking problems, invasion of privacy and other inconveniences . . ."

The neighbors seem to have won the legal battle but they did not get much sympathy from Wilson.

"It is easy to feel considerable sympathy for the defendants, and it is difficult to feel an awful lot of sympathy for the position of the plaintiffs," he wrote in his memordandum.

He also noted that the school has been in operation for a number of years and appears to serve a useful social purpose, adding that he doubted if "the plaintiffs actually were very much distressed or inconvenienced by its existence."

Rev. John S. Thornton, parish rector and school headmaster, said yesterday that the school's board of directors will meet at 8 p.m. Oct. 13 at the rectory, 5 West Shore Road, to decide whether to appeal the judge's decision, move the school or close it.

Thornton said he believed James Walsh, attorney for the schools, will ask that Wilson's decision not take effect until the end of this school year.

Moving the school would be costly, said Thornton, but "It would be tragic if the school had to close immediately and very sad if we had to close at all. I just don't know what the board will decide to do."

Thirty-two kindergarten through third grade students attend the school in the parish hall under the tuteledge of four teachers. Most go onto public school after completing the third grade, he said.

Parents from Belvedere, Tiburon, Mill Valley, Sausalito and Richmond pay $700 a year tuition for each child attending the integrated school, which includes daily chapel services.

Herbert Scheier, who was both a plaintiff and lawyer for the plaintiffs, refused to comment on the case.

Judge Wilson said it will probably be at least two months before he signs the judgment in the case. He added that the case was tried about 18 months ago but that the final briefs were only filed this summer.

Ferry Advocate Pleads For Takeover Because Of Strike

More than 200 Marin ferry commuters, strike-bound for almost four months, may have their beloved Tiburon service restored by the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District.

At least that was proposed today by the bridge board's most earnest advocate of getting the district into the ferry business, Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco.

Saying that 600 ferry commuters had been "deprived" because of a strike against the operator of the service, Harbor Carriers, he suggested that the district charter two boats from the company and resume the service. "We ought to get our feet wet literally," Leonoudakis told directors, who met in the Marin County Civic Center.

Both the company and the striking union, the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association, "are willing to work with the district," he said.

The charter operation could be a "pilot project" to help get the district into the ferry business, he added. He did not offer any estimate of the cost to the district of the charter.

Several directors murmured what appeared to be general approval of Leonoudakis' proposal, which was referred to the board's transportation committee for "early consideration."

(Harbor Carriers told the Independent-Journal it carred 220 to 230 commuters on the Tiburon service before the strike.)

Also referred to the transportation committee was Leonoudakis' proposal that the district apply to the federal government for a $10 million grant to get into a full-scale ferry operation using three 250-passenger, 30-knot hydrofoils.

Leonoudakis said he also was exploring the possibility of a five-month trial between Marin and San Francisco of one of the hydrofoils, starting perhaps next May. The vessel is about to be used in the Caribbean, and could be available off-season, he said.

In a related action, the directors set a meeting of the "committee of the whole" at 9:30 a.m. on Oct. 16 in district offices at the toll plaza to consider Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring's proposed $7.7 million commuter bus system.

Director John E. Dearman of San Francisco doubted the board would approve the bus plan in light of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors opposition to it, but the district's attorney, Jerome B. White, commented he was "quite optimistic they'll reverse their position." He did not elaborate.

Golden Gate Bridge And Highway Board Also:

BIDS — Accepted the only bid, $25,420 by the International Business Machine Corp., to provide 124,000 commuter ticket books, a six-month supply, and accepted as lowest of three bids, at $2,534, a bid by Production Engineering of San Anselmo to provide $1,000 plastic traffic tubes.

SURVEY — Received report from Luehring that questionnaires will be handed to motorists from 4 to 10 p.m. on Oct. 5 to determine their origin, destination, and purpose of Sunday travel across the bridge. The survey is part of a study of tourism being made by Marin County.

GNOSS — Was welcomed belatedly to Marin by Supervisor William A. Gnoss, who said he was "caught in a traffic jam," a remark apparently designed to jab the directors into acting on Luehring's commuter system.

BONDS — Voted unanimous opposition to pending federal legislation to remove the tax free feature of municipal bonds.

LAKE — Set its Oct. 31 regular board meeting at 10 a.m. in Lakeport, Lake County.

TRIAL

cisco recuperates from surgery and can represent Black Panther leader Bobby G. Seale, of Oakland, as chief counsel.

Tigar asked Judge Hoffman for permission to withdraw from the case. The judge said he would approve such a move only if all the defendants would agree to Tigar's withdrawal and unequivocally accept representation by other lawyers of record.

This ruling apparently was intended to halt the continued objections by Seale and defense counselors that he was not represented by his chosen counsel.

Earlier, Seale asked the trial be delayed until Garry had recuperated. Judge Hoffman denied the motion, as he previously rejected requests for continuances based on the same grounds.

A jury of two men and 10 women was seated yesterday. Two of the women jurors are Negroes. Most of those chosen are housewives. Four women alternate jurors also were agreed to by the prosecution and defense.

The defendants are charged with conspiracy to violate the antiriot provisions of the Civil Rights Act.

Defendants are Bobby G. Seale, Jerry C. Rubin, 31, and Abbie Hoffman, 31, both of New York and leaders of the Youth International Party — Yippies; David T. Dellinger, 53, New York, editor of Liberation magazine; Rennie Davis, 29, Chicago, an antiwar organizer; John R. Froines, 30, Eugene, Ore., a University of Oregon chemistry professor; Thomas E. Hayden, 30, a founder of the Students for a Democratic Society, and Lee Weiner, 29, of Chicago, a Northwestern University research assistant in sociology.

JUDGE

"religiously followed the decisions of the Supreme Court."

Mitchell's comments marked his first public statement on Haynsworth since the judge was nominated by Nixon and hearings began in the judiciary committee.

Haynsworth's nomination was opposed in the hearings today as based on political considerations and in conflict with equal rights. Much of the testimony was of the same nature yesterday.

Randolph Phillips, chairman of the Committee for a Fair, Honest and Impartial Judiciary, said Nixon's selection of Haynsworth was to repay southern delegates who supported the President at the Republican convention.

"There never has been a nomination selected on such a low basis as this one," Phillips said.

Gary Orfield, an assistant professor of politics and public affairs at Princeton University, said the role of the Supreme Court will be crucial in years ahead in enforcing civil rights laws.

"At this decisive juncture, the appointment of Judge Haynsworth would symbolize a willingness to see our highest court turn away from the cause of equal rights," he said.

NIXON

made many constructive moves toward peace and "now is the time for Hanoi to make the next move."

Asked about the reasons behind Russia's failure to respond to nuclear arms negotiations, Nixon replied Secretary of State William P. Rogers expects an answer soon. He said he did not know the reason for the delay in a reply by the Russians.

Asked about U.S. involvement in Laos, Nixon said "There are no American combat forces in Laos." he said the U.S. is concerned about North Vietnamese forces in Laos.

Nixon said the U.S. has been providing some logistical support and training to combat the North Vietnamese forces but emphasized that "there are no American combat troops in Laos."

The questioning swung to the government of South Vietnam and Nixon said the Thieu regime is in power there because of an election.

"Until the people of south Vietnam have another election, that mandate should not be reversed," he said.

On another domestic front, Nixon was asked about the policy of getting more Negroes into trade unions, and said it is essential that black Americans — "all Americans" — be treated equally.

"We intend to continue . . . to attempt to make progress in this field because in the long run we cannot have construction unions that continue to deny" membership to all, he said.

Nixon was asked about published reports that the administration acted on school desegregation in Mississippi under pressure from Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Service Committee.

"Anybody who knows Sen. Stennis and who knows me," Nixon said, knows that the senator would not threaten to harm an administration bill in retaliation for desegregation actions in his state.

Asked about the student moratorium and other campus demonstrations against the Vietnam War, Nixon said there was little the administration could do about running college campuses.

The Family, which lives in an old gray, three-story 18-room house at 234 Hawthorne Avenue, describes itself in the suit as "a single family united and related by ties which among other things include common religion, beliefs, philosophy and mode of living."

The 10 aduts and six children who comprise the family make their way by selling health bread and macroburgers at two restaurants and through a food concession at a San Francisco ballroom.

The family is vegetarian and lives simply in the former convalescent home atop a hill.

Noonan believes that in addition to being the cosmic Messiah, he is the "comforter" and Michael the Archangel, all in the same personage.

Not only are Noonan, and two other family members, Diane Nelson, Herta Taylor, bringing the suit to have the law declared unconstitutional on their own behalf, but they also say they are speaking "on behalf of all persons similarly situated."

They claim that others affected by the definition of family are "far too numerous to bring before the court."

Fatty Tissue Absence Not Happiness Cause

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—To adherents of the slimming diet cult, total lipodystrophy, which is the complete absence of fatty tissue in the body, may sound lake a dream come true.

Blonde Hair Count

NEW YORK (UPI)—Whether or not blondes have more fun, they do have more hair than any other people. There are approximately 180,000 hairs in the average blonde head of hair, compared with 120,000 for a brunette and only about 50,000 for a redhead, according to researchers for a hair products company.

BOLIVIA

cabinet said that "in accordance with the guidelines of the great transformations which the country needs," the government has chosen "persons whose political backgrounds are really revolutionary."

In one post there was no change. Foreign Minister Gustavo Medeiros was retained. He now is in New York attending the U.N. General Assembly.

Bolivia thus joined Argentina, Paraguay, Brazil and Peru among South American governments under military rule. Elsewhere in the hemisphere, Panama, El Salvador, Honduras and Nicaragua are under direct or indirect military control.

The coup took place while Siles Salinas was out of La Paz. He is reportedly in Chile where he will go into exile.

A communique issued by the commanders of the three armed forces of Bolivia said they took action "to avoid the danger of anarchy, capitulation and disorder."

They said the country was calm but suspended all activities in the nation and urged people to stay in their homes.

Siles, 54, was elevated to the presidency last April when President Rene Barrientos was killed in a helicopter crash.

Siles, was known as a strict constitutionalist and, as vice president, headed the convention which wrote Bolivia's current constitution, the 16th in the nation's history.

His father, Hernando, and half brother, Hernan Siles Zuazo, both were presidents of Bolivia. Hernando died in exile in Peru, and Hernan is in exile in Argentina.

Also Leave The Sales Tax Money

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — After she lost a tooth, 10-year-old Mary Read asked her mother about the possibility of the Good Fairy leaving a coin under her pillow to compensate for the missing molar.

"I hope the Fairy doesn't forget," the child worried.

"She won't," her mother said.

"And I hope," the child added, "that she doesn't forget the sales tax."

Cranston Fires Salvo On Nation's Zooming Inflation

wood Empire this year, but he was not complacent, as he urged efforts to attract persons from further away and cooperation among everyone for the tourist industry.

"From the beginning of time man has been a tourist," said Potts, recalling Adam's side trip to a fruit stand.

Potts, president of the Oregon State Senate, warned however that "all too often in our haste to build more, we disregard the conservation of the very things that attract our tourists."

Speaking in the afternoon, after he had received a plaque commerating 50 years of work of the Save the Redwoods League, was Richard M. Leonard of San Francisco.

Leonard reported efforts for a national redwood park began in 1908 by a group of Humboldt County women. "It only took 60 years," he added.

He said coordinated efforts by conservation groups had made it possible. Such efforts also have spurred industry, highway builders and others to pay more attention to conservation, said Leonard, a founder and former president of the Sierra Club.

Highways were the topic of several other speakers yesterday, including Virgil P. Anderson, legislative representative of the California State Automobile Association.

Anderson talked of the current split of state highway funds which gives Northern California 45 per cent and said he seriously doubts that the committee majority which makes that split possible will continue.

"We can expect a change in the allocation of these funds," he warned, indicating Southern California would receive more.

Anderson also predicted the constitutional revision committee would recommend repealing the article which limits the use of gas tax funds to highways and urged convention-goers to work to protect the highway funds.

Also discussing highways were Alan S. Hart, chief engineer of District 4 of the state Division of Highways and Harold G. Larsen, District 1 engineer.

Hart covered Marin, Sonoma and Napa counties, concentrating on the division's beautification program.

He showed a series of slides as examples, including green plastic divider strips, the new freeway sign at the main San Rafael exit and various plantings along Highway 101.

Because it is an old highway, "we have to rely on cosmetic devices," said Hart.

He also reviewed highway projects in progress and planned and reported that within next year all of Highway 101 from the Golden Gate Bridge to Greenbrae will be four lanes.

He said the new San Rafael viaduct would be completed in June 1970 (although the contract calls for June 1971) and the work from the north end of the viaduct to San Pedro Road would end in two months.

He urged chambers of commerce, the association and other groups to work for the highways they believe are most important.

A community marina was discussed by C. Paul Sutterley, superintendent of the Berkeley Marina.

Sutterley reported there are 600 miles of shoreline, not counting the ins and outs in the Redwood Empire. "It has failed to realize its water potential," he said.

He reported, "We are not taking advantage of the money available from the state of California to develop water resources. The state has more money than they know what to do with by way of developing harbors," he said.

Fourth Accused In Fatal Holdup

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A fourth man was charged today with first degree murder in the slaying of four women in a holdup Wednesday at a savings and loan company office.

Police identified him as Karl Engle of Cincinnati and said he was arrested at 1 a.m. He lives in the Price Hill-Delhi area where the four victims lived.

Search for two of the three men earlier charged in the case extended into Kentucky. Police said the two, Watterson Johnson, 22, and John Leigh, 20, spent Wednesday night at a motel in Whitley City, Ky., 200 miles south of Cincinnati.

Raymond Kassow, 24, in custody and charged in the case, was bound to a Hamilton County grand jury without bond after he appeared in police court on a preliminary hearing.

Minor Injuries In Auto Mishap

Roberta Cueller, 32, of 4 St. Gabriel Court, Tiburon, was treated yesterday at Marin General Hospital for back bruises after her car overturned at 3:15 p.m. in front of 120 Lyford Drive, according to a hospital spokesman.

Mrs. Cueller's two daughters, aged 5 and 23 months, received minor scrapes and bruises during the accident.

Tiburon Sheriff's deputies said the brakes on Mrs. Cueller's car apparently failed as she drove down Lyford Avenue and she turned the car into an enbankment to stop the runaway car.

Levinger Gets Second REA President Term

Levinger, 59, is a past president of the Santa Rosa Chamber of Commerce, the Santa Rosa Rotary Club and Junior Achievement of Sonoma County.

A native of San Francisco, he attended the University of California at Berkeley and the University of Nevada. He spent 10 years in the advertising business in San Francisco before World War II. He moved to Santa Rosa following his discharge.

Other officers re-elected yesterday were Andrew Flynn of Crescent City and James A. Nealis of Eureka, vice presidents; J. Harold Robinson of Willits, treasurer; and Edwin A. Frediani of San Francisco, attorney. Carney J. Campion will continue at general manager.

Elected to the executive board by counties were R.M. Douglas of San Francisco County; J. Galen Foster of Marin; Joe McClelland of Sonoma; Donald J. McFarland and John R. Hancock, Napa; Earl W. Fullerton and Ray Regalia, Mendocino; Reed Hardester, Lake; Arthur Stadler, Paul Hoff and Pat Dorsey, Humboldt; Marylee Thompson, Del Norte, and Harry Christiansen, Josephine County, Oregon.

Nude Sunbathers Fined $50 Each

Two Sausalito men who admitted in Marin Municipal Court yesterday that they had disturbed the peace by nude sunbathing on the beach north of Muir Beach State Park Sept. 8 were fined $50 each.

Sentenced by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. to pay the fine were Geoffrey Lawrence Tobey, 27, and Kenneth James Pearson, 28.

Quentin Disposal Site Runs Afoul

I-J Special Report

HAYWARD — San Quentin Disposal Site, which is polluting the bay with toxic wastes, was given three weeks to eliminate the problem or face court action under a cease and desist order adopted yesterday by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board.

Two breaks in the dike on an adjacent property have flooded the dump, the board's staff reported. But the dump's solid waste consultant, Bruce Bernhard, assured the board that the situation will be cleared up before the deadline.

The breaks were closed Tuesday night, he said, and three pumps are working around the clock to dewater the trash site.

The board's staff had recommended an Oct. 6 deadline, a date set previously in a conference among representatives of the staff, dump and Marin County District Attorney's office, but Bernhard won an extension to Oct. 15.

The owner of the adjacent property is Holiday Magic, San Rafael cosmetics firm owned by William Penn Patrick, according to the board's executive officer, Fred H. Dierker.

Bernhard said the regional board's decision two weeks ago to go to the district attorney was "uncalled for." He noted that San Quentin Prison dumped 800,000 gallons of raw sewage a day for a week, an action that did not send the board's staff to the district attorney.

The board also voted to ask the City of San Rafael not to renew the use permit for the 175-acre dump, which expired on Wednesday, unless the site is dry by the deadline. Norris Rawles, city director of public works, said yesterday that the city would comply with the request.

Dierker reported that the dikes had been broken since April, and that the dump operators had done nothing about the pollution despite several requests from the board's staff.

If the repaired dikes fail again, said director Sidney S. Lippow of Martinez, then the dump operators will have grounds to sue the adjacent property owner.

The Bay Water Quality Control Board Also:

DUMPS — Adopted regulations of dumps to prevent pollution of surface and ground waters, and requested local agencies to withhold new permits for dumps until requirements have been set by the regional board. The regulation, which will require ratification by the State Water Resources Control Board, will affect more than 90 dumps, including the San Quentin Disposal Site and Redwood Sanitary Land Fill north of Novato.

RATINGS — Adopted new ground rules to rate polluters earmarked for enforcement proceedings, giving extra weight ot violations that endanger public health.

BOLINAS — Asked Bolinas Community Public Utility District to report to the board on Oct. 23 its progress on joining with Stinson Beach County Water District to build a $2.3 million sewage system. The Bolinas district did not meet the regional board's May deadlines for completing the joint agreement, but Dan P. Norris, engineer for the Stinson Beach district, reported their completion was near. The Bolinas district is under a board order to cease dumping raw sewage into the mouth of Bolinas Lagoon.

NOVATO — Approved progress by Novato Sanitary District toward installation of new disinfection equipment, due to be completed under a regional board order by Dec. 20.

RANCH — Agreed to consider dropping at its November meeting a cease and desist order against the Smith Brothers' Dairy outside San Rafael, after receiving a staff report that the dairy herd has been sold and the ranch is about to be put on the market for subdivision.

RICHARDSON BAY — Postponed further action against polluters in Richardson Bay upon receiving a staff report that the Marin County Board of Supervisors "have taken definitive action toward elimination of these discharges."

SAN RAFAEL — Received staff report that further enforcement actions against San Rafael Sanitation District will be recommended to the board at its November meeting. The district pollutes the bay with raw sewage when rainfall swells flows beyond the treatment plant's capacity.

PETALUMA — Asked the Sonoma County District Attorney's office to expedite court action on a 1966 cease and desist order by the board against James Gilardi, owner of a site on the lower Petaluma River where there are 10 small cabins discharging directly into the river.

SAN FRANCISCO — Adopted toughened requirements for two sewage discharges by the City of San Francisco totaling 76.5 million gallons a day of sewage. The board's staff showed colored slides showing gigantic fecal plumes discoloring the bay down current from the two discharges.

TB In Mexico

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—There are about 20,000 cases of tuberculosis in Mexico per year, with four or five proving fatal, health authorities say.

Free-Lance Dilys Jones Dies In Crash

Dilys Jones, 47, free-lance writer and newspaperwoman who formerly lived in Sausalito, was killed Wednesday night when her car went off a cliff near Laguna Beach.

Miss Jones, who recently moved from Sausalito to San Francisco, reportedly was on a visit to her mother, Mrs. Olive Jones, at Laguna Beach.

Early this year she was employed in the public relations department of Roos-Atkins, but most recently she had been free-lance writing.

Miss Jones attended Stanford University and in 1945, was employed by the San Francisco Examiner as a reporter. She left the newspaper in 1950 to enter public relations, but later returned to write Sunday features. In 1965, she resigned to work in the public relations department of Air West.

Miss Jones was the daughter of the late Idwal Jones, a noted San Francisco writer, who died in 1964.

Fire Hose Ordered For Stinson Beach

The Stinson Beach Fire Protection District board has approved purchase of 500 feet of new hose from the Van Pelt Fire Engine Co. of Oakdale at a cost of about $500, board president Joseph Lawrence reported.

He said the board, which met Wednesday night, also is seeking estimates on a four-wheel drive fire-fighting unit and is continuing its testing of the district's water mains and hydrants.

San Francisco Faces Construction Halt Over Delay Of Sewage Plan

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

HAYWARD — San Francisco's construction boom may be ordered to a sudden halt if the city continues stalling promised action on a pilot project designed to solve its entire sewage problem.

This was the clear warning yesterday by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board, which was angered to learn that the city's supervisors voted to delay the project.

The city's chief administrative officer, Thomas Mellon, who blamed the delay on citizens' action insisted it was unlikely the delay would cost the city its $1 million federal grant that is to pay for most of it.

But the regional board members cited a letter from William D. Bishop, project officer for the Federal Water Pollution Control Agency, that the delay will require that his office to "carefully reconsider the continued eligibility of the project for federal grant support."

The warning of the penalty against the city was made by board chairman William C. Weber of San Mateo. The board, after a new state law takes effect Jan. 1, can bar any discharger from increasing the flow of pollutants — in effect, a bar on any new construction that will need sewer service.

The new law also empowers regional boards to seek $6,000-a-day fines against polluters, but the penalty cited by Weber is expected to be more effective. It not only would deprive the city of huge increases in assessed valuation, but also would subject the supervisors to a storm of protest from builders blocked by the regional board.

The experimental sewage disposal plant was about to be built in the Marina, at the foot of Lyons Street, Mellon said, but residents of the area complained after the regular public hearings that they had not known of the plan. The plant should go in the Presidio, they said, a plea that led the supervisors to vote 7-4 on Sept. 2 to delay the project pending discussion with the Army about relocating the plant onto the Presidio.

The plant would replace the six-foot discharge pipe that now dumps raw sewage and globs of grease in front of a picture window at the St. Francis Yacht Club.

The regional board's executive officer, Fred H. Dierker, said the supervisors' vote to reconsider the location meant the city could not meet the regional board's Oct. 1 deadline for construction to begin. As a result, this coming rainy season's polluted waste from the area continue to be dumped in the bay.

San Francisco's unique problem is that it combines storm and sewage lines, so that anything wetter than a drizzle overwhelms its antiquated sewage treatment plants, thus dumping massive quantities of raw sewage in the bay.

The experimental plant is to test new methods of treating the huge flows that bypass the regular treatment plant.

Mellon told the directors he was "almost sure" the Army would decide whether to accommodate the plant on the Presidio before the regional board's Oct. 23 meeting. He did not mention that the city's engineering staff then would have to begin extensive testing to determine the feasibility of a Presidio site.

Dierker said that a cease and desist order, which must wait on the first rains, against the city for failing to install the plant would be ready for adoption at the board's January meeting. The order would set the legal stage for penalties against the city under the new law.

Mike Hanging Is Fatal To Singer

NEWCASTLE - UPON - TYNE, England (AP) — British pop singer Richard Stott was electrocuted early today while handling a microphone on the stage of a local night club.

Stott, 22, had just been playing an electric guitar. He stepped up to the microphone to announce his next song and collapsed. His partner, Elizabeth Sykes, was unhurt.

Another pop singer, Michael Joseph Hayes, 21, died on Aug. 10 after touching electrical apparatus on the stage of a London club.

LOCOMOTIVES DERAIL, KILLING THREE

Wreckage of five linked diesel locomotives of the Southern Pacific Railroad lies outside a tunnel near San Luis Obispo, a grim testimony to the death of three trainmen. The three were killed yesterday when the engines drailed. The engines, however, were not pulling any cars.

Conservation Deemed Good Vote Fodder

SACRAMENTO (AP) — From the misty North Coast redwoods to the smog of the Los Angeles basin, conservation is emerging as a major political issue in California, party leaders agreed today.

"I think it's a good issue, a damn good issue," said Leon Cooper of Los Angeles, the state Democratic party's Southern California chairman.

Increasing public concern with the quality of environment will appear during the 1970 campaign, Cooper predicted.

"Candidates are going to have to be discussing these issues," he added in a telephone interview. "It is a major issue because of absolute need."

GOP AGREES

Dennis Carpenter of Newport Beach, the state Republican chairman, said political involvement of conservationists is becoming evident throughout the state and country.

"Previously, a conservationist was one of those unusual and small group of people who oppose anything that involved turning a leaf," Carpenter said.

But now, he added, "it is no longer an abstract concept."

"Everyone who drives in Los Angeles, or lives there, has to be painfully aware we have air pollution. Anyone who camps knows that the places where he can go are extremely crowded and there are beer cans all around."

Carpenter said of conservation as a political and legislative issue: "Practical realities have pushed it to the fore."

"People can't turn away from it and ignore it," Carpenter said.

FISCAL IMPACT

Both he and Cooper said they didn't think that tough stands on conservation issues, such as the Santa Barbara oil spill of early this year, would hurt their campaign contributions from industrial sources.

"The kind of political leader the people are going to look towards is the one who stand up on these issues . . . I think political leaders have to recognize the breadth of the constituency and depth of feeling on that issue," Cooper said.

$3.7 Million Shakeup Urged To Cut State Computer Bill

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California could save $4 million a year by consolidating and reprogramming the state executive branch's costly 48 computers, an expert said today.

The one-time cost of doing this would be $3.7 million, reported Charles P. Smith, the state director of management services.

Just consolidating "excess equipment," without redesigning or reprogramming the computers, would save $1 million a year, Smith said.

The suggestions came in his draft of a long-range master plan for use of computer equipment by the state government.

Smith also proposed the elimination of his own office, of the State Electronic Data Processing (EDP) Policy Committee and the Intergovernmental Board on EDP. They would be succeeded by a cabinet-level Department of EDP Services, Smith said.

Smith said the plan proposes that emphasis in use of state computers be shifted from "internal administrative processes" to public service, particularly in the areas of social service, education and law enforcement.

The report said the current state budget includes about $52.5 million for electronic data processing, with 67 computers and an estimated 3,600 fulltime state employes. The figures do not include the University of California, which has many computers.

The master plan proposes these steps over a five-year period:

Redesigning of inefficient EDP programs.

Merging of consolidated systems and resources into six EDP service facilities.

Smith said, "If currently inefficient systems were redesigned and reprogrammed, the current number of 48 computers in the executive branch would be reduced to 26 over approximately a four-year period resulting in a onetime expenditure of approximately $3.7 million and net annual savings of approximately $4 million in equipment in operations personnel."

He added, "However, if only excess equipment were consolidated, without significant redesign and reprogramming, the current number of 48 computers would be reduced to 34 over approximately an 18-month period resulting in onetime expenditures of approximately $500,000 and net savings of approximately $1.1 million annually."

Ex-Kennedy Worker Takes Reins Of Unruh's Potential Campaign

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The man who lost to Barry Goldwater Jr. for Congress has taken charge of Assembly Democratic Leader Jesse M. Unruh's expected 1970 campaign for governor.

He is John Van de Kamp, 33, who joined the U.S. Justice Department under the late Robert F. Kennedy and served there almost eight years. He lost to young Goldwater in a special election earlier this year.

As staff director, Van de Kamp is in command of a growing Unruh political operation in Los Angeles that includes a new press secretary, Eli Bregman, 42, a producer for Los Angeles radio station KNX.

"It's no secret," said Van de Kamp. "We are organizing what could be turned into a full-fledged political campaign."

Unruh is touring the state in what he describes as an assessment of support for a gubernatorial campaign. He is expected to announce late this year or early next year whether he will enter the Democratic primary in 1970.

A potential opponent is Democratic Mayor Joseph Alioto of San Francisco. Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan is expected to seek a second term.

"I think he'll run, if it were my guess today," Van de Kamp said of Unruh. He added, though, "I can't commit him."

In addition to Van de Kamp and Bregman, a staff is being assembled with strong ties to Kennedy and to Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif. Unruh directed Kennedy's last campaign, in the 1968 California presidential primary, and was at his side when he was shot to death on the night of his primary victory.

Frank Vaca, a former Kennedy political worker, now is an administrative assistant to Unruh. Robert Kolos, who has been working with Cranston, is assisting Unruh with radio and television public relations.

Taking part in the operation in an unofficial capacity is a Los Angeles attorney who isn't well known to the public, but has been Unruh's closest adviser for more than a decade.

He is Frank Burns, who got his first taste of statewide campaigning last year when he helped Unruh direct the Kennedy campaign.

If he runs, Unruh's advisers say he'll try for a low-key primary campaign, saving his strength for the general election against Reagan.

Polls taken a month ago show Unruh leading Alioto in a primary race, but trailing Reagan in a general election. No polls have been taken since the latest development — Look Magazine's article alleging Alioto had alliances with Mafia leaders. Alioto, denying the allegation, filed a $12.5 million libel suit against the magazine.

Van de Kamp said he thinks Unruh will be able to appeal to the minorities who supported Kennedy and to the middle class voters who have been increasingly conservative in recent elections.

"I think he'll be very strong in that category," he said.

Van de Kamp is a relative novice in politics. A member of a prominent Southern California bakery owning family, he was in the attorney general's office from 1960 to 1967.

As director of the attorney general's executive office, he supervised administration of 93 U.S. attorney's offices around the country. He served briefly as U.S. attorney in Los Angeles, and then quit to run against Goldwater in a special election.

Goldwater had little trouble winning in the Republican district, but Democrats said they were pleased with Van de Kamp's showing in a strongly Republican and conservative district.

Army To Bare Spy Case Details Defense Appeals To President

LONG BINH, Vietnam (AP) — Military spokesmen said the Army would disclose tomorrow details of its case against six Green Beret officers accused of murdering a Vietnamese spy.

Sources said the disclosure also would identify the alleged "trigger man."

The path was cleared to make public details of the charges after Army legal authorities rejected for the second time a defense motion to prevent release of the information.

The alleged victim was Thai Khac Chuyen, a Vietnamese identified by the Green Berets as a double agent for the Americans and the North Vietnamese. According to defense accounts, he was ordered executed by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency. The CIA has denied any such involvement.

Henry B. Rothblatt, civilian attorney for two of the accused men and for a third against abeyance, said release of the details by the Army is "an attempt to inflame public opinion."

"It's another example of the military authorities' unethical conduct, a deliberate attempt to prejudice the case," he said.

Attorneys for three of the accused Green Berets appealed to President Richard M. Nixon today to dismiss the charges.

Defense attorneys said they believed the direct appeal to the President was unprecedented in American military law.

The motion was submitted to Maj. Gen. G.L. Mabry Jr. to be sent to Nixon in his capacity as commander in chief of the armed forces. Mabry is commander of U.S. support troops in Vietnam, which includes the Special Forces, and it was he of the Green Berets and military trial for six of them on murder and conspiracy charges.

Claiming that the case had been "irreparably tainted by command influence," the motion asked Nixon to dismiss all charges against three of the six officers and "in the alternative to issue a new series of charges."

The petition to the President was filed on behalf of Col. Robert B. Rheault, 43, of Vineyard Haven, Mass., the former commander of all Green Beret forces in Vietnam; Maj. David E. Crew, 33, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and Capt. Leland J. Brumley, 27, Duncan, Okla.

Defense attorneys said that if approved, the motion would apply to all six of the men who have been ordered tried. The others are Maj. Thomas C. Middleton Jr., 29, Jefferson, S.C., Capt. Robert F. Marasco, 27, Bloomfield, N.J., and Capt. Budge E. Williams, 27, Athens, Ga.

Service Station Sign Approved

The Novato Plan Review Committee yesterday approved of plans for a 9-by-17-foot addition to the Shell service station at 2085 Novato Boulevard in the Novak Square Shopping Center.

The addition would be constructed to the rear of the service station and would not be visible from Novato Boulevard, according to Planning Director Brian W. Mattson.

Westwood Homes Inc. was given approval by the committee of plans for a duplex at 1612 Center Road adjacent to the Westside Terrace apartments.

Jerry Taylor was given approval for plans for three signs totaling 170 square feet for the Cloudburst Car Wash on the west side of Highway 101, south of Hill Road.

Green Berets' Spy Called Triple Agent

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP) — The dead spy in the Green Berets murder case in Vietnam was more than a double agent, Newsday columnist Flora Lewis says — he was a triple agent owing allegiance to South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

In a copyright story in yesterday's editions, she said she learned the new information in a report from Vietnam. She did not elaborate on her source.

She said the spy, Thai Khac Chuyen, was working with the Special Forces on orders from Thieu, who wanted to see what U.S. troops were doing across the border in Cambodia and Laos. Thieu did not trust American explanations he received, she said.

Chuyen allegedly was killed by the Green Berets, Miss Lewis said, when the Central Intelligence Agency found out he also was working for the North Vietnamese. The CIA recommendation for Chuyen was to "terminate with extreme prejudice," she said.

The Army intended only to wound Chuyen to frighten him into talking, she said, but the assailant wounded the spy fatally.

When Thieu learned of the slaying he rushed to Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, according to Miss Lewis, and demanded to know "why you are killing my people."

"Only then, with Chuyen dead," she wrote, "did any American know the answer to the riddle of the agent's loyalty. It was to Saigon."

Marin City Planning Coordinator Voted

Marin City Council last night recommended Jack Williams of Oakland for the post of community coordinator for Marin City's $75,600 planning project.

The council's recommendation will be presented Tuesday to Marin County Board of Supervisors which has the power to hire the project coordinator.

The federal planning grant is being processed through Marin County, which will put up $25,000 in planning services as its matching contribution.

After screening of seven candidates by a committee, the finalists were Williams, personnel manager for Aladdin Heating Co., San Leandro, and Fred Williams of Oakland, employed by the Opportunities Industrialization Center in Oakland.

By secret written ballot in open session, the council voted 5-1 to recommend Jack Williams for the $13,500-a-year post.

The two top candidates spoke briefly at open session before the vote was taken.

Paul C. Zucker, Marin County planning director, told residents his department would serve as a consultant to the Marin City Council.

He also said that direction should come from the council on "what you want us to explore . . . I can't say what you want. You have to say that yourself."

At the close of the session, Ulysses J. Montgomery, San Francisco urban consultant, urged action toward forming a Marin City Development Association, a nonprofit development corporation, owned and controlled by Marin City residents.

He suggested that to get the incorporation articles filed the council designate five persons, consisting of two from the council and three from the community, as incorporators.

Once the corporation was started, "everyone would be a member and could elect directors," Montgomery said.

Since it was a late hour and two new council members weren't familiar with the incorporation proposal, the council postponed action until a special meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Manzanita Center.

The Marin City Council also recommended to the Housing Authority that Earle Stanton of San Francisco, who is providing television antenna service to Marin City, be declared in default of his contract.

The council announced that an election for seats on the council will be held Oct. 7 at the Economic Opportunity Council office at the Manzanita Center.

Council members Mrs. Charles W. Hodges, Ronald Foster and Joseph Knighten were absent.

Pompidou To Visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Georges Pompidou of France will visit the United States for about a week next February, the White House announced today. Pompidou will be in Washington Feb. 24 and 25, then visit other American cities.

Rent Orders Freeze Asked By Council

Marin City Council last night recommended that the Marin County Housing Authority put a freeze on moving notices and rent raises while efforts are under way to change rental policies.

The action was sparked by a report from Mrs. Alice Curry of 147 Drake Avenue that she was given notice to move because she was "overincome."

Wallace K. Shepherd, administrative assistant with the authority, reported that the income limits are set by law and the top for one person is $4,700 a year.

If Mrs. Curry cannot find another place to live, she can remain and her case would be reviewed in 60 days, he said. "We're not talking about putting people out, just giving notice," he said.

Mrs. Curry said moving would put her in jeopardy, and felt the policy was penalizing people when they "try to be independent."

Shepherd said there is a tenant committee working on a set of proposed policy changes to be submitted to the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Mrs. Thelma McKinney said there is little housing available in Marin, and since "$5,000 is considered poverty," the limit should be raised.

Residents "are barely getting by now," and if they have to "move out where rents are higher, they aren't going to make it at all," she said.

Shepherd said in view of existing regulations, "all I can do is work to make changes."

Melvin Randolph, public housing manager in Marin City, reported that three moving notices "are now in process." He said that action on Mrs. Curry's notice would be withheld for 60 days.

Mrs. Curry also reported that her rent had been raised from $77.35 to $99.35 a month. Randolph commented: "We can't stop raising rents," which are based on income.

Shepherd explained that rents are based on 22 per cent of gross income, and residents suggested that they be based on net income.

Councilmen then voted 5-0 there should be a moratorium on moving notices for exceeding income limits and on rent hikes until policy review is completed.

Fails In Try To Take Life

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A man charged with three execution-type murders unsuccessfully attempted suicide with an overdose of sleeping pills in jail, police said today.

Robert Jahmelik, 36, was taken to San Francisco General Hospital, where physicians said they pumped his stomach for at least 10 sleeping tablets.

A grand jury indictment charges him with killing three persons in a Haight-Ashbury District hippie pad. Police said the three victims all had been narcotics users and may have been "burn artists" — pushers who sold inferior drugs.

Five Hurt In Three-Car Crash In Waldo Tunnel

Five persons were injured yesterday in a three-car pile-up in the Waldo Tunnel on southbound Highway 101, the California Highway Patrol said today.

Treated at Marin General Hospital were: Susan Parker, 26, of Cambridge, Mass., for forehead cuts and bruises; Anne Lillian Turnanjanin, 56, of San Francisco, for a fractured rib; James M. Radcliff Jr., 25, of San Francisco, for bruises on the left temple and elbow, and Mary Bobbitt, 25, of San Francisco, for skull bruises.

The fifth person, Katherine Jane Sisler, 46, of 212 Brookside Drive, San Anselmo, was to see her own physician, the patrol said.

The patrol said Radcliffe's car swerved and overturned in the tunnel because of defective equipment and Mrs. Turanjan in's car swerved into the side of one driven by Mrs. Sisler as she tried to avoid hitting the overturned car. Miss Bobbitt and Miss Parker were passengers in Radcliffe's car.

Black Point Tract Plans Draw Fire

The North Marin Federation (of homeowners associations) will oppose the request of Jack D. Kinney to substitute 1,800 mobile homes for planned single-family dwellings when it comes before the Novato Planning Commission at 8 p.m., Oct. 6 at the Novato Community House, according to secretary Evelyn Johnson.

Kinney has asked the change in plans for 2,300 family dwelling units on the area between Novato Creek and Highway 37 west of Black Point.

Arnold Paptiste, president of the federation, reported that mobile homes tax revenues are not sufficient in the support of schools.

The federation expressed interest in helping the development of Pioneer Memorial Park on Simmons Lane and will ask the Novato Civic Foundation how it could help, Mrs. Johnson said.

The federation also voted to give $25 toward the housing conference to be held Oct. 25 at Dominican College and contribute some money if necessary to the Novato Creek study committee.

Deputies Donate $9,000 To Six Charity Groups

The Marin County Deputy Sheriff's Association has given $9,000 to six local charitable organizations, the association has reported.

Receiving checks from the association at a recent meeting were the Marin County Epilepsy Society, the Multiple Sclerosis Society of Northern California, the Marin chapter of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults, the Marin Aid to Retarded Children, the Southern Marin Boy's Club and the Marin chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation.

Mill Valley Teachers, Staff Split On Raises

The Mill Valley Chapter of the California School Employees Association last night voted not to join the Mill Valley Teachers Association in asking that salary negotiations be reopened.

According to secretary Barbara Powers, the chapter voted to reaffirm its previous agreement with the Mill Valley School District board not to ask for new ngotiations during the 1969-70 school year.

Meanwhile, the teachers association executive board has called a special meeting for 8 p.m. Monday to discuss possible action if the school board refuses its request to negotiate an additional 3 per cent salary increase over the 5 per cent granted in June.

Action to be considered by the teachers, according to association president Pat Assimakis, includes meetings with parents anl community members and advertisements in newspapers outlining the teachers' stand, demonstrations and, possibly, sanctions against the district.

No strike is contemplated, she said.

Some 92 teachers and staff members voted Monday night to seek the additional salary hike, according to Miss Assimakis, because the school district received $200,000 in additional funds after the salary agreement was reached June 30.

The 5 per cent increase followed lengthy negotiations during which the district's finances were audited by the California Teachers Association. The auditors affirmed the district's claim it could not pay higher wages and recommended the teachers settle for 5 per cent.

On July 7, trustees heard that the county schools office had under-estimated the areawide tax returns by $130,000 and that an additional $100,000 could be expected for the 1969-70 school year.

At that time, Miss Assimakis said, the teachers immediately asked to reopen negotiations but got a "flat refusal" from Trustees Joseph E. Bodovitz and John H. Cutler, board representatives on the negotiation committee.

The additional 3 per cent hike would place the Mill Valley District in the average range of raises given this year by Bay Area school districts, according to Miss Assimakis, who said it would cost the district $70,000.

She said district salaries have been slipping in comparison to other districts in the Bay Area and that this year Mill Valley did not place among the top 30 out of 79 districts compared.

"It would take a 12 to 15 per cent increase based on last year's salaries to put Mill Valley back in the top 30," Miss Assimakis said.

Last year the district granted a 4.4 per cent increase, in 1967-68 a 5.45 per cent hike and in 1966-67 a 5.77 per cent increase.

Parking Lot Status For Quentin Show

San Quentin Prison officials said today the visitors' and employees' parking lots at the prison will be open tomorrow for visitors to the inmate arts and crafts show. Parking is free.

However, a charge is assessed for parking in a private lot up San Quentin Street from the main gate.

A Sound Sleeper The Age Of 100

A beautician was unable to arouse the 100-year-old woman and thought she was dead. The police were called but suddenly Mrs. Priest "just woke up."

Policeman Wayne Costa, who answered the call, radioed back that all was well and that it was just a case of a 100-year-old woman who was hard to awaken from a nap.

Mrs. Priest, who said she was unaware of efforts to awaken her, added that she was embarrassed about the distrubance she caused.

FEATURED THIS SATURDAY

The 1959 Rolls-Royce Silver Cloud sedan that Erik Krag of Mill Valley will be showing at Sunday's Concours d'Elegance at Napa's Silverado Country Club is not the first, but the tenth, Rolls-Royce he has restored to mint condition. Krag finds the work a relaxing and satisfying hobby. How he got involved in it and how he goes about restoring one of these fine automobiles to their original glory is the subject of a special feature story in tomorrow's I-J Marin Magazine.

More and more, Marinites are looking to the College of Marin and its Kentfield campus as a sort of community center, housing a wide variety of special activities and services. The man responsible for scheduling and carrying out this growing schedule of lectures, concerts, seminars and other community events is Dr. Eugene Farrar, director of community education. And how he goes about that assignment is told in tomorrow's issue of the I-J's weekend supplement.

THE SAN LEANDRO IN ITS PRIME

Policy On Transfers Established

A new policy on interdistrict pupil transfers that includes compensation for the cost of educating a new student was approved unanimously last night by the Larkspur School District board.

Dist. Supt. Milton Cohen said that under the policy non-neighboring districts from which a student's transfer is approved will be charged the difference in cost to the Larkspur district of educating the student.

Cohen explained that his district receives only state aid for the new student and no tax monies. The difference, he said, is considerable.

The county board of education on Tuesday approved transfer of a student from Sausalito School District to the Larkspur district, despite the opposition of the Sausalito district board. The pupil was one of seven permitted to transfer out of Sausalito.

Cohen told the Independent-Journal he understood the child had enrolled in a private school, but that if she did seek entry into a Larkspur school, the new policy would apply.

The Larkspur School District board also:

DELEGATE — Endorsed David D. Ring, a member of the Tamalpais High School District board, as a delegate to the California School Boards Association assembly.

BUSSING — Was told by Patchetts Transportation that it would not send school buses up Christmas Tree Hill because of steep grades and lack of turning spaces. About a dozen parents had sought bus transportation for their children.

LIBRARY — Heard a report that more than 11,000 items were purchased for the school libraries in the 1968-69 school year and that the average number of books per child was 16, compared with five in 1965. Last school year, a total of 19,000 library items was circulated, 12,000 more than in 1965. Parents donated more than 2,000 hours of time to process library materials last year.

CUSTODIAN — Hired David Saldana as custodian at Larkspur-Corte Madera School, replacing Bruce Wilson, who resigned to move. Saldana's salary will be $475 a month.

CONFERENCE — Said it would attend the California School Boards Association school administrators conference Dec. 6-9 in San Francisco.

HEART — Heard that Dr. Richard F. Corlin of the public health service branch of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare would not be conducting a demonstration project in the district to assess cardiac risk factors in children because of a lack of federal funds.

Diane Bessee Will Head San Rafael Freshman Class

Two hundred of the 550 freshmen cast ballots, Miss Ward said.

Robert Seymour was elected vice president, Nancy Leydecker, director of social affairs, Jerris Greenblat, secretary, and the Bulldog Express, led by Jo-Ann Jurchan, as yell leaders.

Elected to the student congress were Dan Alderson, Craig Bacharach, Stanley Carlsen, Chris Dill, Sue Duryee, Margaret Kitchin, David Plotkin, Rochelle Rebsamen, Jamie Sheldon, Nancy Garbarino and Jane Bell.

There was no competition for top seats except the post of secretary, where Candi Chamberlain and Chris Dill were defeated by Greenblat.

School Employees Fill Committee Vacancies

Reagan Paddles College Chiefs

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan accused state colleges and university administrators today of putting their priorities "upside down" — protecting themselves first and helping students last.

It was one of his harshest condemnations yet of professional educators, and a flat rejection of their current complaints that his budget economies must result in hardship for students.

He said such administrators worry more about building themselves fancy homes, luxurious buildings and protecting colleagues than they do about helping students.

Reagan said if his remarks "indicate a disenchantment with certain parts of the educational establishment — it is a disenchantment which is felt not only by the taxpayer, but by many educators and also many students."

Californians are committed to a great educational system, the chief executive declared. However, he added:

"They grow restive, for they are not committed to any system which is inefficient in its operation or top-heavy with establishment functionaries, or preoccupied with fancy homes or professional prerequisites."

His comments about the home apparently referred to the action by University of California regents in spending about $500,000 on refurbishing a home for University of California President Charles J. Hitch.

Reagan's speech was prepared for a luncheon of the California Savings and Loan League.

He bluntly told state college and U.C. administrators who are complaining about his orders to cut basic spending next year below current levels that he is standing by his economy program.

"Academic freedom — which must be preserved — was never intended to grant fiscal license to an annointed few. And, it was not conceived as a screen for excessive spending or irrelevant activities."

In carrying out economy orders, he said, administrators are expected "to do this in such a way that they put the educational needs of the students first — not last — in their priorities."

But when they react to such orders, the governor said, "instead of looking for ways to reduce per student costs, the educational establishment comes out with some shallow argument . . . The only answer they have is — not to cut out the fat — but to cut out the students."

This Reagan said, "puts the lowest priority on the students, and the highest priority on saving the establishment. And that is upside down," the governor added, emphasizing his words.

TV Cable Antenna Given Nod

G'Tec, which holds the cable television franchise for Novato, last night was granted a use permit to install a 74-foot television antenna on Lynwood Hill by the Novato Planning Commission.

The company had asked the North Marin County Water District to lease a site for its antenna at South Novato Boulevard and Sunset Parkway, but the district board postponed action until the city approved. The lease will go before the water board again at Oct. 17.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

REZONING — Approved rezoning from signle family to planned residential 2.9 acres on the south side of De Long Avenue between Reichert Avenue and Railroad Avenue for Manuel T. Affonso. This must be approved by the Novato City Council.

VARIANCE — Approved a variance for two 20 foot cut banks with a service road between them for Jack D. Kinney for the Novato Convalescent Hospital at Hill Road and Indian Valley Road.

Bicycle Stolen

Lee E. Wilkening of 1004 Irwin Street, San Rafael, reported that his bicycle, of undetermined value, was stolen from the Montecito Shopping Center parking lot on Third Street, 6 p.m. yesterday, police report.

Fairfax Planners Ask Formal Rezone Plea

The Fairfax Planning Commission last night asked Mrs. Lillian Skillman of 161 Bolinas Road to submit a formal application rather than the letter she sent, to rezone her property from commercial to multiple.

Commissioners were divided over whether the property, now the site of a single family residence, should remain commercial and afford a dividing point between the business district and residential area, according to commission chairman Albert E. Gately.

Quest To Aid Non-Readers

By BETTY FROST

Why can't this child read?

A teacher who left the classroom seeking the answer to this question 15 years ago has concentrated on methods to improve the reading and study habits of normal children.

Mrs. Frances De Witt of San Rafael, nationally recognized for her work in education, has recently received substantial local support from fellow members of the Soroptomist Club of Marin County. The club has given a $10,000 grant to the De Witt Research Center in San Rafael to be used specifically to develop an auditory screening test for kindergarten and first grade pupils. This would bring the Screening Test for Auditory Perception, developed under Mrs. De Witt's guidance, for grades two through six, to younger children.

THE HANDSOME gray-haired woman explained, "The earlier the identification of auditory-perceptual inefficiencies, the better the prognosis The STAP is a teacher-administered test, which can be given in the classroom. The teacher can refer to the results immediately and the children who need help can get it earlier."

Originally from Florida, Mrs. De Witt served in the Women's Army Corps for over three years during World War II. She went to college on the G.I. bill, selecting Dominican College in San Rafael for her studies. She was graduated from Dominican College in 1950 with the B.A. degree in social sciences and qualified for the Elementary Teaching Credential. She taught the fourth grade in the Larkspur-Corte Madera Unified School District for two years and was a teacher in the San Francisco Public School system the following year.

She returned to Dominican College where she worked under the direction of Dr. Dorothy Blackmore to learn more about those few children who couldn't seen to learn to read. One case study undertaken at that time was working with a boy in the seventh grade who was unable to read.

The boy learned to read and Mrs. De Witt claims that she really learned more than he did. Such experiences confirmed her decision to make reading teaching her specialty, and she began the serious studies which she continues today.

SHE WAS invited to work with the Dominican Upper School, establishing a reading and study program. Later a testing program, speed and power reading instruction were given in both the upper and lower schools of Dominican, and Mrs. De Witt was asked to do the same thing for Marin Country Day School. She was also a consultant to the Marin County Superintendent of Schools in the mid-1950s when reading skills programs were being established.

In 1959, Frances and her husband, Merrill H. De Witt, an engineer with radio and television stations, toured the United States, visiting reading clinics throughout the country.

At the end of the summer Frances De Witt started the first of the three organizations dealing with reading training which she has founded. The De Witt Reading Clinic in San Rafael, now in its 10th year, is the largest private reading clinic in the world, according to its founder.

An outgrowth of the clinic is the publication, Academic Therapy Quarterly, which has a circulation of 6,000 throughout the United States and abroad. It is in demand in England and Australia. The controlled circulation includes college libraries, individual teachers, parent groups, and pediatricians. Her latest baby is the De Witt Research Center, a nonprofit corporation.

"OUR HOBBY" says Mrs. De Witt, "gradually became a serious business. Mr. De Witt is now the business administrator of the enterprise which employs around 50 people.

"In the beginning," the reading expert said, "I didn't understand that subtle perceptional disfunction could relate to auditory-vocal problems and influence the ability to read. At first I tried phonics, but some couldn't learn by that method.

"I went all over to get more information and worked up techniques. We must study new ideas and not close our minds, then relate these ideas to what has gone before. Now we invite experts from all over the country to come to San Rafael and give workshops for our staff.

"The schools do a tremendous job for all children, but a few normal children do have trouble learning.

"I BELIEVE in providing a controlled functional climate to meet the emotional needs of the student and in teaching in a structured environment in an unstructured way."

Could the expert explain the frequently used term "dyslexia"?

"About three years ago," she said, "there was an awakening about dyslexia, which I consider to be the inability to integrate auditory and visual linguistic symbols in proper spatial position and time sequence. The term dyslexia carries the connotation of minimum cerebral disfunctioning. This inability is manifested when the child cannot associate the speech symbols he has learned to receive and express during his pre-school years with the representative visual symbols he must learn during his initial school years.

"Dyslexia is only one area of symbolic learning disabilities. Arithmetic difficulty, dyscalculia; spelling and writing problems, dysgraphia, are others."

SHE HAS taught at Dominican College and at Sonoma State College Extension, is a consultant to a bakers' dozen school systems and in demand as a speaker at educational conferences throughout the country.

Among the highlights of her professional appearances was addressing the College Reading Association in New York in 1961, as keynote speaker; a conference of experts called together in a conference at San Marco, Tex., by the Senate Investigating Committee to discuss dyslexia; and an appearance on KQED with Dr. Donald Durrell, a reading expert whom Mrs. De Witt had studied and admired.

She is a member of the Orton Society, formed to continue the work of the late Dr. Samuel Orton in spatial disorientation; the Soroptomist Club of Marin County, the California Association for Neurologically Handicapped Children, the Council for Exceptional Children and the International Reading Association.

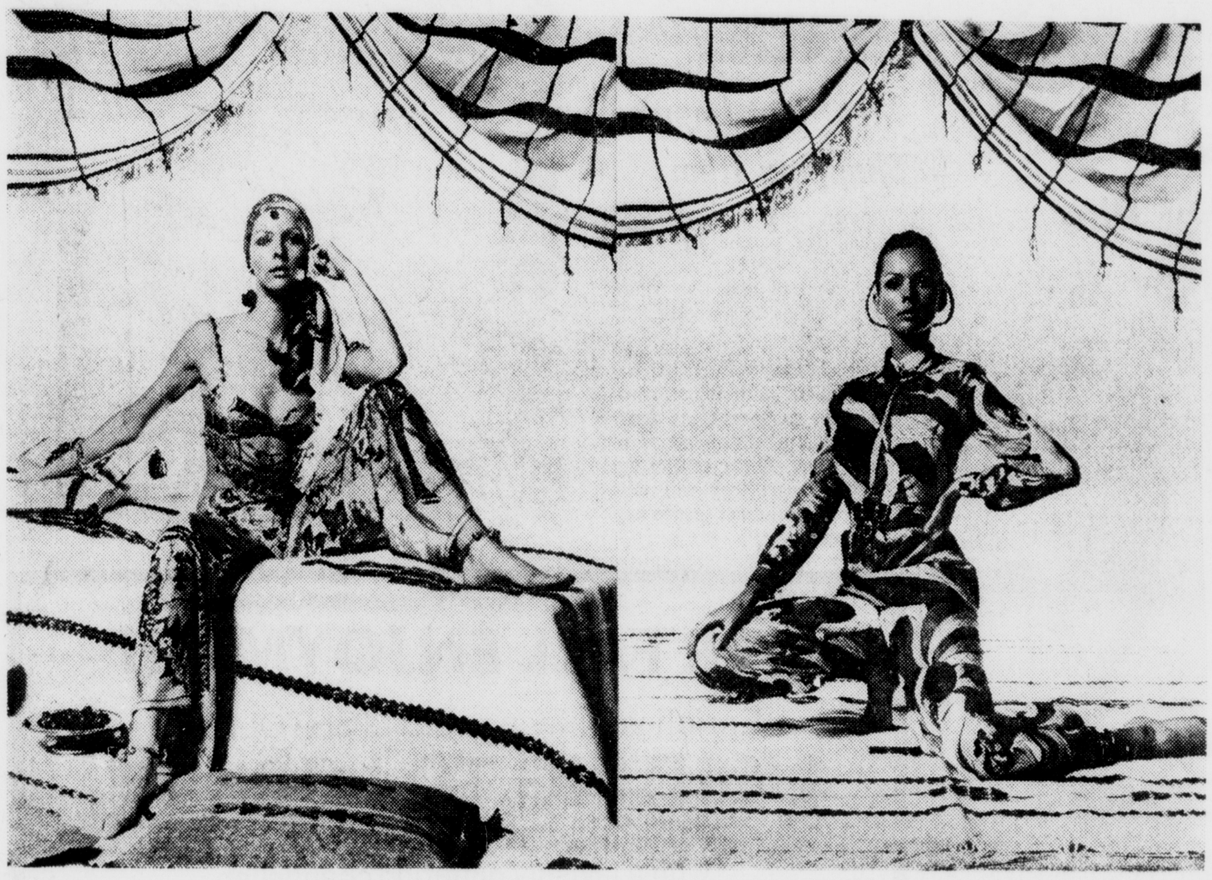
Why Women Volunteer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Volunteer work is as much an American tradition as politics and apple pie. Why do busy women get involved in volunteer work?

The Federal Bureau of Labor Statistics says a study showed that 38 per cent of the women volunteers simply wanted to help people, a specific organization or a community; 29 per cent expressed a "sense of duty" to their communities; 36 per cent said they simply enjoy doing volunteer work and gain self-satisfaction from it.



HAREM LOOK—SEXY AND EXOTIC

Time Ripe For Fashion Star

By MARIS ROSS

LONDON (UPI)—The world of fashion modeling is ripe for the discovery of a great new name.

But the question is, who will be the new Twiggy, or the new fatter-than-Twiggy if the poor girl has to hoist around the heavy floor-length maxi coats that Paris fashion seers are trying to popularize.

One girl has already been dubbed "the Face of 1970." She is Sue Baloo, 21, from the Beatles' old home town of Liverpool. Sue, with a wistful, fragile look and long dark hair, joined a London model agency that sent her round to see David Bailey, the photographer who made Jean Shrimpton and Penelope Tree into front-cover figures. She found herself signed up that very day for a trip to Paris to be photographed by Bailey for Vogue magazine.

She is a sort of pocket-size edition of the average model. She is only five feet, one-inch and measures 31-24-33.

Felicity Green, fashion editor of the London Daily Mirror, gave her a try-out as a photographic model with a certain degree of success, but reported:

"At the moment Miss Wallentin speaks rather more English than she understands, and when asked over the blast of the Rolling Stones' version of 'Honky Tonk Women' to move her left foot, she was inclined to raise her right hand."

Sylvia, 23, who started modeling just a few months ago, is remarkable for tackling the profession wfth the handicap of a crippled leg.

She must wear a light brace but hides it by putting on two pairs of tights. She has done very well in a short space of time with beauty shots concentrating on her face —glowing smile and fine features.

Vicki Hodge is one of the highest paid girls around London right now. But at 22, after six years in modeling, she wants to break new ground and is having a try at movie work, undeterred by the lack of success that Jean Shrimpton met on screen.

"I'm starting quietly and sensibly with small parts," Vicki said.

Twiggy, 20, is going strong. She is photographed exclusively by her manager, Justine de Villeneuve, 30, who took to a camera only in the past year or so and turned himself into a professional photographer — with a little help from Twiggy.

BANK WOMEN TOLD

Demand Requires Women Executives

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The banking and finance industry is turning to women for executive talent, Thyra Thomson, Wyoming secretary of state, said Tuesday.

"The industry is expanding much faster than the supply of young male executives," Mrs. Thomson said. "It is turning to women because the alternative is to reduce growth."

Mrs. Thomson, who as secretary of state is also securities administrator, spoke at the national convention of the Association of Bank Women, a group representing about 20,000 women bank employees. She said both state and federal laws are necessary to adquately regulate banking and securities markets.

"State securities laws do not duplicate federal laws but complement them," she said. "They offer greater protection for the public."

Mrs. Thomson said state laws generally cover areas not touched by the federal laws, such as regulating sale of stock offerings.

"We feel that these state laws offer the public protection against the quick-money, in and out, white-collar criminals" who deal in questionable securities.

The meeting of the 700 bank women ended yesterday.

Storing Towels

If linen storage area is crowded, try folding towels and washcloths lengthwise, then rolling tightly to store.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Divorced Mothers Aren't Best Tenants, From Landlords View

DEAR HELEN:

I agree with "Unwanted Mother of Two, Aged 21" because I too am an unwanted mother. Except I have five children and am 26 years old, divorced.

No apartment or house owner wants to rent to a woman with children but no husband. I can't really blame landlords. They have seen too many places ruined. The bad tenants spoil it for those, like me, who would take pride in her home.

Yes, we are discriminated against, but if the cards were turned, we might be the first to refuse rental to the likes of us. If you loaned an expensive dress to a friend and she purposely ruined it, would you again loan another dress to almost the same kind of friend? — SAME BOAT, BUT UNDERSTANDS

DEAR HELEN:

A word from landlords. These young divorced mothers look for places they can't afford, then never pay the rent, while ruining the property. Evictions are very costly. By the time they're out, you have hundreds of dollars of repair bills ahead of you.

Why not have the county put these mothers and their children in their housing units and collect rent from their allotment?

Anyone who cries crocodile tears about those poor dear things has never owned an apartment house. — W. P. R.

DEAR QUEEN SOLOMON:

You have had a lot of things in your column that made me chuckle and some that made me angry, but this is the last straw!

You sided with Miss 42-24-34 who wanted to have her bust reduced. Tell her you weren't speaking for the men in this world, but your own selfish, catty self.

What nature built, let no plastic surgeon destroy. We want beauty, and the vision of a size 42 (top I mean) wafting along the avenue is enough to make a male's day.

Every time I pick up a magazine I see ladies' panties with false bottoms, bras with padding, padded stockings, false eyelashes, corsets to pull you where you bulge, wigs. . . . I tell you a man can't be sure nowadays just what is in the package. Even swimming suits have built-ins.

Please don't go telling girls now that they can surgically be pared down to an uninteresting size 34. She'll turn "Wow!" to woe! — WORN OUT WOLF

DEAR WORN OUT:

Unless you can speak from experience — the experience of a gal who carries all that extra weight around until she's stoop-shouldered — then hold your fire, man.

A pendulous size 42 needs help and not from bug-eyed wolves. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Is it really necessary for the telephone company to jingle the telephone if you accidentally on purpose leave it off the hook, so you can get a nap? I can't afford one of those no-ring attachments you described, and every time I've tried to take the phone off the hook for needed rest, the operator alerts me. — INVASION OF PRIVACY?

DEAR I of P:

I understand that in some areas this jingle system has been eliminated. However, I have often been very grateful when the operator alerted me to my oversight. — H.

Women Go Back For Refreshers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Most women who return to college after graduation do so either for personal enrichment or to update their employment potential.

Mrs. Kathryn Ashcraft of Ohio School University's School of Home Economics said a recent survey showed a majority of women graduates were interested in returning for refresher courses and graduate work in their profession.

"A significant number, however, preferred to take courses such as drama, art and music appreciation for their own enjoyment," she said.

"With more employment potential education for work is a major reason for increased college enrollment by adult women," Mrs. Ashcraft explained. "Many women are enrolling in standard college programs."

She said the increase in school enrollment of adult women of all ages was "phenomenal."

Women who do more than one-half the purchasing at supermarkets still buy as impulsively as they did five years ago, according to a recent survey.

Meat, however, is not on the impulse list. More than 70 per cent of the shoppers think about fresh meat purchases ahead of time. In fact, 28 per cent of the shoppers report they will visit another supermarket just to buy their meat.

Birth Control Failures Bring Bitterness, Blame

Federal regulations requiring packages and advertisements for contraceptives to carry approximate effectiveness rates were called for by a national women's magazine.

The magazine's report of a survey of 248 women seeking abortions revealed that a large percentage experienced repeated contraceptive failures, which many bitterly blamed on their doctors or the birth control method they were using.

The results of the survey showed that many women switched to the birth control pill from other contraceptive methods "after the shock of an unwanted pregnancy," although "deep anxieties" about the pill's side effects were widely voiced.

"Among those women who did receive professional advice, many expressed bitterness against their doctors," the article said, adding that "their bitterness extended to such highly promoted methods as the intrauterine device and foam."

Of those using contraception, the common complaint was the failure of the method. "Despite the common assumption that expert advice is easily available, only 39 per cent received contraception from physicians, only two per cent from birth control clinics or other medical services," the article reported.

"Another disturbing result" of the survey was its finding that better-educated and high-income women, whom population experts claim are more efficient contraceptors, were "responsible for the same failure rate" as other groups. Almost half of the women surveyed had incomes of over $10,000 a year; half had completed at least one year of college, 10 per cent at least one year of graduate school.

Such statistics "show a breakdown in our whole system of birth control," the magazine charged. "Because of inadequate contraceptive techniques, irresponsible medical advice, human error, and other causes, a critically high percentage of women are becoming pregnant against their will."

While recognizing the pill as "the most effective of all methods," the article reported that "the sequential type was the object of frequent attack," with "a small but significant failure rate."

$100 Million Lehman Art Treasure To Met

NEW YORK (AP) — The famous Robert Lehman art collection, which experts say might have brought $100 million if sold, has been given to the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

It includes approximately 3,000 objects, among them paintings by Rembrandt, Botticelli, El Greco, Goya, Van Gogh, Renoir, Gauguin, Matisse and Picasso.

Other works, covering the 12th through the 20th Century, are Western European bronzes, tapestries, jewelry, furniture and ceramics.

Thomas P. F. Hoving, director of the museum, described the collection as priceless and said it was "practically without parallel in the history of private collecting."

The collection was assembled by Lehman of the New York investment banking family, who was the museum's board chairman when he died Aug. 9 at the age of 77.

The gift to the museum was announced by his son, Robert Owen Lehman, and Edwin L. Wisl, president of the Robert Lehman Foundation, at a dinner last night touching off the Metropolitan's year-long centennial celebration. The 100th anniversary is next April 13.

Arthur A. Houghton Jr., president of the Metropolitan, called the gift the largest in the history of the museum and "a crown of glittering and priceless jewels."

The collection is presently housed in the late banker's 18-room apartment and five-floor mansion, both in Manhattan.

The collection will be "maintained together as an entity within the museum forever," the museum reported yesterday at a news conference.

Robert Owen Lehman said he and his father often had discussed the future of the art treasures and that together they had decided they would go to the Metropolitan.

He said they felt the collection would be "preserved in perpetuity," and would be shared "not only by the people of this country but also the people of the world."

Nixon Asks Escalator Plan For Social Security Checks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon has proposed $4.25 billion hikes in Social Security reforms and benefits plus a new, automatic locking of the system to cost-of-living increases.

The President outlined his unexpectedly broad proposals for Social Security change yesterday to a Congress apparently eager to go him one better on better liberalization.

Beneficiaries have seen inflation whittle almost 8 per cent from their Social Security checks since the last increase in March 1968. Accordingly, the chief executive asked a catch-up, 10 per cent, across-the-board benefit hike effective for payments in April 1970.

To meet the cost, President Nixon recommended an increase in the maximum earnings subject to Social Security levies from $7,800 today to $9,000 beginning Jan. 1, 1972.

But he also asked that legislated contributions for both employers and employes be pared between 1971 and 1976.

Instead of a jump from 5.2 per cent to 5.7 per cent over that period, the President wants the range 5.1 per cent to 5.5 per cent. The current rate is 4.8 per cent for both worker and employer through 1970.

Present law calls for maintenance of the $7,800 wage base. Therefore despite the proposal for a levy rollback, a worker making the wage maximum would pay $54 more a year under the President's proposal in 1972—$459 versus $405.

In what will probably be his most controversial reform request, Nixon asked an end to the kind of catch-up, benefit increase he proposed for next year.

The President wants an automatic escalator provision that increases Social Security benefits by the same percentage the cost-of-living rise over a year.

The escalator would also boost the maximum wage base every two years proportionate to the increase in average earnings per worker.

Automatic increases would remove the congressional politicking that surround biannual benefit hikes, usually in election years, said White House Counselor Arthur F. Burns.

Burns, with some embarrassment, conceded the administration isn't sure whether automatic increases would ease the impact of inflation or fuel it.

Executive Home In Carmichael Is Being Urged

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Leroy F. Greene says a new governor's mansion should be built in nearby Carmichael instead of in the Capitol area to insure privacy for the chief executive.

Greene, D-Sacramento, said yesterday the executive residence should be constructed on an 11-acre site deeded to the state for that purpose. The Department of Finance is studying whether the state can accept the deeded land.

"Such a site will afford the governor privacy and the opportunity to rest, reflect and revitalize himself to confront the burdens of his great office," the lawmaker said.

WING NEST

High-Flying Mice Back To Ground

HOLBEACH, England (London Express) -- A pair of mice found the perfect place to set up home, the wing tip of Brian Chapman's plane. They built a nest and raised their family in the warm and sheltered spot.

And they got an unexpected bonus, free jaunts among the clouds.

There was only one snag, food was scarce in Chapman's hanger at Holbeach, so they resorted to nibbling the wax-coated cords which hold the canvas covering to the wing frame.

But when engineers made annual check of the three-seater Beagle Terrier they found the wing was on the point of collapsing. Now vegetable dealer Chapman will make a thorough examination of the plane every time he takes his three children out for a flight.

Chapman, 38, said, "We were very lucky not to have crashed. I never realized anything was wrong."

"It cost a considerable amount of money to put right, but it was insured for ground risks. The company had never had a claim like it before, but they agreed to pay up.

The mice must have been scared out of their wits when I was flying. I use it once or twice a week."

FAMILY

"Great Race" — Elaborate comedy-parody takes place in 1908. Two rival daredevils in a round the world auto race. Great fun.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Bridge at Remagen" —Exceptionally well made action film telling of capture of last bridge over the Rhine in 1945.

"Bullitt" — Melodrama involves gangsters, police and an ambitious politician. Violence goes all out in blood and gore for its shock effect.

"Chairman" — An American biochemist is sent on an espionage mission to Red China. Complicated plot of intrigue holds suspense high. Background in Taiwan is beautiful, art work superb.

"Hang 'Em High" — This western story of vengeance, sadism and explicit violence goes on and on in morbid detail.

"Learning Tree" — Events of a day in the life of a black boy in a Kansas town in 1920s is plot of film. Injustices shown may have been typical of times but does little to better understanding between whites and blacks. Exquisite color photography.

"Lion In Winter" — Rich, explosive drama that makes brilliant reality out of distant history. Excellent production.

"True Grit" — Amusing satiric western about a determined 14-year-old girl's attempt to track down her father's murderer. Violence and rough language an integral part of story. Grandeur of scenery is memorable.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Bonnie and Clyde" — Young man teams with pretty waitress on a grand crime spree. Treating armed robbery and cold-blooded murder as comedy will offend some viewers. Sadistic violence and explicit sex shown.

ADULTS ONLY

"Belle de Jour" — French film about a beautiful woman who leads two lives, one at home with her husband and one in a brothel.

"Good, Bad and the Ugly" — Made in Italy, adventure film is filled with ugly violence and offensive situations. Explicit brutality.

"Goodbye Columbus" — Picture of a Jewish family is real and humorous. The warmth of the people comes through all the surface vulgarity. Explicit sex and nudity.

"Last Summer" — A harrowing drama about growing up, stuns as it moves from youthful activity to depravity with a frightening combination of innocence, thwarted sex drives and destructive impulses in the skillful interplay of these groping, growing personalities.

"A Man and A Woman" — A minor masterpiece of mood photography. A tender love story of two people who have known sorrow. Love scenes frankly presented.

"Wild Bunch" — Opens and closes with two action sequences of such awesome brutality and explicit gruesomeness as to leave an unprepared audience in a state of shock. Director in attempting to make a statement about the true horror of gunplay completely deglorifies the act. Children are included in scenes, their repeated exposure to violence makes them immune to its effects with emulation of their elders the inevitable result. Top flight cast.

Marin Dining And Wining

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

It's Good To Have Restaurant Where Quality Is A Constant

If there is any one test of a restaurant's "staying power" (besides the food) that is more important than other factors, it is uniform courtesy and service and the feeling that you can take a guest to this place anytime without having to make apologies.

It usually takes more than one visit to confirm this quality.

Once, when it was still too young for people to know just how it would wear with constant use, someone suggested that I count all the bricks at Rubini's in Fairfax. The idea was, I believe, that this might make an interesting and "safe" column item in the event that things didn't work out.

I never did count those bricks. It never seemed necessary as a dodge to discussing either the food or the service, which I have always found honest and forthright.

The menu seldom changes. Chef and co-owner Gordon Jones does like to think up new dishes but it isn't a fetish. And after a fair trial if they don't prove popular, off they go. Consequently those that are left have earned their right to a continued listing. The fact is, Gordon may be a little too quick on the closeouts. He took off Corky's seafood platter because he thought it was lagging and immediately there was a hue and cry for it to be brought back. It will be.

Count Rubini's bricks if you must, while sipping your before or after dinner drink. I'd rather listen to Lowell Hawk at the piano. Oh, yes, and congratulate hostess Eve Novak on her recent nuptials. New name is Cunningham.

WHAT WAS A RUMOR is now a fact — the Linds have taken over the entire food, banquet and bar facilities at the Lodge in Novato.

In fact, everywhere you look you'll see a Lind. It seems I underestimated this family which apparently, goes into a new venture all the way.

It was my original understanding that Pete, son Pete Jr. and daughter Jackie would be the principals here. Now it's the entire lot — about a dozen of them — who've gotten into the act. Here's the roster and their responsibilities:

Pete Sr. — chief mogul and breakfast cook.

Pete Jr. — cocktail lounge.

Jackie — dining room.

Sally — (wife of Pete Jr.) — cocktail waitress.

Mike — night cook.

Nancy and Kathy — waitresses.

Doris (wife of Pete Sr.) — hospitality.

Candice — babysitter; and Cindy and Jenny — flower girls (in case you were thinking of having a wedding here).

Other staff members include Micky Johnston and Al Dye, bartenders, and Dick Young, gourmet lunch.

Breakfast, lunch and dinner are served seven days a week and there's a Sunday fizz brunch with service from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. The bar is open from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m.

For an idea of the menu, think back to what Pete used to serve at Pier 15: New York steaks, steak sandwiches, seafoods and the like.

STAN AND URSULA VALAN at the Grotto in San Rafael hope to have their general onsale liquor license validated by the first of next week.

Suggested entree here: The sole meuniere. French visitors eat it nostalgically, claiming it's just like they get at home.

STEAK AND LOBSTER has become very popular in the last few years and now you'll find it on menus far and wide. Although I know it's a favorite of many I have never been very enthusiastic about this combination, finding it too heavy.

Now there's a new one out, and so far as I know, only one restaurant in the county features it. The ingredients are much more compatible to my way of thinking — chicken and lobster. The place is Eugene's Country Club Restaurant in San Rafael, which serves it as fried breast of chicken and a lobster tail.

If you're the type to get yourself impaled on the horns of a red or white wine dilemma with steak and lobster, the new combo offers no problem. Order it white and you're right in line.

GOBBLER'S ROOSTAURANT, the Sonoma County dinery specializing in turkey entrees and smoked meats, has acquired a chef long known in Marin County, Gene Pah.

Gene, who lives in Sebastopol, near Gobbler's, was scheduled to go in here earlier this year when the restaurant was opened, but at that time he was tied up with the Robin Hill Lodge in Lakeport. Marinites will remember him for his years at Rancho Nicasio and many years ago at the Music Box in San Rafael.

A new specialty at Gobbler's, located at 5186 Gravenstein Highway South (Highway 116) between Cotati and Sebastopol, is a stuffed pig buffet, smoked pig for groups of 30 to 40 persons arranged by advance reservation.

The place is only open for restaurant service Thursdays through Sundays, with lunches on Saturdays and Sunday dinners starting early at 2 p.m. Thursday dinner special has been a complete roast turkey dinner. Now there's one more — an "Irish turkey dinner" (corned beef, if you haven't guessed).

Menu is more extensive Fridays through Sundays and now includes as an a la carte item turkey cannelloni, beside several other turkey dishes and smoked meats.

In other words, it's a vast menu, for which you can thank proprietors Fred and Silvie Vast.

WORK IS EXPECTED to start in a few days on the new Noyo River Lodge in Fort Bragg. This will be located on a hillside overlooking the Noyo River Yacht Harbor.

It will be a while before completion but the restaurant should be quite an affair, seating over 300. And it will have a Marin County man as its manager, Gregory Seubert, owner of Gregory's Restaurant on Paradise Drive, Corte Madera, who has a home on the Mendocino coast.

NEW CHEF at the Oak Tree Inn, San Geronimo is Joe Moyle, who has been out of circulation recently due to an accident. This is a return to a familiar kitchen for Joe, who was last here when the place was owned by the late Dean De La Montanya.

He is revising the menu which now boasts of such entrees as oysters Rockerfeller, baked lasagne, veal scallopini and parmigiana, steaks and seafoods.

AT MIKE CONSIDINE'S new Lion Share at 60 Red Hill Avenue, San Anselmo, the recording group Faun will appear next Thursday, Friday and Saturday before making a tour of major West Coast cities.

SONOMA'S annual Valley of the Moon Vintage Festival opens tomorrow with the blessing of the 1969 wine grapes on the eve of the National Wine Festival. Saturday highlight will be a half-hour play about early vintner Count Agoston Haraszthy. A Spanish ball will be held in the evening. There will be a parade at noon Sunday. Local wineries will hold open house during the festival.

PETER CLUTE of San Anselmo, who owns Earthquake McGoon's, San Francisco, will celebrate the ninth anniversary of that nightspot starting tonight and ending — who knows when?

It is the home of Turk Murphy and his jazz band. Other entertainment includes singer Pat Yankee and banjoman Clancy Hayes. The Carter the Great magic museum is a basement feature. Dinners are served and the club caters to young adults.

Giant Growth

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—In 30 years Mexico City has grown from 1.7 million inhabitants to 7.5 million. The city budget has increased in the same period from $4.6 million to $242 million, according to the city treasurer's office.

Pot Growing Charge Denied

Charles Vallee Moran Jr., 25, of Sausalito, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of possessing and cultivating marijuana and having a narcotics smoking device.

A preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 13.

American Legion Post Wins Citation

San Rafael Wilkins Post 37 of the American Legion has received a citation from national headquarters for outstanding service to local children and youth, post commander Yves Langlamet announced.

The efforts of Lily D. Whittle, child welfare chairman, were mainly responsible for the award, Langlamet noted.

300 STUDENTS TOO MANY

Ruling Stalls Portable Classrooms

By ALAN JONES

Classes for some 300 students in the Tamalpais High School District are being crowded and delayed because of delays in completion of portable classrooms.

Similar crowding and delay have struck other Bay Area school districts and the problem could be statewide, since the manufacturer, Speedspace Corp. of Santa Rosa, is one of the largest builders of portable classrooms in California.

Design changes which took several weeks to make and getting through official channels caused the current delay in installing eight portable buildings in the Tamalpais district. The portables were to be in place in August, but target dates now stretch into November.

The delay may cost Speedspace $100 a day, dating from the August completion dates, according to penalty clauses in the contract.

The district board signed a contract in May to buy seven portables from Speedspace for $351,152. One more, for the new Opportunity School, is to be leased for $17,427 a year. Completion dates were Aug. 7 for the seven buildings and Aug. 19 for the Opportunity School's building, which is to go in the district corporation yard.

The design changes and the delay can be traced to a state attorney general's ruling which changed the procedure for planning classroom buildings.

The state requires that working drawings of school buildings be inspected by an architect or structural engineer, then passed on to the state Office of Architecture and Construction for approval.

For several years, the Tamalpais district had sent drawings for its portables to a Southern California engineer, Ben Benioff of Sherman Oaks, who then processed them through the Los Angeles branch of the Office of Architecture and Construction.

Benioff, however, is a former designer and consultant for Speedspace. The attorney general's opinion, issued on July 11, 1968, says that inspections must be made by an architect or engineer who is independent of the project.

As a result, this year the Tamalpais district hired San Rafael architects Crawford and Banning for the review. They got working drawings from Speedspace July 7. (Plans for one building, which had special requirements, were submitted later and handled at different times throughout.)

Crawford and Banning's structural engineer reported the plans did not meet Title 21 of the state building code, and that the state probably would not approve the. Title 21 deals with resistance to side forces.

The plans went back to Speedspace July 14, architect George V. Banning said, with the required changes marked. Revised plans were returned July 18, but some changes had not been made, Banning said. The firm then went ahead and sent the plans to the state architecture office in San Francisco on July 22, and "sure enough they bounced them back," Banning said. The state even ordered more changes.

The state architects, however, did not return the plans until Aug. 14. Speedspace returned the re-corrected drawings Aug. 22, and with on-the-spot checking and corrections by the state office, the plans were finally approved Aug. 29, clearing the way for construction.

This was the first year building plans from the district had gone through the San Francisco office of architecture and construction.

Nonetheless, neither Banning nor an official of the San Francisco office would point a finger at the Los Angeles office. J. Herbert Rokita, assistant office engineer in the San Francisco office, said it was "difficult to answer" whether previous Speedspace designs might have the same design shortcomings, because manufacturers are constantly changing, refining and improving designs.

The previous plans all were approved by an architect or engineer, Rokita said, "so as far as we're concerned, they are adequate buildings." It is unlikely, he said, that any buildings already in place will be affected by the current case.

The change in procedure apparently has caused delays in other districts in the Bay Area.

College of Marin, where seven large Speedspace units are to be installed for a campus office center, has reported a two-week delay because the state Office of Architecture and Construction required a change in the design of footings. Target date now is the last half of October, according to Arthur L. Sell, district construction engineer.

Other districts where there are delays include San Francisco and Sequoia School District, on the San Francisco Peninsula.

In the Tamalpais district, some 250 to 300 students have been displaced or crowded into other classrooms because of the delay. The 53 Opportunity School pupils first met in the district board room, and are now in rented quarters at the former Ross Valley Clinic in Kentfield.

Tamalpais High School is to get three portables containing six classrooms, Sir Francis Drake High School is to get one single-classroom building, and Redwood High School is to get three buildings with four classrooms, offices and practice rooms.

The Redwood pupils are particularly crowded now because the music and art rooms which the portables were to replaced have already been closed off for repainting and renovation.

If the district decides to dock Speedspace the $100 a day provided in the contract's penalty section, it would probably be done by deducting from the payments for the portables, according to Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino. The amount deducted probably would be settled in conferences between Speedspace and district officials to determine how much of the delay should be laid to the builder, Godino said.

FORTUNATELY, IT'S HARMLESS

Marin County residents with snake problems can relax, this gopher snake is still in captivity. The five-foot-long reptile was found Wednesday by Blake Waltrip, 8, and his sister, Carey, in the Waltrip backyard at 862 Patricia Way, San Rafael. Blake is trying to make friends, even though he seems a bit nervous. The non-poisonous reptile is presently enjoying the hospitality of a neighbor's home. Carey and Blake are the children of Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Waltrip. (Independent-Journal photo)

Chairman For Bonds Named

Campaign committee chairmen for Sausalito's bond election to be held Nov. 4 were named last night at a meeting of the bond committees.

If approved by the voters in November, the bond election would authorize $85,000 for the fire station expansion, $80,000 for the police station and $65,000 for Tiffany Beach.

Barry C. Hibben was named chairman of the committee promoting the bond issue to expand the main fire station and Don Olsen as chairman of the committee supporting the bond issue to purchase and expand the police department, according to publicity spokesman Tom Rogers.

Hugh G. Lawrence previously had been selected to head the Tiffany Beach reconstruction bond issue committee.

William Remak was named finance committee chairman and Bea Seidler and Rogers publicity co-chairmen for the three bond committees.

The committees will meet again at 8 p.m. Monday at the Sausalito Yacht Harbor to name committee members and to review supporting arguments, Rogers said. The meeting is open to interested citizens wanting to work on the campaigns, he said.

BACKYARD BURN BAN

Chiefs See Big Headache

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

The men who head Marin's fire departments are looking ahead with some trepidation to next Jan. 1.

That is the date when the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District's ban on backyard burning takes effect. Fire departments, which issue permits for such burning, won't be able to do so any more.

Unless cities and counties meantime take steps to provide better refuse pickup, the resultant accumulation of trash is likely to increase fire hazards, the chiefs agree.

Their predictions range from gloomy to cautiously optimistic.

"All I can say is that it's going to create an awful fire hazard," declared Chief Charles Pinza of the Ross Fire Department. Alone among chiefs interviewed, he predicted the ban will necessitate greater expense for the fire departments.

Most optimistic is Chief Vance Trivett of San Rafael, who thinks that "after some experience, it will work out all right." Trivett is alone among the Marin fire chiefs in frankly favoring the backyard burning ban.

"My view on backyard burning is the same as the smog board's," he said. "I am in favor of the ban. The problem is going to be that there's going to have to be a program of education for householders. From the experience in Los Angeles, it will take two or three years to educate them."

Also, he declared, there "will have to be plans for picking up excess trash." To this, every fire chief interviewed agreed.

Most of the fire chiefs have adopted a "wait and see" attitude, with hope for the best. Chief Franklin J. Buscher of dent of the Marin Association of Fire Chiefs, noted that the group consistently opposed the burning ban for several years. This year, however, it did not send a representative to the single hearing held by the air pollution control board. "Most of us were against it, but we decided it was inevitable," said Buscher.

The Tiburon chief noted that Marinites have voluntarily decreased burning in recent years, apparently turning to other methods of trash disposal. "In the 10 years I have been chief, the number of burning permits issued has grown fewer and fewer," he said.

Similar decline in burning permits in recent years was noted by Louis J. Bloom, who as county fire chief has the biggest area of any of the departments, and by Chief Joseph E. Regalia of the Mill Valley Fire Department. Both hoped this indicates householders are at least partly educated against disposal by burning in advance of the ban.

Buscher noted, however, that nothing in the impending regulation will prevent the people from burning in fireplaces.

To Chief Kenneth Kamp of Kentfield Fire District, this poses a threat of additional roof fires. County Chief Bloom also predicted such an increase and suggested passing ordinances requiring screening of chimneys. Chief Trivett, however, felt there should be little or no increase hazard from fireplace burning.

All expect there will be more dumping of refuse in vacant lots and on roadsides by people who have been burning it, although Chief Trivett believes those who keep their yards clean by burning in incinerators will haul or send the rubbish to the dump if necessary.

Particularly worried about the hazards of such dumping is Chief Gaylord E. Bonfield of the Marinwood Fire Department. Bonfield reported Marinwood had two fires this summer from spontaneous combustion of grass that was dumped while green.

The Marinwood chief has a specific complaint against the burning ban. "Instead of worrying about backyard burning," he said, "they should do more to get these diesel engines off the roads. They are big polluters, and there is no restriction at all on them."

One other matter all the chiefs agreed on: They do not intend to be enforcement agents for the smog district. Most said the system of burning permits has worked well, and if the smog district will not allow them to issue permits, it will have to do its own policing.

Typical of the comments were those of Chief Carl Heynen Jr. of Alto-Richardson Bay Fire District at one end of the county and Chief James W. Kidder Jr. of Novato Fire District at the other end. Both said they foresee problems "for awhile."

"We're just going to have to play it by ear," said Chief Kidder in what might be taken as the keynote of all the chiefs' comments.

But Chief Frank A. Sousa of San Anselmo Fire Department thinks "playing it by ear" may be a lot more difficult than it sounds.

"They're going to be dumping trash in the streets and any place they can," predicted Sousa, "or they'll hold it in the yard and let it pile up. It's too expensive to have garbage collectors haul it away.

"I know we will have a greater hazard . . . I think it's going to overload us with work."

Future Carpet Home Being Picketed

Representatives of Painters Local 83 are picketing the future home of Canterbury Carpets, 1337 Fourth Avenue. The store is presently being remodeled to house the carpet firm.

According to Franklin G. Gneri, business agent for the union, the painters are protesting the firm's hiring of three nonunion men to paint the building's interior.

Chaka Loses Credential Bid; Berkeley Duties In Limbo

Black educator William (Chaka) Bradley, a target of "black racism" allegations when he taught in Sausalito last year, has been denied his teaching credential, officials of the Berkeley school system said today.

The action by the state, for which no reasons have been announced, left Chaka's status with the Berkeley schools, where he is teaching at Longfellow Elementary, up in the air.

Chaka said this morning he still has not been informed of the state's decision.

Bernard Flanagan, director of personnel, said he and Berkeley Supt. Richard Foster of Greenbrae would meet sometime today to discuss Chaka's status.

Flanagan said the options open to the controversial Chaka include accepting a noncertificated job — similar to his status at Sausalito's Martin Luther King School last year — or leaving the district.

Flanagan said Berkeley school officials have not talked about whether he will be offered another job and they have not talked to Chaka.

Chaka, asked today what his plans were, said, "That's something I'll talk about later."

Dr. Carl Larson, chief of the state bureau of teacher education and certification and chairman of the state credentials committee, could not be reached for comment today.

Dr. Max Rafferty, state schools superintendent and a member of the credentials committee, said late yesterday he was not aware of any action taken by the committee. He did not attend the committee's sessions this week, he said.

A spokesman for the committee told the Capitol News Service in Sacramento that Chaka would be informed of the state's decision by registered mail and would make no announcement until they received verification of receipt from Chaka and then only if directly queried by the news media.

The spokseman also indicated that reasons for the denial of a teaching credential probably would not be revealed.

The credential committee meets in closed session.

Meanwhile, Rafferty indicated that a hearing on the teaching credential of another controversial black educator in Sausalito, Sidney F. Walton Jr. may still be two or three months away.

Rafferty's office began investigating Walton's past after allegations were published this summer that he was a Black Panther, that he had threatened the life of the former president of Merritt College and other charges.

Walton, new principal of Martin Luther King, has denied all of the charges repeatedly.

Marin County Schools Supt. Virgil S. Hollis also was conducting an investigation into the charges but was out of town today and not available for comment on the progress of his probe.

Teen-Ager Admits Marijuana Guilt

Gary Reid Steadman, 19, of Corte Madera, admitted yesterday in Marin Municipal Court that he had marijuana in the bedroom of his home at 100 Edison Avenue on Jan. 10.

He was ordered to appear in superior court Nov. 23 for sentencing.

Steadman came to the attention of law officers when a Corte Madera policeman, investigating a neighborhood burglary, glanced through the window of Steadman's room and saw him rolling a cigarette.

A search warrant was obtained, and police found a bowl of the contraband weed, they said.

Petaluma Traffic Signals Delayed

Installation of signals at East Washington Street and McDowell Boulevard, Petaluma, which was to have been completed today, will be delayed for another week or two, according to City Engineer David A. Young.

The engineer said that street widening and electrical installations have been completed, but that the controls of the signal lights were being tested at the division of highways office in San Francisco.

Meanwhile, Young said that work on the boat launching ramp on the Petaluma River off Lakeville Highway is ahead of schedule and should be completed in December.

He said dredging and installation of water and sewer lines had been completed and that ground work on the parking lot and access road will be finished before the rainy season starts.

Psychological Scientist Holds Human Test Approach Wrong

NEW YORK (UPI) — One of the psychological scientists who try to understand human beings by experimenting with them is telling his fellows they're going about it in wrong ways. For that reason, in his view, much of their acquired knowledge is highly questionable.

Psychology's "image" of the human subject is of a "stimulus-response machine," said Dr. Duane P. Schultz. You put a measured stimulation in and you get a measurable response out. As image that is "inadequate," in his opinion. The human being is much more.

Some 80 per cent of experimental subjects are college students, mostly sophomores. For a variety of reasons, he contended, college students are NOT representatives of people as a whole. Furthermore, many volunteer and psychology scientists should know the volunteer is a special person in no matter what enterprises.

He cited psychology's extensive research into its own research to show that most subjects are not chosen at random which is an essential scientific requirement, and many of them are far from being naive and neutral in the experimental situation.

BIAS CITED

They have biases and they may well dislike the experimenting psychologist and are not above deceiving him in their responses. After all, it is commonplace in psychological experiments for the psychologist to deceive his subjects. With some subjects it could be tit for tat.

On the ethics of human experimentation he cited the ethical standards of the American Psychological Association which specify that "the psychologist seriously considers the possibility of harmful after effects and avoids them, or removes them as soon as permitted by the design of the experiment."

Schultz "suggested that many of our experiments do involve potential emotional stress and that our subjects are rarely informed of this possiblity. Further, we seldom bother to attempt to deal with any possible harmful aftereffects, for our interest in the subject ceases as soon as he leaves the laboratory."

NOT 'SCIENCE'

Schultz' academic base is the University of North Carolina in Charlotte. His critique was intended only for psychologists and was published in one of the association's technical journals. Among his conclusions were these:

"We cannot continue to base some 80 per cent of our human subject data on college students and still call our work a science of human behavior. . We cannot continue to ignore the welfare, dignity and privacy of our subjects."

But "the more basic, important and compelling reason for change," he said, is that "our model or image of man as an organic, stimulus-response machine, an inanimate, determined, reacting, empty organism, is obsolete. The image of the human subject-as-object is no longer appropriate, if, indeed, it ever was."

CESIL To Become Familiar Name For School Children

LONDON (London Express) — CESIL is a name which will be thoroughly familiar to the school children of the 1970s. It isn't just a misspelled Christian name.

CESIL is a new language which has been developed to enable teen-agers to understand the workings of computers.

Some 1,200 children in 27 schools in and around London are being introduced to CESIL. They will discover that the letters stand for Computer Education in Schools Introductory Language.

It is the result of a year's research by a management consultant who has sold the project in package form to International Computers Ltd. They will market it here and aboard.

The plan is for computer education to become a regular part of the school curriculum. Because the children at schools today will be the leaders and managers of the next century it is vital for them to grow up with an understanding of computers.

"Many people are afraid of computers," said Peter Hall, an ICL director.

"The remedy is to teach today's school children about them. We must educate them that computers are our slaves and not our masters."

A pilot program, has been operating in several schools — one of them Winchester College, Hants.

Ginger-haired Martin Howe, a 14-year-old Winchester boy, has even made a robot that will follow a silver line and homes on a light.

"I was absolutely mystified about computers before," said Martin. "But we did organizational problems such as working out gas bills and it all seemed quite simple in the end.

"I'm going into electronics as a career and my knowledge about computers will be very useful now."

The cost of the computer package is $17 per pupil per year. For $838 a school can run a year's course for 15 pupils without even possessing a computer. This includes all the instructions for the teacher.

"We're not aiming to make a vast profit out of this scheme," added Hall. "It's obviously in our interests, long term, to have more people educated to the merits of computers. That's why we're doing it."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Sometimes Anxiety Is Not All Bad If Individuality Is Kept

VAN DELLEN

Humans always have something to gripe about and never are satisfied with their lot. This dissatisfaction may explain the superiority of man over all other living creatures. A certain amount of fear keeps us on our toes and mildly discontented. This makes us ready to fight to protect ourselves and to get ahead in the world.

Tension affects the mind more than the body. It encompasses worry, discontent, and mental strain. Abnormal anxiety arises in those who do not have what it takes to cope with troublesome situations. Can we acquire the additional fortitude, backbone or moral fiber to overcome this weakness? Yes, but not without difficulty, especially when the weakness represents an inherent trait.

THESE PEOPLE are more inclined to flee than fight. Many try to build up confidence through the use of alcohol or a narcotic. But such crutches often have unpleasant or harmful side effects that lessen their desirability.

The most common defense against overanxiety is to follow the herd. There is strength in numbers. An individual acquires unusual courage in a crowd. A man will do things he never would dare try when alone.

IN THIS RESPECT, membership in an organization is a tranquilizer in itself, because it bolsters ego and confidence. Other methods of overcoming tension center about mental hygiene. Some persons learn to compensate through training; others hide their heads in the sand or run away from problems.

New inventions and labor-saving devices are worthless unless the people using them are happy and content. Humans still derive more satisfaction from accomplishments that engender the feeling of security than from technical progress.

TAKE FEWER CALORIES

REPLY

It's not low enough, provided the increase in weight is not caused by retention of water. If a person cannot lose weight on 1,200 calories, he must be getting enough food to maintain his present weight and enough fuel to take care of his activities. In such instances, reducing the daily intake to 1,000 or 800 usually brings down the calories to the point where some of his own tissues are utilized to supply the energy to keep him going.

HAIRY WOMEN

A. M. writes: Why do some women have mustaches and hairy arms and legs?

REPLY

This is known as hirsutism and usually is of glandular origin. On the other hand, it rarely responds to hormones and is best treated via shaving, the use of hair removers, or electrolysis.

STONES NOT CANCEROUS

A. G. writes: Do gallstones ever become malignant?

REPLY

No, stones are not living tissue and can no more become cancerous than the bricks or mortar in your home. Occasionally cancer develops in the gallbladder and it is more likely to occur when stones are present.

INCOGNITO INDOORS

M. B. writes: Is it harmful to the eyes to wear sunglasses indoors?

REPLY

No, but they cut down on visibility.

Alcohol Rules Set For Parks

The Terra Linda Parks and Recreation Commission has instituted a ban against alcoholic beverages at district parks unless a permit is issued, Mrs. Frederick K. Mulhaupt, general manager, has reported.

The district had an ordinance controlling drinking of alcohol in buildings, but it has been extended to cover outdoors at the Recreation Center Park, Oleander Park and Munson Park, Mrs. Mulhaupt said.

Anyone who wants to bring alcoholic beverages on property owned by the district must get a permit from the district board, she said.

'Hair' Rules: Some Schools Have, Some Don't

By GARY TISCHLER

Some have them, and some don't.

What's pretty much the picture on athletic hair and grooming regulations among Marin County and Southern Sonoma high schools in the wake of Bob Troppmann's resignation as athletic director at Redwood High School in a clash with Tamalpais School District administrator over the "hair" issue.

Two other high schools in Marin County, Terra Linda and Drake have athletic department policies similar to Redwood's on length of athletes' hair, while coaches at Novato, San Rafael, San Marin and Tamalpais regulate at their own discretion. Petaluma and Rancho Cotate high schools operate under a Petaluma School District policy that covers the entire student body.

At Terra Linda High School, all athletes must conform to a policy formulated by athletic director Don Lucas, which states that hair must be tapered in back, must not fall over the eyebrows. No mustaches or beards are allowed. Sideburns can come to the bottom of the ear.

"We have the policy," Lucas said. "If the boys don't meet the regulation, they're just not issued equipment. It's not a written policy, but the coaches have agreed to abide by it, and it will be come a written policy."

"I agree with Troppmann," Lucas added. "I feel that if the coaches can't have control of athletics, then it's not worth coaching under those conditions. It's bad enough teaching now. The administrators don't have guts. They just look out their windows and think everything's fine. Well, it's not fine. I think they ought to go out and teach a class and see."

"Our regulations are very similar to the ones at Redwood," Drake athletic director George Corson said. "There is no state regulation on sideburns as to special length."

Novato High School athletic director Al Scott was sympathetic with Troppmann but couldn't agree with him.

"We're a lot looser than other schools," he said. "There are no regulations governing hair. I feel if a boy is willing to come out, do everything that is demanded, respect his coach and his teachers, then that's the most important thing. Personally I don't care for long hair, but other things are more important. That's the style now. We leave it up to the individual coaches."

"Tropp is a hell of a guy," Scott added. "He should have a right to set athletic policy. But I think it's the wrong policy."

At San Rafael and San Marin, hair regulations are left up to the individual coaches.

"We haven't had any problems about hair," San Rafael athletic director Jack Sims said. "There's nothing definite on paper. It's up to the coaches."

San Marin athletic director Bob Martin, who also doubles as football coach, has regulations for his own football team, but other coaches are allowed to handle the situation as they see fit.

"Our school dress code is comparable to the athletic policy at Redwood," Petaluma High School athletic director George Gilmore said. "The only difference is sideburns, which come to the bottom of the ear."

At Rohnert Park, athletes fall under the Petaluma district regulation, but have a certain degree of democracy in choosing regulations. A committee of the coaches and 12 representative athletes formulate policy and meet about three times a year.

The committee, however, cannot go counter to Petaluma District policy.

"If they voted to wear mustaches," athletic director Hal Janney said, "well I think we'd overrule that."

"We don't have a detailed policy," St. Vincent's of Petaluma Athletic Director Michale Gonzales said. "We just say they have to have a businessman's haircut, neat and clean. We had a detailed policy once, but it was just too difficult. This leaves some leeway for teachers, coaches and students."

I'm 100 Per Cent Behind Redwood Coach Policy

I can't for the life of me find anything so unreasonable about the Redwood High School athletic department's erstwhile hair grooming policy which, until temporily rescinded Wednesday by District Superintendent Robert D. Torrey, stated: "Hair cannot fall below or over the shirt collars or over the eyes and must not fall over the ears. Sideburns must not be longer than the mid-ear level."

Let's see, now, that ruled out King Kong, Lassie and the Abominable Snowman but, with a little tonsorial touchup, the Beatles, half the population of the zoo, Prince Valiant and the Lennon Sisters could qualify for a block letter.

Torrey's recision of the policy which prompted Robert Troppmann's resignation as Redwood director of athletics makes it obvious that a few inches of hair is only a minor issue now. What it boils down to is that administrators are handcuffing athletic coaches in a field where uniformity and discipline are as essential as the three R's are in the academic field.

Disgusting On Athletic Field

My Establishment may be showing, but frankly I think long hair looks disgusting on the high school athletic field. The coaches should draw a line somewhere and I think Redwood's policy was quite liberal.

In the next few days I think the complacent folks in the district will be heard from. If they don't support the coaches fight for their right to demand uniformity and discipline, then the people of the district deserve precisely what they will ultimately get — the end of high school athletics as we know them today.

Walk through some of our campuses and look at the dress and appearance and deportment of the students and you will understand why taxpayers repeatedly reject school bond issues. The zoo keepers have let the monkeys take charge everywhere except the Redwood athletic department. Until Wednesday, that is.

SERIOUSLY ILL at his Mill Valley home: G. T. "Pop" Wendering, former builder of baseball champions at Tamalpais High School who started the likes of Sam Chapman, Art Schallock, Tony Freitas, Joe DeMaestri, Karl Olson and Charley Wensloff on their way to the major leagues.

CHAD ERTOLA, guard on the College of Marin football team, is son of San Francisco Supervisor Jack Ertola who was also a jock at the Kentfield school back in the late 1940s.

COLOR FILMS of the 59th annual Dipsea Race run from Mill Valley to Stinson Beach will be premiered tomorrow at the Avenue Theater, 2650 San Bruno Avenue, San Francisco at 7 and again at 9:30 p.m. Admission is $2 for adults and $1.25 for children. As 750 persons ran/jogged/walked/crawled the gruelling race Aug. 24, this could be a smash hit at the box office. The S.F. Bay to Breakers Race is an added feature.

NEXT MONDAY'S guests at the Marin Chapter, 49ers Goldrushers Club (Dominic's Restaurant, San Rafael, noon) will be fullback Ken Willard and defensive tackle Charley Krueger. The Goldrushers also will start inviting local high school grid stars as special guests each week. Monday it will be Tamalpais sophomore Clifford Hall who scored all the Indians' points in their 18-14 victory over Richmond's Salesian High last week.

WHAT A DIFFERENCE NINE YEARS MAKES

The picture on the left shows the Mets of 1962 and the one at right the happy manager, Gil Hodges, today. When the team started its existance in 1962, they provided laughs, such as this instance when outfielder Frank Thomas (25) was trapped between third and home, only to get back to third in time to see teammate Charlie Neal standing there. But today, everything's different, the amazing Mets are champs of the National League's East Division. In the photo at right, Hodges is shown with his 8-year-old daughter with a premature, but most likely right, sign.

Marin Prep Football Teams To Take On Vallejo's Best

The football pride of Vallejo will be on the line this weekend when two Marin County Athletic League high school teams take on Vallejo's best.

Terra Linda travels to Vallejo tonight to take on mighty Hogan High at 8 o'clock while Drake hosts Vallejo High at 8 p.m. tomorrow at San Rafael High School in the featured games of another heavy prep schedule.

In other games tonight, Montgomery of Santa Rosa is at San Rafael, and Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park plays host to surprising San Marin of Novato at Durst Field in Petaluma.

In tomorrow afternoon action, Redwood hosts mighty Riordan of San Francisco at San Rafael at 2 o'clock and St. Patrick's of Vallejo visits Tomales at Durst Field in Petaluma at 3:30.

Terra Linda coach Don Lucas, for one, thinks the Hogan bubble just might burst.

"I think we can win it," he said. "They're going to be more physical but we'll try to be smarter."

The trick here is to stop a very versatile offense headed by all-state halfback Jim Upchurch, who scored three times in a 50-0 rout of Skyline of Oakland last week, once on a 93-yard kickoff return.

"On offense, we'll just have to try to be balanced," Lucas said. "We don't really have the real fast backs. Our backs aren't quite there yet, but they'll be better than what we had last year."

Drake's problem, not even thinking of Vallejo, is shoring up an awfully leaky defense.

To this end, Coach Bob Franceschini has made some changes, especially in his defensive backfield, where Jim Forney, and Jim Domingues will take over two spots.

Also, Mark Silverman, a veteran halfback who was used as a flanker in a 24-14 loss at the hands of Petaluma last week, will be running more.

"I didn't realize it, but we only used him once or twice last week," Franceschini said. "That will change."

Vallejo, which downed Oakland Tech 28-14 last week, is traditionally tough and is the defending North Bay League Section I champion. As usual, the Apaches will have a tough running game and a sound line headed by the Osterkamps, guard Dave and center Dennis. The running is led by Ron Burris.

Novato will get the honor of trying to stop Petaluma's suddenly resurgent attack, and it won't be easy despite the fact that Coach Al Scott feels he has one of his better defenses on hand.

"No doubt about it," he said. "This will be a real test for us."

The big thing will be to stop quarterback Fred Klemenok, who passed for 210 yards and four touchdowns against Drake. The Trojan running game is sound behind Steve Hing and Dan Williams.

The Hornets must also get their own offense a little more up to snuff, with fullback Dan Reece, and quarterback Brett Bilsboro and halfback Dave

Metsomania: Waiting For Tickets

NEW YORK (AP) — While the groundskeepers tried to put Shea Stadium back together again, while the Mets sang for their lunch, while Tom Seaver and Cleon Jones laughed it up on national television, young Mark Cohen waited in line for playoff tickets.

"I wouldn't miss this opportunity for anything in the world," the 17-year-old student from Brooklyn said today. So determined was he to get his playoff tickets that he started the line at 6 p.m. Wednesday three hours before the New York Mets clinched the National League's East Division title.

There were more than 300 other Metsomaniacs waiting behind Cohen, but it was appropirate that he should lead them. After all, his father, Ruby, was third in line when the tickets went on sale for the subway World Series between the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Yankees in 1941.

Although he did miss the clincher and the Metsomania that followed, Mark did not come out of the evening empty-handed. one of the departing players gave him a bottle of champagne.

It's been a long time since New York baseball fans had anything to wait in line for. It's the first time ever for Mets fans, and Yankee fans haven't come up with a winner since 1964.

While Mark waited in line and Mayor John Lindsay declared next week as Mets Week, the Mets still were loudly celebrating. By yesterday afternoon, they were toasting in a record-

Giants Pin Hopes On Perry Tonight

San Francisco Giants will send Gaylord Perry to the mound tonight against the Los Angeles Dodgers in the start of a do-or-die three game series at Los Angeles.

The game will be televised by KTVU, Channel 2, as will the games tomorrow and Sunday. Tonight's starts at 8 o'clock, and the weekend games at 1 p.m.

Opposing Perry (17-14) will be Don Sutton (17-16). The second place Giants are trailing the Atlanta Braves by 1½ games in the N.L. West. The Braves open a three-game series with the San Diego Padres tonight in Atlanta.

Hodges Rewarded With New Contract

NEW YORK (AP) — Manager Gil Hodges who guided the New York Mets from ninth place to the National League East pennant, was rewarded by the club today with a new long term contract at an increase in pay that probably puts him in the $75,000-a-year class.

The new contract topped off a fantastic personal comeback for the likeable 45-year-old manager who suffered a heart attack that threatened to end his career last Sept. 24—a year to the day before the Mets clinched the pennant.

Hodges, a local favorite as a player with the Dodgers and who still lives in Brooklyn, was working on the second year of a three-year pact reportedly calling for $60,000 a year. The new contract is another three-year pact running through 1972 and is reported to call for a $15,000 raise in salary.

Hodges' patience and guiding hand with the young talent on the Mets is generally acknowledged to have been a major factor in their amazing rise from ninth place in last year's 10-team National League race to fire place this season and a berth in the new playoff system.

A's Get Victory Easy Way

OAKLAND (AP) — California Angel manager Lefty Phillips may think twice before he walks another Oakland A's batter on purpose.

Phillips ordered an intentional pass to Oakland's Joe Rudi last night and then watched in horror as relief pitcher Ken Tatum couldn't break the habit and unintentionally walked Ramon Webster to force in the winning run.

The A's rallied to nip the Angels 7-6 with Rudi keeping them in the game with a pair of homers until the walk decided the game.

Rudi, who apparently will be the Oakland first baseman for the remainder of the season, hit his first two homers of the year to drive in three runs.

Raiders May Need More Luck On Road Trips

OAKLAND — The Raiders have left town, which gives folks here nothing to do for three weeks. With any luck at all, the Townie footballers can come home on Oct. 19 5-0 after stops at Boston, Miami and Denver.

The way it's been going, the Raiders need all the luck the good fairy is peddling this autumn. Their opening wins over Houston and Miami were 11th hour affairs. Daryle Lamonica hasn't been missing by much, but he has been missing. And not all of their receivers are doublechecking their Firm Grip.

THE SECONDARY, principally David Grayson, has been saving Coach John Madden's automatons. The 30-year-old Grayson plucked four Houston passes — two of which were legitimate interceptions — and grabbed one from Miami's Bob Griese.

The Raider defensive backfield has been astounding ("Better than Baltimore's," says Houston quarterback Pete Beathard) when one considers that Rodger Bird and Kent McCloughan have been missing with injuries. What's more fascinating about the current Oakland back four of Grayson, Nemiah Wilson, Howie Williams and Willie Brown is that all began their pro careers elsewhere. So the next time you buy a pro football team, don't trade with Al Davis.

THE PATRIOTS, however, are doing so poorly they wouldn't mind trading with the Sacramento Capitols. The Pats, who've been outscored 66-7 in their opening losses to Denver and Kansas City, are either rebuilding or getting ready to move to Seattle. Which, on top of the Pilots, could be disastrous for Seattle.

This Sunday's Raider foe has won only seven games in two seasons. After coming close to winning the Eastern Division title in 1966, the Pats fell to 3-10-1 in '67 and 4-10 last year. Those four wins cost them O. J., so they got a new coach — one-time Jet assistant Clive Rush. He is an honest man. "We are not," he says, "a good team." They are barely a bad team.

THE RAIDERS have delighted in playing them the last two years; Oakland winning scores have been 35-7, 48-14, 41-10. Yet, the Raiders stay fretful of overconfidence. On paper caution sounds good; against the Pats, who needs it?

Boston hasn't had a decent defense in three years. And THAT used to be their strong suit. Denver and K.C. manhandled them on the ground, with the Chiefs picking up a preposterous 232 yards rushing.

THE PAT offense is in the hands of fullback Jim Nance, who runs a lot, and well. But stop him and you stop Boston. Kansas City certainly did; in fact, the Pats groveled for only 43 yards against the Chiefs. In the whole game. Ex-league rushing leader Nance used to pick that up in one series.

Their passing might be getting better — eventually. After Mike Taliaferro beat out guys named Parilli, Trull and Sherman for the No. 1 quarterback, he blossomed with potential — starting the season with 237 aerial yards against Denver. The Chiefs held him to 57. Yes. 57.

BECAUSE THE Raider secondary is better than K.C.'s, Taliaferro might be wise to call Nance's number all day. Then, surely, Nance would have something to call Taliaferro.

Should the Raiders slip against — or barely beat — Boston, the Super Bowl harbinger would be dim. Some folks are starting to believe the Raiders aren't great any more. But wizened observers suggest the rest of the league may just be getting better.

It's not easy to believe, howare part of the rest of the ever, that the Boston Patriots league.

Coin Toss Advantage To Braves

CINCINNATI (AP) — Atlanta was guaranteed a spot yesterday in the final playoff game for the National League's West Division championship in the event the Braves, San Francisco and Cincinnati wind up in a three-way tie.

The decision was made at a meeting in the office of league President Warren Giles, who flipped a half dollar several times to help work out a playoff system.

Entering today's action, Atlanta was on top by 1½ games over the Giants and 3½ over the Reds.

If all three deadlock, Atlanta, which drew a bye, will meet the victor of the Cincinnati-San Francisco game in the winner's park.

If Atlanta and San Francisco tie, the sudden-death contest will be held at Atlanta on Oct. 3. If the Braves and Reds tie, the game will be played at Cincinnati. And if the Giants and Cincinnati tie, the affair will be played in San Francisco.

The fast-skating workout was the Seals hardest thus far in the exhibition practice season.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Two Haunting Ex-Reds

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Wynn and Edwards, both the property of Cincinnati at one time, belted home runs in helping the Houston Astros to a 4-3 victory which dropped the Reds 3½ games behind the Atlanta Braves in the Western Division. The Reds, who trail the Braves by three games in the lost column, now have only a slim chance of surpassing both the San Francisco Giants and the Braves for the division title.

33RD CLOUT

Wynn, who played for Tampa in the Reds' farm system before being drafted by Houston in 1962, crashed his 33rd homer in the fourth inning to give the Reds a 1-0 lead, but it was Edwards' sixth homer of the season in the ninth that proved to be the margin of victory.

Edwards, who played on the Reds' pennant winning team of 1961, spent seven years with the Reds before being traded to the St. Louis Cardinals in the winter of 1968. He played one season for the Cardinals then was traded with catcher Tommie Smith to the Astros for pitcher Dave Giusti and catcher Dave Adlesh in October of 1968.

While the homers hurt the Reds considerably, manager Dave Bristol thought the turning point of the game came in the seventh inning when the Astros scored twice. Houston had a runner on third with one out and Doug Rader batting, when the Astros attempted a suicide squeeze.

PITCHOUT

Catcher John Bench of the Reds smelled the play developing, however, and called for a pitchout. But Rader flicked his bat at the ball and made contact for a foul strike. On the next pitch he singled to score a run and pitcher Denny Lemaster followed with a double to chase home Rader.

"Rader saved the game for them," Bristol said. "We had the runner dead at the plate, if he doesn't make contact with the ball."

Bristol wouldn't say the Reds were finished, but he realized their chances were slim.

"You gotta hope, believe and win. You have to play every game like it's the last one," he said.

Pete Rose continued his torid hitting for the Reds by banging out three singles and a double in five at bats to take over the league lead in batting with a .347 average, but the only other member of the hard-hitting Reds to contribute anything was Tommy Helms, who collected three singles. Wynn drew his 148th walk of the season for Houston, tying the league record set by Eddie Stanky of the Dodgers in 1947.

SCORES

In the only other NL games played, the Pittsburgh Pirates swept a doubleheader from the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-3 and 9-7.

ing studio in midtown Manhattan where they cut an album. They play baseball better than they sing.

"Now we gotta beat them other guys," says Casey Stengel.

Ashe, the former UCLA and Davis Cup star, started slowly but fought back for a 4-6, 6-3, 6-4 victory over Marty Reissen, Evanston, Ill., yesterday in the quarterfinals of the tourney at the Los Angeles Tennis Club.

There were only two service breaks in the second and third sets—both by Ashe. The Richmond, Va., player was fourth-seeded when the tourney began but the three above him—Rod Laver, John Newcombe and Tony Roche, all of Australia—have been beaten.

Newcombe lost to Pasadena's Stan Smith, 3-6, 9-7, 6-0.

Laver, who had lost to Ray Moore earlier in the tourney, suffered another setback yesterday when he and fellow Aussie Roy Emerson dropped a 7-5, 13-11 game to aging Pancho Gonzales and Ron Holmberg.

Bob Lutz of Los Angeles also moved into the singles semi-finals with a 6-2, 3-6, 6-2 victory over Moore of South Africa. The other singles winners were Cliff Richey, San Angelo, Tex., 5-7, 6-2, 6-1 over England's Roger Taylor; and Thomas Koch, Brazil, 6-1, 8-10, 6-1 over Dennis Ralston, Bakersfield, who was ill before the match but played anyway.

Ashe teamed with Spain's Andres Jimeno to win a doubles match from another Australian pair, 8-6, 6-2 over Ken Rosewall and Fred Stolle.

In a late doubles match yesterday, Australia's Richard Crealy and Thomaz Koch of Brazil outplayed Ray Russels of Australia and Alex Olmedo of the U.S., 6-1, 15-17, 6-3.

Horror Hole Can't Stop Golfer Sikes

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — What would you do if you shot an 8, four over par, while leading the first round of the Alcan Golfer of the Year Tournament?

Dan Sikes, the golfing lawyer from Jacksonville, Fla., recovered with an eagle and a birdie, tying for first with a three-under-par 69 over the 6,541-yard Portland Golf Club course. Lou Graham of Nashville, Tenn., also had a 69.

Sikes' quick recovery was in contrast to an 8 which Sam Snead, one of golf's all time greats, took on the 18th hole of the U.S. Open in 1939. Snead never did win a U.S. Open.

INTO TREE

Sikes was four under par and far ahead of the 24-man field when he hit his tee shot on the 13th hole into a fir tree.

"It is frightening to see a ball go into a tree," Sikes said. "But the second shot was the bad one. It shouldn't have happened."

The ball went beneath a tree. Sikes chipped out, then put the ball into the trap. He two-putted for the 8.

Sikes had a par on the next hole, then on the 511-yard, par 5 15th hole, Sikes sank a 15-foot putt for an eagle. He birdied the 16th hole.

Sikes got another shock just after he walked off the course when a section of bleachers near the 18th green collapsed. Nine persons were hospitalized with minor injuries.

SURPRISED

Graham, having what he says is one of his worst years on the pro tour, described his play as "fair" and said he was surprised there were no lower scores.

Fourteen golfers matched par or better and there was general agreement that scores will be lower if it doesn't rain.

Gay Brewer, winner of the two previous Alcan tournaments played in Great Britain, was two strokes back at 71 and said he was pleased with his position after the first day.

Six players tied for second place with 70s. They are Billy Casper, Lee Trevino, Bert Greene, Deane Beman, Grier Jones and Kel Nagel, the veteran Australian.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Good Question: Where Does The Money Go?

"Fish and Game: Where Does The Money Go?"

That's the title of an article appearing in the September issue of The State Employee, official publication of the California State Employees Association which should be of general interest to you sportsmen.

IT FOLLOWS:

"California's fish and game preservation fund is one of the oldest special funds in the state. It was established by the legislature in 1909.

"License and permit fees, taxes, fines and forfeitures are set aside by statute to protect, conserve and promulgate fish, mollusks, crustaceans and game.

"No general fund money is used to administer or enforce the fish and game code, or to acquire or construct facilities for related uses.

"No income tax money, or cigarette tax money, or sales tax money is used to operate that department.

"2,247,000 anglers who fish in state waters or 755,137 sportsmen who hunt California game, pay for the department's operation, with the exception of kelp harvesters, who lease off-shore areas from the state. Also, there are federal reimbursements for cooperative projects.

"Expenditures at Fish and Game have been about $16 million annually, although income has been at about $18 million, so a surplus of $10.3 million has built up.

"Directives from the finance department this summer on budgeting for 1969-70, which call for cuts averaging 20 per cent, made no exception for special fund agencies, and the edict to cut personnel back to the level of 1967 applied to Fish and Game as well as the Department of Motor Vehicles.

"So, despite the fact that income this year will probably top $18 million, latest reports from Fish and Game indicate the department will be allowed to spend only about $14 million, 12.5 per cent under the $16 million in this year's budget for expenditures. Approval of supplemental funds could increase the budget total.

"(This does not take into consideration use of about $8 million of that $10.3 million surplus now budgeted for a new fish hatchery on the Mad River and screens on major diversion canals to keep fish from being swept into irrigation projects.)

"In 1956 the Department of Finance decreed that the ratio of wardens to license buyers should be one to 7,500. Since that decision, the warden staff has increased by only five men and the ratio stands at one to 13,500. The average workweek for wardens is 53.75 hours and the department, in a recent study to determine need for more wardens, based its figures on a 12-hour day.

"One warden's comment to the recent finance proposal was: 'Cut back what?'

"The edict to cut back personnel is expected to result in loss of about 50 'man years' of help from seasonal aides, young men hired for nine months a year. This could mean as many as 100 fewer such young men would be hired next year.

"Fish and Game has asked to be allowed to spend more money — supplemental requests they are called — but if it is not forthcoming the program which likely will feel the brunt is fish planting. Instead of planting trout three or four times a week it will be one or two times, according to a reliable source within the department.

"The California State Employee asked this source what the point of the cuts were, since the money is being collected anyway (no drop in license fees is planned) and can't be used for anything else.

"'You'll just have to ask somebody in the administration that,' was the reply."

WOULDN'T IT BE great if some of the fish and game funds could be directed to some of the ideas expressed in the following letter from Justice Court Judge David R. Baty of Point Reyes Station?:

"Dear Al:

"From time to time you and I have discussed the dwindling silver salmon and steelhead fishery in Tomales Bay and Paper Mill Creek. Apparently the high dams on Nicasio and Big Carson Creeks have cut off so many of the spawning areas that both of these species are rapidly disappearing from the waters of West Marin.

"Last week Sue and I drove down from Vancouver, British Columbia. On the way south along the Olympic Peninsula, we stopped at the Quilcene National Fish Hatchery. There they trap hundreds of silver salmon migrating up the Quilcene River to spawn. The eggs are fertilized, hatched and the young salmon raised in tanks until they are large enough to be returned to the river to migrate down stream to Puget Sound and the ocean. Large numbers of rainbow trout are also raised to stock the rivers and lakes of the area.

"It seems to me that such a facility, state or federal, would be ideal to replace the lost spawning areas of Paper Mill Creek and restore the salmon and steelhead fishing in West Marin to the level that it was a generation ago. Additionally, such a hatchery could serve as a conservation education center conveniently available to the school children of the county and other parts of the Bay Area.

"Perhaps some of your readers would be interested in participating in such a project. If so, ask them to drop me a line at Point Reyes and we'll see if we can get something started."

Perron expected to carry the load.

San Rafael will be trying to bounce back from a 13-7 loss to Napa against a Montgomery squad that lost, 12-7, to Novato. The reappearance of injured fullback Leon Leonhart will help some and the ironing out of early season mistakes will too, for a Bulldog squad that is expected to battle Terra Linda for the MCAL title.

Redwood, a 14-0 winner over Archbishop Mitty High of San Jose last week, goes against Riordan with a certain amount of trepidation after a large part of the Giants' coaching staff watched the Crusaders defeat Terra Linda, 21-13 last week.

FINE REUNNER

The Giants' defense will be sorely put to stop Carl Braboy, a beautiful open field runner and the remainder of a talented Riordan backfield. The Giants can probably forget about running up the middle, since the Trojans had absolutely no luck with it.

San Marin, a 21-6 winner over McClymonds in its opener, goes against another winner in Rancho Cotate, a 20-0 victor over Cloverdale last week.

"I think we ought to be able to win," San Marin coach Bob Martin said. "They have some pretty good backs, but I think our line is better."

VS. WINNER

Marin Catholic will try to perk up its offense against Piner, an 8-6 winner over Jefferson of Daly City last week. The Marin Wildcats of Kentfield stopped Albany, 7-0, although their offense was muffled by a big inside rush on the guards and center.

Mark Lewis figures to give the Wildcats a lift with his speed.

Ron Petroni, who couldn't quite avert a 21-20 loss at the hands of El Molino of Forestville last week, will try again as Tomales takes on St. Patrick's. Petroni gained 1,000 yards-plus last year for Tomales.

706 Bowling Headliner By Treadway

Dick Treadway, the veteran secretary of the Marin County Men's Bowling Association, came up with the new season's first 700 three-game series.

Treadway, rolling in the 915 Travel League at Country Club Bowl, came out with games of 222, 252 and 232 for a 706 total.

It was a week for high games by bowlers with not so high averages. At Country Club Bowl in San Rafael, Nan Blackburn (135 average) rolled a 218 line in the Morning Glories; Pam Shannon (132 average) rolled a 222 and Gayle Graham (138 average) a 227, both in the Keglerettes; Jerri Scheiner (149 average) tossed a 223 game in the Winter Wonders; Helen Pieczynski (143 average) had a 225 line in the Hi-Lo's.

At Nave Lanes, Doris Colen (111 average) shot a 201 in the Hawaiian League and Mary Ferrari (131 average) rolled a 200 even, her first time at the double century mark. Among the high scores from Greenbrae Lanes were Shirley Larsen (150 average) with a 229 and her teammate of the Mixed Mates League, JoAnn Richardson (158 average), 221 game; Myra Yerion (155 average) rolled a 226 line in the Hits and Mrs. League, and Grace Hopkins (130 average) rolled a 203, her first 200, in the Coffee Cuppers. It was one of five 200 lines rolled in that league.

STRIKES TO SPARE — Shirley Santos picked up the 6-7-10 split in the Keglerettes League at Country Club Bowl. . . . When Ed Edwards rolled that 255 game in the Northern California Merchants League at Greenbrae Lanes, it was one of 13 games of 200 or more, high for that league. . . . Shirley Paradise (135 average) rolled a fine 535 series to headline the scores in the San Quentin Mixed Fours at Country Club. . . . Luke Kelley was high man in the Splinters League at Country Club, 227 game and 577 series. . . . Bob Nelson led the way in the Monday Men's Handicap at Greenbrae Lanes, 235 game. . . .

BOWLING TIPS

A strike delivery should convert the 1-2-5-8 into a spare. The 5-pin usually is the most troublesome in this set-up and a fairly good "pocket hit" is needed to bring it down along with the others.

Marin Tars Anticipate Rough Trip

The College of Marin Tars travel to Eureka this weekend. And as if that weren't bad enough, tonight they'll be subjected to a game against defending state small junior college football champion College of the Redwoods.

On top of that, the Corsairs will be looking to avenge a 33-0 whitewashing handed them by the Tars the last time the teams met, in 1967. After the first week of play, Redwood is ranked tops in the state's small school division. Considering these things it would be most understandable if the Tars decided to board the wrong bus and go elsewhere.

Marin coach Dick Read isn't counting his team out, however. The Tars have spent the week adding plays to their passing attack, which in its elementary pre-season stages netted 141 yards against San Jose last week.

NEW QUARTERBACK

The only change in Marin's starting lineup will be at quarterback, where Jim Peters will get the nod. He was impressive against San Jose, passing for more than 100 yards, including a 68 yard touchdown aerial to Larry Blackwell.

College of the Redwoods, who according to Read are stronger than last year, will be counting on the passing of quarterback George Apo, and the running of setback Jim Kehl. Last week they led the Corsairs to a 41 to 20 romp over powerful Hartnell.

As a final note, last Saturday marked the first time since Read took over at Marin that anybody has run a punt back against his team for a touchdown. The Jaguars' Dave Pike did it in the second quarter. Needless to say, the Tars worked on their punt coverage this week.

Stanford To Host Oregon In Pacific-8 Grid Action

STANFORD (AP) — Oregon's dark-horse Rose Bowl hopes get an early test tomorrow when the Ducks collide with Stanford's powerful offense in the first Pacific-8 Conference game for both teams.

Kickoff at Stanford Stadium at 1:30 p.m.

The Ducks put on an impressive offensive show last week when they downed Utah 28-17 while Stanford was rolling over San Jose State 63-21.

"Stanford," says Oregon Coach Jerry Frei, "is awesome. They have one of the best quarterbacks in the country in Jim Plunkett and the Indians have to be considered one of the favorites in the Pacific-8."

Frei also makes it clear that he is not overlooking the Indians' ground game that last week rolled up 315 yards led by sophomore Jackie Brown who carried 13 times for 93 yards.

Stanford Coach John Ralston says he expects a real test from the Ducks, who unveiled a balanced attack against Utah.

Quarterbacking Oregon is junior Tom Blanchard who showed last week that a year's layoff following knee surgery has not slowed him up. Blanchard threw three touchdown passes, tying a school record, while completing eight of 13 passes for 157 yards.

But Blanchard's performance was overshadowed by the play of sophomore slotback Bobby Moore, who caught all three scoring passes for a school record and caught five passes for 104 yards.

Rocky Pamplin led the Ducks' ground gainers with 18 carries and 150 yards. However, Pamplin suffered an ankle sprain and how much he will be able to play is not certain.

Stanford will welcome tight end Bob Moore back to the lineup after he was held out of the San Jose game with a knee strain.

Five other Pac-8 clubs go up against Big 10 opponents and Oregon State rounds out the Saturday schedule with a visit to Arizona State.

49ers Still Hobbling

REDWOOD CITY (UPI)— The San Francisco 49ers are suffering a rash of minor injuries that may keep some of them out of Sunday's battle with Green Bay at Milwaukee.

"Stan Hindman has a muscle pull in his side, Bill Tucker is still not fully recovered and Forrest Blue is still hobbled," Dick Nolan said yesterday. "But we won't know until game time if they'll be ready."

Earl Edwards would start for Hindman if need be and Blue's center job would go to Howard Mudd, Cas Banaszak or Lance Olssen.

Nolan said he was considering starting Skip Vanderbundt at corner linebacker in place of Harold Hays. Vanderbundt, healthy now after an injury-riddled rookie campaign last year, split the position with the veteran Hays against Atlanta.

Nolan says his offensive line is improving slowly. All-pro guard Mudd had a long holdout and "is just now catching up." He still is listed behind starters Elmer Collett and Woody Peoples. And just acquired offensive tackle Randy Beisler "is still not at the point where he could step in and start," Nolan said.

Today is Friday, Sept. 26, the 269th day of 1969, with 96 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Venus and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1950 U. N. troops took Seoul, the capital of South Korea, from the Communists.

Cooks And Bakers Paint Friend's House

Barbara Emter, a cook at the restaurant for six years, retired and as a special gift, her fellow kitchen employees joined to paint her white frame house. The restaurant paid for the paint and the job was completed in one day by two shifts of workers.

Crime Not Detected, Just Believer It Was Bad Luck

BEAMS AT DUMMY

West opened the six of spades, and South beamed when he saw the dummy. He won with the nine of spades, led a club to the king and returned a club from dummy to the ace.

West ruffed the ace of clubs and returned his last trump, leaving only one trump in the dummy. South could ruff one club in dummy but then had to give up a club trick. Down one.

Dr. Watson was sure that South was the victim of misfortune, a combination of bad distribution and a brilliant opening lead. Sherlock Holmes thought that a horrible crime had taken place. See if you can decide who was right before you read on.

SAFETY PLAY

Holmes was right, as the great man always was. South was a criminal, because he should have made his contract by way of a simple safety play.

LOW CLUB LEAD

Declarer should lead the low club from dummy but should play low from his own hand instead of trying to win the trick with the ace. Regardless of the defense, South can next ruff a low club in dummy, draw trumps and cash the good clubs.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ 6 5 4
♥ K 9 8 4
♦ K 8 7 4 3
♣ 6.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades.

Your trump support is very weak, but the side singleton suggests a spade raise rather than a no-trump response. Few partners are uncivilized enough to open with a weak four-card spade suit, so you are no likely to run into trouble by raising.

84 Trichinosis Cases Reported

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI)— Eighty-four cases of trichinosis were reported to the National Communicable Disease Center in 1968, the Kentucky State Department of Health reports.

The cases, from 22 states, were traced to: pork products 71 per cent; bear meat 10 per cent; hamburger 19 per cent. The hamburger cases "probably reflect contamination of beef when ground in meat grinders used previously for pork," the report said.

Much Is 'A Little Queer' In Mental Health Dispute

In one year, from fiscal 1967 to fiscal 1968, the outlay for mental health by California's 58 counties increased by 30 per cent.

That was just double the percentage increase for county health departments in the same year.

These figures, drawn from California Taxpayers Association research bulletins, suggest that the fiscal part of Marin County's community mental health problem is scarcely unique.

Mental health did not even appear in the Marin County budget until fiscal 1964. In the budget that year was a $10,000 item to finance the mental health advisory board in setting up a program to qualify for federal funds under the Short-Doyle Act.

This year's county budget calls for an outlay of $2,215,000 for mental health.

PART OF THE SUDDEN skyrocketing in the cost of public mental health programs results from a tardy awakening to the need to provide something better for disturbed members of society than the traditional "snake pit" institutions.

But part of it also must be put down to the desire of psychiatrists and psychologists to feather their own nests.

Many a school psychologist has presented figures showing an inordinate proportion of disturbed children — of whom many had, until the psychologist's "discovery," been regarded as normal, healthy, happy kids by teachers, playmates and parents.

It sometimes appears that the professionals take the same approach as the anonymous 18th Century Quaker who told his wife, "All the world is queer save me and thee; and sometimes I think thee is a little queer."

THERE SEEMS TO BE some of this attitude in the current embroglio over Dr. Clyde G. Miller, county director of community mental health.

Those with whom Miller deals — the mental health center director, hospital administrators, operators of therapy programs — appear to be almost unanimous in declaring the county director is impossible to deal with and is hamstringing the mental health program.

Dr. Miller, however, complains that the mental health center director fails to furnish written program outlines, and that others with whom he deals refuse to follow county guidelines.

At the heart of the dispute lie differences about what kind of mental health program the county should have, and — not unexpectedly — about money.

SALLY MISHKIND, a member of the mental health advisory board who is neither psychiatrist, psychologist nor institutionalist, contends that there is no need for the county's $195,000 appropriation for Dr. Miller, his staff and headquarters.

Mental health, she asserts, could be handled by either the county health director or medical director through contracts with the same agencies with whom Miller contracts — and with whom he is constantly embroiled in disputes.

Whether it is "thee or me" who is "a little queer," what Mrs. Mishkind says makes a good deal of sense. Mental health seems to have become a terribly expensive affair. It is certainly made more expensive by being given its own bureaucracy.

We think the board of supervisors, when it confronts this thorny issue next Tuesday, should give careful consideration to Mrs. Mishkind's suggestion.

The Age Of Aquarius

The young people of an astrological bent tell us through their song that this is the dawning of the Age of Aquarius, when "harmony and understanding, sympathy and love abound." We wish the young folks luck. Surely, the world could use much more of these precious values.

But we would remind the young that their dreams will remain just that until they include those victims of mass prejudice, their parents, as being among those deserving of their sympathy, love and understanding. Parents as well as children are to a certain extent prisoners of their environment, and once they, too, thought they had found the Holy Grail.

Reagan's Move May Herald A New Day For Consumers

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — What could be the beginning of a new era in consumer protection started recently when Gov. Ronald Reagan created a division of consumer affairs in the state Department of Professional and Vocational Standards.

For many years, the consumer, his needs and wants, have been something like a football in play between teams consisting of the retailer, the distributor and the manufacturer.

He has had no central place to go for redress when inconvenienced or damaged by the sale of inferior goods or delays, sometimes of months, in the delivery of goods ordered. Nor has he had the ability to pinpoint responsibility, at least speedily, for such malfunctions in what needs to be an orderly process of doing business.

A REMEDY for these evils will not immediately follow with the organization of a new division in government, but at least it will pave the way for study of the problem and the ultimate enactment of legislation.

And even if no improvement through new legislation is sought, the new division will give the consuming public a single center to voice complaints and secure what remedies are available under present laws.

Centralization of government operations designed for consumer protection will result, the governor said, in obvious administrative efficiencies.

Comprising the new unit will be the office of consumer council, now in the governor's office; the collection agency licensing bureau; the bureau of electronic repair dealer registration; the bureau of employment agencies; the bureau of furniture and bedding inspection, the bureau of private investigators and adjustors.

MANY CONSUMER complaints have to do with late deliveries of goods ordered, and there is no recourse against either the retailer, the distributor, or the manufacturer.

Thus, this might be the time to start a study as to whether business should be required to post a bond guaranteeing deliveries on the date promised.

Such a procedure would in most instances insure that orders were filled in turn, and the small customer would not be required to wait endless days for his goods.

Fairfax Festival Termed Disaster

Last weekend Sept. 20 and 21 Fairfax was host to an art festival which had a disastrous conclusion.

The first day of the two-day affair was serene, enjoyable and filled with beautiful people doing their own beautiful thing. Several young musicians were mellowing out their instruments playing easy to listen to blues, which hit the right tone for the groovy people who were attending.

The next day however was something dirty, scary, and a low blow for the beautiful people of the Fairfax art festival. Some person or persons authorized the selling of old used houseware and other usable garbage. With this opportunity for cheap profit unleashed, all the human trash in the area and in the outline (sic) vicinities came to exploit. Even the young musicians turned their minds away from art to become just plain old hard rock bands. I guess we know where their thoughts still are. But the bands are young and can't be blamed for their actions which were influenced so greatly by the hords of scavengers who came down on Fairfax last Sunday. Scores of policemen had to be called in to keep things under control and safe for all the profit seekers and bums. The last thing that beautiful, creative, hep people need is cops, plastic people, and dirty hippies to show up and over-run the one weekend that was supposed to be theirs. Hope also died in Fairfax last Sunday.

More To Blame On Computers

It is fairly well accepted that as an artifical extension of a physical attribute is developed, that attribute will tend to atrophy. That is, the development of radar has reduced the sharpness of eyesight, lifting equipment has weakened backs, automobiles have had a destructive effect on legs, etc.

Perhaps if this is a true phenomenon, it would explain some trends in the foreign policies of the major nations of the world since the development of computers.

Restaurant Incident Needs Explanation

I have just read Dorothy Moreland's letter in yesterday's (Sept. 22) paper, and find myself not only surprised but embarrassed also.

Unless Denny's Restaurant comes up with a satisfactory public explanation of why this incident happened and of its policy re segregation, I for one, as a white resident of Novato, will consider Denny's as off limits for dining out in the future.

Ferries Answer To Commute Woes

I have lived in large metropolitan areas throughout the world and it amazes me to see the number of people who accept the inconvenience and waste of 1½ to 2 hours of their working day by sitting on Route 101 following the other man's bumper. Is "this" the price that one pays for working in San Francisco?

A large scale commuter bus system will not alleviate the problem. A Marin bus system will fail for the same reasons that similar systems (Flint, Mich.) have failed throughout the United States: (a) added congestion both on the freeway and in the city, (b) the need for a primary means of transportation to the bus depot, and (c) an increase on total door-to-door travel time. The offset in monetary savings will not be enough to convince the average Marin commuter to give up his personal automobile.

High-speed ferries will provide a solution to the problem. They will take people off the road and most important of all, they will alow the commuter to "use" his commute time! I am told that Sydney, Australia, has put into operation a large-scale water transportation system that really works.

The potential solutions to Marin County commuter transportation problems should be put to those most affected: the commuters. My vote goes with the San Francisco Board of Supervisors.

Fairfax Festival Found Disgraceful

I am in complete agreement with the gentleman at the Fairfax City Council meeting that voiced his disapproval of the Fairfax Art Festival. The so-called "art" festival was nothing more than a two-day rock concert. It appeared to have attracted every undesirable element from miles around. It certainly was no family affair. Young people were openly drinking and smoking marijuana, plus committing acts in public not meat to be printed in a family newspaper. When the police were asked why no arrests were made, they said they were afraid it might touch off a riot which they were not equipped to handle.

Fairfax does not need this type of festival. "Whose Town?" should be answered by the people of Fairfax. When the next city election comes up, keep in mind the members of the city council that are far too liberal. Let's get someone elected to clean up the mess than Fairfax has become.

THE DRUMMONDS

Shakeup Of State Department Needed—And Nixon Knows It

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — The fact that President Nixon has held up his long-promised overhaul of the State Department doesn't mean he is satisfied with its performance.

He isn't. He is dissatisfied. He is displeased.

In his campaign Richard Nixon said again and again he intended to turn the State Department upside down, shake out the dull and the mediocre and put more venturesome minds at work.

HE HASN'T. He passed up his first, best opportunity during the weeks immediately after taking office. Perhaps he thought it might not be necessary or that what was needed would follow the appointment of his trusted intimate, William Rogers, as secretary of state.

There is no evidence that any significant overhaul or stimulation of State Department talent has followed. Just about the same people are doing the same things the same way they always have. There are just too many morticians' minds shuffling through the past competently finding reasons why nothing should be changed.

The password is "No."

THAT'S WHAT the President concluded — and he was not amused. The negative approach of State Department professionals impressed Mr. Nixon painfully in connection with the preparations for his recent trip to Southeast Asia, India, Pakistan and Romania — and during it.

When anything venturesome was proposed, he found the State Department people were mostly against it. They didn't want him to go to Romania: it might rock the boat with the Russians. They didn't want him to go to Vietnam. They didn't want him to expound his evolving post-Vietnam policy in his long briefing to the press at Guam. The President couldn't see that he was getting any original creative thinking on foreign policy from where it should come.

THIS IS WHY he made no effort to cover up his adverse reaction after he returned from his overseas travels. Indeed, far from covering it up, he let it emerge deliberately in the hope that awareness of his dissatisfaction would stir things up at State.

If it has, it's not visible, and now Nixon is right back where he started, facing the task of shaking up and shaking out from near-the-top to bottom at the State Department and feeling an increasing need to do it.

THE FAILURE of the State Department to respond according to presidential expectation is nothing new. F.D.R. found that in order to get things done he had to go over the head of State Secretary Cordell Hull and deal directly with Undersecretary Sumner Welles. President Kennedy built a little state department into the White House under McGeorge Bundy, and President Johnson did the same thing with Walt Rostow at his elbow.

Influence in the creation of foreign policy will inevitably come from where the best brains are located. As assistant to the president for security affairs, Henry Kissinger and his staff have talent unmatched by the State Department, and when there's a vacuum at State it is bound to be filled by others. It is being filled by Kissinger and his people today and Mr. Nixon isn't resisting it.

It is better to have an abundance of creativity among the President's foreign policy staff in the White House when there is a dearth of creativity in the State Department.

WHEN MR. NIXON in going to Romania rejected the negative advice of the State Department, he did one of the best things on his trip. He demonstrated that if Moscow wants better relations with the United States, it can't expect to be free to cultivate its contacts with the non-Communist nations and veto the United States from having closer contacts with the Communist nations.

If President Nixon wants to get more creative push from the State Department along with fewer overcautious negatives, he can't leave things as they are. That long-promised shakeup seems more needed than ever.

Congress Happy To Leave Draft Reform To Nixon

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — In his strategy for forcing Congress to reform the military draft, President Nixon resembles a stern father who is threatening his laggard son with a new bicycle.

The President has solemnly warned that, if Congress does not act, he will do just what its military experts want him to do: that is, order the reforms himself. It is a warning without a menace.

All indications are that the House and Senate will be happy to let the President go right ahead and effect changes in the draft machinery which has been the target of so much criticism by young people.

The President wants to induct young draft eligibles at age 19, rather than the oldest eligibles, as at present. He envisions one year of draft vulnerability at age 19, after which a young man would be free to pursue a career, barring only an all-out national emergency.

HOUSE AND SENATE military experts have long been telling President Nixon, and President Johnson before him, that those changes can be made by executive order, without congressional action.

Both Presidents have favored a lottery-like random selection plan to select among eligible 19-year-olds. President Nixon in his comments last week was prodding Congress to approve such a wholly haphazard selection system.

However, congressional experts, expecially in the House, are skeptical about the lottery plan. Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., immediately questioned whether the random plan was really needed to assure fair and impartial selection machinery.

AT LAST WEEK'S White House briefing, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said the President would now seek only the simple repeal of one portion of the draft law which bars a lottery selection plan without prior congressional sanction.

The trouble is that repeal would not be simple, and Laird as a former congressman, must know that very well.

A repeal bill might emerge unaltered from the House, where tight rules can block amendments. In the Senate, however, a simple repeal bill would be fair game for a pile of complex draft amendments already proposed by draft critics.

For example, Republican Sen. Mark Hatfield, Ore., offered legislation last January which would end the draft six months after its enactment and move to a voluntary army. The President wants a voluntary army too, but after the Vietnam war.

SENATE EXPERTS say the President's simple repeal bill for draft reform would surely become entangled in Senate deliberations with the voluntary army concept which he espouses.

Even more embarrassing possibilities were mentioned by congressional experts in conferences which preceded last week's briefing by Nixon and Laird. It was duly noted, for example, that an amendment would surely be proposed which would bar the use of draftees for the war in Vietnam unless the President directed their use by executive order.

Here's Hard But Simple Solution To Myriad Bay Area Problems

I've just passed another birthday and as a result am another step closer to age 30 and the end of my usefulness to the world, so I am writing this column as my part towards solving all the world's problems.

At least, all the problems of the Bay Area. My plan is devastatingly simple but it would solve just about everything us marvelous Marinites, sophisticated San Franciscans and other Bay Areans are uptight about.

Pave the bay!

THINK ABOUT IT. Here is just a partial list of the things paving the bay could do:

It would eliminate water pollution, bay filling and BCDC.

It would end the commuter problem, the grumbling about one-way bridge tolls, the highway lobby, and maybe even the state Division of Highways.

It would end the ferry strike.

It would solve Mill Valley's tennis court shortage.

It would make Sausalito's houseboats fixed structures so county building codes could be applied with gusto and all those scary people driven out.

It would make further widening of Bridgeway and more Sausalito parking meters unnecessary.

IT WOULD PROVIDE an answer to airport congestion.

It would provide all the bicycle paths anyone could ever want.

It would solve the problem of what to do with Alcatraz sitting out there in the middle of all that water.

It would soothe the ruffled feelings of us proletarians who get severe class identity problems every time we see a sailboat.

It would lower parking rates and end the parking congestion problem as well as providing vast new sources of revenue for cities and counties.

It would make it possible for San Francisco — that shimmering Athens of the West — to sponsor the cultural event to end all cultural events: the biggest roller derby in history.

IT COULD SOLVE the problem of whether Marin County should back a nude beach by putting up some plastic trees and bushes on some out-of-the-way stretch of cement.

It would save our many troubled editorial writers from wringing their hands, warning direly, and the other things editorial writers do so much.

It would eliminate the stink of Richardson Bay.

It would be a boon to the cement industry and of course have important residual benefits to the rest of the economy.

Further, it probably would raise the water level throughout the rest of the world, which would have these results: Coastal cities where the bulk of the world's population is would be flooded, ending the problem of overpopulation; Los Angeles would sink; such troublesome areas as Vietnam and Cuba probably would be inundated; New York City also would sink, eliminating professional San Franciscans' psychoses about who's best; the liberal eastern seaboard that Californians worry about would be under water and good, conservative places like Pittsburgh would be on the east coast.

I COULD GO on and on, but I'll let you come up with your own problems that need to be solved.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Mental Health Blowup Shows How Supervisors Are Hoodwinked

Fusselman

The real situation has finally started to surface. It's been fomenting for close to five years, since "the most powerful man in county government," received a $5,000 a year wage boost gift from his supervisor buddies.

The abdicators on the board then knew they could rely on the eager beaver to do those things they were supposed to do and for which they themselves had each received a $3,600 a year boost.

A HOST of voters supported John McInnis because of his expressed desire to see some changes made in the setup. He has disappointed them and has fallen a victim to the constant "I'll handle this and relieve you of the burden" line of subtle persuasion.

He is reported to have stated to a group that County Administrator Alan Bruce was being crucified and that the public had no idea the millions he was saving the taxpayers. Oh yea—yea—Hallelujah!

It has been common knowledge out at Brasilia that he wouldn't let any communication reach the board of supervisors until he had censored it. You would be amazed how many were sent back to be re-written.

"I am going to run this county and don't you ever forget it."

THE BOARD as now constituted has an opportunity — a duty in fact — to put the train back on the track as provided by state law governing general law counties, or else submit to the voters the proposition for their decision. This was denied the voters, you will recall, by the man who is now heading up the Save Our Seashore and attempting to obtain a million signatures to present to President Nixon. How's that for a switch?

This mental health debacle is a direct result of the administrator and assistant Thomas Campanella not coming clean with the board nor the public. They couldn't afford to. So they worked out a scheme to bypass Dr. Clyde G. Miller and at the same time they raised his salary. But this didn't work. It didn't keep him quiet and he has blown the works by his actions.

They have clothed the problem in such a mysterious atmosphere that, as Sally Mishkind states in her comprehensive, two-page, single-space statement, ". . . . has left the BOS confused about the effectiveness . . . and uncertain about how the public is being served. Chairman McInnis recently expressed his feelings at a workshop that was held with the Mental Health Advisory Board and the BOS — when he said that he had difficulty comprehending the mental health scene. Much of this confusion stems from the fact that straight, frank, answers are seldom heard from the county administrator or his assistant (Campanella) or Dr. Miller's office." It's a shameful situation. If the board of supervisors don't take it out of the administrator's control it will get even worse.

THIS MENTAL health matter is just one of many mismanged things out at the blue-roofed ship of state — the glittering "tourist attraction."

We find the administrator in opposition to the position the board has taken on state highways in the county. When he and the board talk of overlapping, it is to laugh.

When a supervisor has the board request the administrator to report on the "status" of the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control project, we have a glaring example. This is entirely an engineering matter and he is not an engineer by any means.

It may be well, for the benefit of those who just tuned in, to again give you a run down of the employment record of the "most powerful man in county government." You'd be surprised.

Soviets Reported Building Missile Sites In Algeria

BRUSSELS (AP) — The Soviet Union has built one missile base in Algeria and is installing others just north of the Sahara Desert, a former chief of staff of the French Air Force says.

Gen. Paul Stehlin, now a member of the French Parliament, said in an article in the Belgian National Review that a missile base is in operation at La Calle, near the Tunisian border.

He also said the Soviets have built seven bases for TU16 bombers in Algeria.

A Munich newspaper, the organ of West German Finance Minister Franz Josef Strauss' Christian Socialist Union, reported in July that Soviet rockets were being installed around La Calle.

Moon Sample Arrives At Cal

BERKELEY (AP)—The first Apollo 11 moon rock to arrive in the San Francisco Bay Area went on display today.

It's the vanguard of several loads of lunar samples destined for detailed probing by researchers and millions of dollars worth of equipment.

The white-flecked rock, about the size of a large walnut, will be on public exhibit until Thursday at the University of California's Lawrence Hall of Science.

Then it will be scrutinized by scientists.

TIBURON NET DEPOT: QUIET RESEARCH

For six years now, since the Navy turned over operation of the Tiburon Net Depot to the Department of Interior, the facility has performed quiet but energetic research in the fields of oceanography, wildlife and geology. In this aerial photograph taken by Independent-Journal photographer Bob Hax, the 205-foot research vessel Virginia City is shown tied up at the depot dock. The Virginia City, once an ocean-going tug whose crew shot down seven Japanese planes during World War II, plumbs the ocean floor for rare minerals in behalf of the Marine Minerals Technology Center, Bureau of Mines, at the depot. Other facilities at the depot, besides those of the Bureau of Mines, are the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife Pacific research center, Pacific Headquarters of the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries and Geological Survey's headquarters.

Nixon Hopes To End War Before 1971

Claims Troop Withdrawal Proposals Hurting Effort

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon said today he is trying to settle the war in Vietnam before the end of 1970, and declared that proposals to set a deadline for U.S. troop withdrawal destroy and undercut his effort.

He appealed to the nation for "even more support" in pursuing his goal of peace.

At a White House news conference, Nixon twice talked of a settlement before the end of next year, or by the middle of 1971.

Nixon said efforts to impose a cutoff on U.S. involvement destroy the North Vietnam incentive to negotiate by telling the enemy in advance that "If he just waits for 18 months we'll be out anyway."

INFLATION CURB

Nixon also declared that administration efforts to curb inflation "have begun to work."

He said budget cuts and other economic steps are taking effect. "I'm not nawboning," said the President.

He defended his administration's school desegregation policies, calling it a middle course. "I do not consider it a victory for integration when the federal government cuts off funds for a school . . ." he said. "That's a defeat for education."

Back on the subject of Vietnam, Nixon said his administration has achieved "some progress" toward a settlement, and has made a comprehensive peace offer which seeks withdrawal of all foreign forces.

The only item not negotiable, Nixon said, is the right of South Vietnam to determine its own destiny, free of outside interference.

STEADY COURSE

Nixon called this a firm and steady course, then sounded this appeal for national backing:

"If we can stay on this course and have some more support in the nation . . . we have a lot of support but if we can have even more in the nation for this steady course, then the enemy will have some incentive to negotiate, recognizing that . . . it is not going to win its objective by waiting us out, then the enemy will negotiate and we will end this war before the end of 1970."

"That is the objective we have," Nixon said.

At another point, spurning troop cutoff deadlines, the President said "I am trying to achieve" a settlement before the end of 1970, or before the middle of 1971.

FIRST SINCE JUNE 19

The President told his first news conference since June 19 that imposition of a deadline would "undercut and destroy the negotiations in Paris."

He said the proposition to establish such a time limit for withdrawal of all American forces also represents "a defeatist attitude" about obtaining peace earlier.

Nixon thus took a stand in flat opposition to Sen. Charles E Goodell, Rn-N.Y., and the new Senate Republican leader, Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, both of whom favor a termination date. Goodell called for total withdrawal by Dec. 1, 1970 and Scott by the end of 1972.

"Any incentive for the enemy to negotiate is destroyed if he is told in advance" that the United States will get out by a certain date, Nixon said.

He said the United States had

Nixon Has Confidence In Judge

WASHINGTON (AP) —President Richard M. Nixon said today he still has confidence in Supreme Court nominee Clement F. Haynsworth's qualifications and integrity and predicted confirmation by the Senate.

He told a news conference questioner he has no plan to withdraw the nomination, on which the Senate Judiciary Committee is holding hearings.

"I believe he will be a great credit to the Supreme Court," Nixon said of Haynsworth, whom he designated to succeed the resigned Justice Abe Fortas.

STUDIED RECORD

The President said he had studied the judge's record before submitting the nomination.

He said he hopes the Senate can act to confirm the selection before the fall term of the Supreme Court starts Oct. 6.

A short time earlier, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell contended that opposition to the nomination has been couched in generalities. He also predicted prompt Senate confirmation.

"If we had put up one of the 12 apostles," Mitchell said, "it would have been the same."

Mitchell discussed Haynsworth's nomination in an interview in which he declared that all of the arguments against the South Carolina judge were expected.

CONFLICT CHARGES

He said he discussed possible conflict of interest charges "the first time I ever talked to Judge Haynsworth" more than two months before Nixon announced the nomination.

Asked whether there has been any impropriety in Haynsworth's actions, Mitchell replied, "Certainly not."

Mitchell contended that none of the judicial canons of ethics had been violated by Haynsworth.

He also said Haynsworth has, as a federal circuit court judge,

WAGE, PRICE CONTROLS

Cranston Fires Salvo On Inflation

By JOANNE GRANT

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., blaming the Vietnam War, today blasted the Nixon administration for not solving the nation's zooming inflation and suggested that wage and price controls may be in the offing.

Cranston, speaking at the 49th annual Redwood Empire Association convention at the Holiday Inn, said he believes the war in Vietnam is the single most inflationary factor in the economy.

"I will do all I can to get us out of Vietnam as fast as we can," he said to applause. He proposed cutting the military budget from $80 billion to $60 billion through slashes in Vietnam, the NATO forces and domestic armed forces manpower.

He contended the cuts could be made without reducing strength. Significant savings might also be realized in the welfare budget, he said.

Referring to the Nixon administration's efforts to combat inflation, Cranston said, "There is absolutely no evidence that these methods are working."

The California Democrat said he has been hearing from "serious, responsible, influential men who fear we may be on the edge of runaway inflation."

Cranston said a prominent congressman has predicted the nation may face wage and price controls within six months and he said he also has heard talk in Washington of voluntary or mandatory controls over credit.

Cranston also urged Gov. Ronald Reagan to take immediate steps to prevent "coastal chaos in the coming decade" by banning any major change along the California coastline until a land inventory is taken and a master plan developed.

"Time is running out on the California coast," Cranston warned. "Such an inventory and master plan should have been completed years ago. Now with the floods of coastal misuse swirling around us, we have finally gotten up the courage to stick our finger in the dike."

California has 1,050 miles of shoreline but only 335 miles are publicly owned, he said, and predicted the Bay Area and the south coast area will run out of vacant land entirely in 20 years.

"Unless we act now to preserve areas like the Point Reyes National Seashore, private interests will gladly acquire the land for their subdivisions and developments. I, for one, do not blame them at all, just as I do not criticize the oil companies for drilling in the Santa Barbara Channel.

"Their roles in our society is to build houses and to produce oil — and we can hardly criticize them if our government allows them to do their thing in the wrong place," said Cranston.

Last night, the association was told by State Controller Houston I. Flournoy that the state will lose millions of dollars in royalties and bonuses if it insists on requiring guarantees against leaks in tidelands oil wells.

Flournoy said that the State Lands Commission, which he heads, has approved no new tidelands drilling leases since the disastrous blowout of a Union Oil Co. well last winter off Santa Barbara.

The moratorium was agreed upon despite the fact that no major spill occurred on coastal lands within the jurisdiction of the commission. Union's well is on a federal lease.

"If the question remains one of an absolute guarantee in advance that no such leakage is possible, then I doubt that the present state of technology will allow the lands commission to ever permit another well to be drilled," he said.

Tourism and conservation themes threaded through yesterday's talks. "We're lucky we live in an area that can sell itself so eloquently," said Eugene Debbs Potts, the luncheon speaker.

He estimated three million persons would visit the Red-

Night Sky Glows Red As Pier, Ferry Burn

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— San Francisco's famed waterfront was lit up last night by a spectacular 4-alarm fire that roared along a 300-yard pier alongside the Ferry Building.

Flames, fed by the dry wood of Pier 14's abandoned superstructure, leaped more than 200 feet as timbers crashed and the walls of the pier's central warehouse area collapsed.

Nobody was injured in the inferno that erupted in one of the pier's small buildings. But the old San Leandro ferryboat was engulfed alongside the flamecovered pier.

Authorities blamed itinerants for the fire, which was fought by 200 men using 40 pieces of land equipment and seven fireboats. It was contained about 40 minutes after the first alarm sounded.

The buildings on Pier 14 have been vacant for the past five years except for a few offices and the pier itself had been condemned recently.

Because of this, damage to the pier probably will only run in the hundreds of dollars instead of the thousands. Open space north of the pier kept the flames away from the Ferry Building.

A full moon, reddened by smoke from the flames, hung over the Bay and added to the spectacle for the hundreds who gathered in the warm evening along the Embarcadero and in adjacent buildings to watch.

They also saw the end come for the 43-year-old San Leandro, last of the old Southern Pacific ferry fleet to go out of service in 1958.

Owner Leonard Martin had spent a reportead $150,000 refurbishing the old ferry and had been negotiating recently with buyers in Tiburon who wanted to dock it on their side of the bay for a trade fair. Martin is the developer of the Cannery near San Francisco's Fishermen's Wharf.

'Family Of Messiah' Tests Larkspur Law

Larkspur's antihippie ordinance yesterday was challenged as unconstitutional by a communal group which calls itself "The One World Family of the Messiah's World Crusade."

The "unincorporated association" filed suit in Marin Superior Court against the city, the city council, Police Chief Howard Clark and City Atty. Robert W. Elliott asking that enforcement of the ordinance be prohibited.

An amendment to the city's zoning rules passed last spring defines a family "as an individual or two or more persons related by blood, marriage or legal adoption, or a group not exceeding five persons, who need not be related, living together as a single housekeeping unit."

It went on, "A 'related' family may also include a maximum of two servants, but the 'unrelated' group shall in no event exceed five persons, including servants."

The definition was made to get rid of "families" of hippies living in single-family homes.

The One World Family, and represented by attorney Stephen A. Kauffmann, founded by Allen Noonan, feels the definition is "arbitrary, discriminatory and

Judge Says 'Diversion' Delays Trial

CHICAGO (AP) — Opening arguments in the trial of eight persons charged with conspiracy to incite riots during the 1968 Democratic National Convention was delayed today by what Judge Julius J. Hoffman termed "a diversionary effort" by defense lawyers.

One of the attorneys, Michael Tigar of Los Angeles, appeared at the U.S. District Court proceedings after spending the night in the federal lockup of the courthouse. He had been flown here after he was arrested yesterday in Los Angeles on a bench warrant ordered by Judge Hoffman.

The judge warrants for Tigar and three other defense lawyers of record came after they failed to appear Wednesday at the trial's opening session.

The defense, contending it was understood these four lawyers would not participate in the actual trial, filed a suit in the U.S. Court of Appeals today asking that the arrest warrants be withdrawn.

The suit also asks for a continuance in the trial until Charles F. Garry of San Fran-

Military Overthrows Bolivia Government

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Bolivia became today the fifth South American government to come under military rule. A movement headed by Gen. Alfredo Ovando Candia, commander in chief of the armed forces, overthrew the civilian government of President Luis Siles Salinas.

The new regime seems more left-leaning than most military governments. The cabinet is made up of young dissident leftist politicians from the Christian Democratic and the Nationalist Revolutionary parties, plus independents and young military men.

This trend opens a new chapter in this nation, which has been independent for 144 years and has undergone 185 coups or quick changes of government in that time.

In a message directed to the peasants, Ovando declared the new government will "defend the rights of the peasants, bringing into realization action that will make more profound the Bolivian agrarian reform" of 1953. Through its history the Bolivian economy has depended almost entirely on tin.

"The revolutionary government is on your side," Ovando told the peasants.

A message given out at Government Palace said the government "will fulfill the mandate which the people in its great majorities have been demanding." Among other things, Oviando promised to carry out a plan of "heavy industrialization."

14 Viet Civilians Die In U.S. Error

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. helicopter gunships for the second time in a week fired on a group of Vietnamese civilians mistaken for enemy troops, the U.S. Command said today. Fourteen civilians—12 men and two women —were reported killed, and seven civilian men and two regional force soldiers were wounded.

The incident occurred Tuesday, 25 miles west of Tam Ky, when the helicopter crews from the Americal Division observed a number of "suspected enemy soldiers in black and green clothing attempting to evade," headquarters said.

The helicopters opened fire with machine guns and rockets. "There was no reported return fire from the area and there were no U.S. casualties," the announcement added.

U.S. paratroopers found two Viet Cong sapper bases less than 15 miles from Saigon in the past 24 hours, and the commander of the U.S. 2nd Field Force said the enemy "is doing his damndest" to infiltrade the demolition and sabotage experts into the South Vietnamese capital.

Saigon may be in for a "flurry of terror," said Lt. Gen. Julian Ewell. He reported that captured documents indicate the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese will rely heavily on sapper attacks in the winter-spring campaign which the U.S. Command expects to start in November.

One base was hidden in the high elephant grass of a swamp and consisted of about 25 camouflaged huts. It apparently was abandoned just before the Americans, acting on intelligence information, swept into the area. Food found in pots was still warm.

Viets Deny Sale Of New U.S. Weapons

SAIGON (AP) — A South Vietnamese military spokesman today denied a charge by U.S. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., that the Saigon government is trying to sell new weapons the U.S. government has supplied it.

Proxmire clamed yesterday that the South Vietnamese government has offered private arms dealers more than 5,000 of the new, U.S. M16 automatic rifles plus grenade launchers, submachine guns and pistols.

The South Vietnamese spokesman said his government is negotiating with a British company for the sale of 200,000 weapons, but all are obsolete and very few are in operating condition.

He said most of the weapons were made in Britain, France, Denmark, Italy or Japan and the few U.S. arms involved were manufactured in 1917.

"The weapons ... were not provided ... by the United States," he said. "The Army of the Republic of Vietnam obtained the weapons before the United States involvement."

U.S. Trade Balance Climbs During August

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States' favorable trade balance rose in August for the fourth straight month, reaching its highest point since last March.

The Commerce Department reported today that the nation exported $204.9 million more than it imported during the month. The margin last March was $215.3 billion.

Israel Says War Deaths Show Increase

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israel's war casualties along the ceasefire lines with its Arab neighbors have risen to about 80 a month, Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said today.

Half of the casualties now are on the Israeli-Egyptian front, he added.

The year following the June 1967 war showed a monthly casualty rate of 50, one third of them fatal. In the second year, the rate rose to 80 per month, Dayan told an election rally.

Meanwhile, Israeli warplanes again hammered Egyptian military targets on the southern Suez Canal sector today, the military command announced. It said the planes went in twice because of what was described as Egypt's continued "aggression."

Nixon, Israeli Leader Continue Needs Round

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel's Prime Minister Golda Meir is briefing President Richard M. Nixon on the full array of her nation's economic and military needs.

While the White House says there is no need for an immediate decision on her plea for more planes, Nixon has saluted the "brave and courageous people" of Israel.

Toasting the 71-year-old prime minister at a White House dinner last night, Nixon said:

"We hope that as a result of our meeting that we will have taken a significant step forward toward that peace which can mean so much to the people of Israel, to the people of all the Mideast and also to the people of the world."

Nixon added that the people of Israel deserve and have earned lasting peace.

Mrs. Meir told Nixon that when she returns home "I will tell my people ... don't become cynical, don't give up hope, don't believe everything is just judged only by expediency."

Some differences of opinion, acknowledged following Nixon's hour-long talk with Mrs. Meir earlier yesterday, apparently center mainly on procedures rather than on Israel's bid for additional military hardware.

U.S. officials hope negotiations through the Big Four powers—the United States, Soviet Union, Britain and France—could bring a compromise solution that would avert open and large-scale war in the Middle East.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Red Press Warned

VIENNA (AP) — Party chief Nicolae Ceausescu told Romania's press yesterday to toe the official line in a speech underlining that the Communist regime's liberalism in foreign policy does not extend to the home front.

The speech threw cold water on speculation in some Western quarters that the Romanian regime's refusal to follow Moscow's dictation in economic and foreign policy was the prelude to liberal reforms within the country.

Ceausescu spoke in Bucharest on the 25th anniversary of the first issue of the official party newspaper Scienteia. He charged some cultural and artistic publications were not fighting "negative tendencies" in the arts, "trends that have nothing in common with Romanian realities."

Mansion For Sale

The mansion, on a one-acre site in the Los Feliz district of Los Angeles, has been used as the setting for several films, including "Jane Eyre" and "Too Much, Too Soon."

It contains 16 rooms and six baths, and has terrazzo marble floors, stained glass windows, thick concrete walls and an immense entry hall two and one-half stories high.

Pool For Press?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon, who favors salt water swimming, is reported discussing closing his indoor swimming pool to make more working room for White House reporters.

Nixon has made almost no use of the White House pool which was used regularly by Presidents Lyndon B. Johnson, John F. Kennedy and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The President recently took some reporters on a tour of the proposed new location for the press quarters. As for the current press room, Nixon said his dogs have better quarters.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI marked his 72nd birthday today with a full schedule of work.

Princess Sees Pub

TOKYO (AP) — Britain's Princess Margaret opened British Week in Japan today but photographers were frustrated in attempts to get pictures of her having a drink in an English pub imported for the occasion.

The princess and her husband, the Earl of Snowdon, contained their thirst until the cameramen left. Then the princess downed a gin and tonic and Lord Snowdon had an ale.

GNP Rise Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Commerce Department figures indicate there will be a large increase in the Gross National Product for July, August and September.

The previous increases this year in the total of goods and services have been in the neighborhood of $16 billion per quarter. Some indications are that the third-quarter figure would be somewhat larger. If so, this would put the GNP at an annual rate of $933 billion.

Divorce List Error

The divorce case of Maragret Cleveland Pomery vs. William Arthur Pomery should have been listed in yesterday's Independent-Journal under "divorces asked," not "divorces granted."

OPERATION CHECKPOINT LUGGAGE

An armed British trooper searches a luggage compartment of an auto entering Londonderry, North Ireland. It is typical of measures being taken as massive security precautions go into effect following renewed violence. Yesterday British troops raised barbed wire barricades in the Roman Catholic Bogside area and called in reinforcements. Meanwhile, it was reported from Belfast that Britain's Home Secretary James Callaghan will make a return visit on Oct. 9 and 10 to check progress in restoring peace to the embattled province. School Chiefs Rebuffed In Teacher Plea

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Local school officials have been rebuffed in their latest attempt to block a threatened school strike.

But Ballard yesterday refused and reiterated the union demand that it be permitted to negotiate for its members separately instead of through the council, which is dominated by the Classroom Teachers Association.

Ballard asserted the council was ineffective and unrepresentative and "has no right to present our demands to anyone."

The school authorities maintain that legal barriers prevent them from meeting the demand for separate negotiations even though Ballard insists this point will lead to a citywide strike Oct. 8.

School board president Laurel Glass said the board wants to hear the union demands. She said a court injunction won by the teachers group and the refusal of the state Legislature to pass a board-backed bill for separate negotiations has left the board in a "silly hands-tied position."

More men's hats are made in Connecticut than in any other state.

100 Arrested At Michigan Uprising

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Nearly 100 demonstrators were arrested early today when 250 state and city police moved into a student-occupied office building at the University of Michigan.

The police entered at the request of university President Robben W. Fleming, a university spokesman said.

The students had occupied the Literature, Science and the Arts building late yesterday in a dispute with the school administration over who should run a new university bookstore.

The persons arrested were taken by bus to the nearby Washtenaw County Jail.

It was not immediately known what charges would be lodged against them. Those arrested included the president and vice president of the school's student government.

Except for one brief clash between police and a group of demonstrators, there was little resistance to the arrests.

A volunteer first aid worker reported treating eight demonstrators for minor cuts. There were no reports of injury to police.

William Haber, assistant to Fleming, said damage to the building was one door kicked in and one window broken.

A crowd of 3,000 to 4,000 people—most of them students—gathered outside the building and jeered police as they moved in.

City and university authorities were rebuffed in two earlier attempts to serve an injunction ordering the students out.

About 400 students left the building after the university obtained the injunction but the others stayed put.

Police Chief Walter Krasny and university attorney Peter Forsythe were turned back in separate attempts to enter the building to serve the injunction.

About 1,300 students outside the building refused to let the two officials through.

Washtenaw County Sheriff Douglas J. Harvey had withdrawn about 100 deputies, declaring he would not stand by while the university president "plays footsie with some radicals."

"If Fleming had not been so wishy-washy to start with, he would not have to face now the damage those young people have done to the inside of the building," Harvey said.

The students were protesting a decision by the school's regents to put the bookstore under the control of the administration.

High School In Brooklyn Under Guard

NEW YORK (AP) —Three security guards were on duty today at Brooklyn's Erasmus High School where a gang of opponents of U.S. policy in Vietnam invaded two classrooms Wednesday, tied up the teachers and urged the students to go to Chicago for demonstrations.

The board of education assigned the guards yesterday at the request of Mayor John V. Lindsay, who also asked a special detail of detectives to investigate the incident.

The gang, about 17 in number, entered the huge school unnoticed and marched into two adjacent classrooms on the third floor, chanting "Ho Chi Minh lives—on to Chicago!" As they harangued the students, the teachers objected.

The radicals tied the teachers to their chairs, taped their mouths and continued the polemic. Then they slipped back out of the school.

Police later arrested two men and a woman outside the school as they distributed pamphlets from Students for a Democratic Society. The three pleaded guilty to loitering and two were sentenced to 10 days in jail. The other man received a 15-day sentence.

The principal, Saul Israel, said he thought the group did not contain any Erasmus students.

The board said the security guards will wear blue uniforms and will be empowered to make arrests. They will not be armed.

Cong Sympathizers Raid Harvard Campus

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A score of youthful Viet Cong sympathizers assaulted staff members and broke windows in a 10-minute raid yesterday on Harvard University's Center for International Affairs.

The youths entered the building shouting, "We're going to close this place down!" and, "We are SDS!", an apparent reference to the antiwar Students for a Democratic Society.

Ronald Brunner, a research fellow conducting a seminar on political participation, was pushed to the floor and kicked in the groin.

Dr. Benjamin H. Brown, an adviser, was cut on the ear when one of the group hit him on the head and pushed him down a flight of stairs.

Maury Feld, a librarian, was wrestled down a stairway when he tried to call police. His telephone was ripped out.

An elderly secretary was treated for a bruised hip.

Asst. Prof. James Kurth said he was punched repeatedly in the face.

"We're doing this to you for what you're doing to the Vietnamese people!" one attacker yelled.

Outside the building, other members of the gang pelted windows with rocks and used red paint to stencil slogans on the walls, including, "NLF will win."

Witnesses said no Harvard students were recognized among the gang members and police said there was no evidence any were involved.

Equipment Stolen

A $127 typewriter and an $89 adding machine were stolen from the front display window of the Marin Stationery Store at 1224 Fourth Street, San Rafael, sometime Tuesday or Wednesday, police reported today. The machine were taken during business hours or while a janitor had the door open that evening, store owners reported.

Hospital Seeks Cheaper Cooling

Alternative plans to air condition Hillcrest Hospital and bring down installation costs were reviewed last night by the hospital directors.

Loree Smith, hospital administrator, said the board would revise the specifications for the air conditioning and hopes to receive lower bids for the work.

All bids were rejected last month when the low bid came in at $89,435. The board had hoped to spend no more than $60,000.

Mrs. Smith reported that the storage building at the rear of the hospital is nearly complete with only electrical work yet to be done.

The board approved an expenditure of $3,000 for nursery equipment. Included will be isloettes and infalarms which monitor the physical conditions of babies.

Wilson Reluctantly Decides Parish School Must Close

The tiny parish school of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Belvedere, long the object of a neighborhood fuss, is going to have to close its doors, a Marin Superior Court judge has reluctantly decided.

Although Judge Joseph G. Wilson has not yet formally ruled on a 6-year-old law suit brought by neighbors against the school, he has indicated in a memorandum that he is forced to find the school an illegal use for the land on which it sits.

The judge said that the law is on the side of six Belvedere property owners — all neighbors of the church and school — who sued in 1963, the year the school opened, for an injunction to close the school.

The deed of sale for the church land prohibits its use for a school and allows only "religious worship purposes."

Although the judge noted that he had heard eloquent testimony about the religious experience which children attending the school gain, he said he could not interpret the law broadly enough to cover a day school.

The plaintiffs, Herbert Scheier, Gerald Sheehy, John Ostrom and their wives, complained that the school, at 3 Bay View Avenue, would subject them to "objectionable noise, traffic congestion, parking problems, invasion of privacy and other inconveniences . . ."

The neighbors seem to have won the legal battle but they did not get much sympathy from Wilson.

"It is easy to feel considerable sympathy for the defendants, and it is difficult to feel an awful lot of sympathy for the position of the plaintiffs," he wrote in his memordandum.

He also noted that the school has been in operation for a number of years and appears to serve a useful social purpose, adding that he doubted if "the plaintiffs actually were very much distressed or inconvenienced by its existence."

Rev. John S. Thornton, parish rector and school headmaster, said yesterday that the school's board of directors will meet at 8 p.m. Oct. 13 at the rectory, 5 West Shore Road, to decide whether to appeal the judge's decision, move the school or close it.

Thornton said he believed James Walsh, attorney for the schools, will ask that Wilson's decision not take effect until the end of this school year.

Moving the school would be costly, said Thornton, but "It would be tragic if the school had to close immediately and very sad if we had to close at all. I just don't know what the board will decide to do."

Thirty-two kindergarten through third grade students attend the school in the parish hall under the tuteledge of four teachers. Most go onto public school after completing the third grade, he said.

Parents from Belvedere, Tiburon, Mill Valley, Sausalito and Richmond pay $700 a year tuition for each child attending the integrated school, which includes daily chapel services.

Herbert Scheier, who was both a plaintiff and lawyer for the plaintiffs, refused to comment on the case.

Judge Wilson said it will probably be at least two months before he signs the judgment in the case. He added that the case was tried about 18 months ago but that the final briefs were only filed this summer.

Ferry Advocate Pleads For Takeover Because Of Strike

More than 200 Marin ferry commuters, strike-bound for almost four months, may have their beloved Tiburon service restored by the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District.

At least that was proposed today by the bridge board's most earnest advocate of getting the district into the ferry business, Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco.

Saying that 600 ferry commuters had been "deprived" because of a strike against the operator of the service, Harbor Carriers, he suggested that the district charter two boats from the company and resume the service. "We ought to get our feet wet literally," Leonoudakis told directors, who met in the Marin County Civic Center.

Both the company and the striking union, the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association, "are willing to work with the district," he said.

The charter operation could be a "pilot project" to help get the district into the ferry business, he added. He did not offer any estimate of the cost to the district of the charter.

Several directors murmured what appeared to be general approval of Leonoudakis' proposal, which was referred to the board's transportation committee for "early consideration."

(Harbor Carriers told the Independent-Journal it carred 220 to 230 commuters on the Tiburon service before the strike.)

Also referred to the transportation committee was Leonoudakis' proposal that the district apply to the federal government for a $10 million grant to get into a full-scale ferry operation using three 250-passenger, 30-knot hydrofoils.

Leonoudakis said he also was exploring the possibility of a five-month trial between Marin and San Francisco of one of the hydrofoils, starting perhaps next May. The vessel is about to be used in the Caribbean, and could be available off-season, he said.

In a related action, the directors set a meeting of the "committee of the whole" at 9:30 a.m. on Oct. 16 in district offices at the toll plaza to consider Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring's proposed $7.7 million commuter bus system.

Director John E. Dearman of San Francisco doubted the board would approve the bus plan in light of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors opposition to it, but the district's attorney, Jerome B. White, commented he was "quite optimistic they'll reverse their position." He did not elaborate.

Golden Gate Bridge And Highway Board Also:

BIDS — Accepted the only bid, $25,420 by the International Business Machine Corp., to provide 124,000 commuter ticket books, a six-month supply, and accepted as lowest of three bids, at $2,534, a bid by Production Engineering of San Anselmo to provide $1,000 plastic traffic tubes.

SURVEY — Received report from Luehring that questionnaires will be handed to motorists from 4 to 10 p.m. on Oct. 5 to determine their origin, destination, and purpose of Sunday travel across the bridge. The survey is part of a study of tourism being made by Marin County.

GNOSS — Was welcomed belatedly to Marin by Supervisor William A. Gnoss, who said he was "caught in a traffic jam," a remark apparently designed to jab the directors into acting on Luehring's commuter system.

BONDS — Voted unanimous opposition to pending federal legislation to remove the tax free feature of municipal bonds.

LAKE — Set its Oct. 31 regular board meeting at 10 a.m. in Lakeport, Lake County.

TRIAL

cisco recuperates from surgery and can represent Black Panther leader Bobby G. Seale, of Oakland, as chief counsel.

Tigar asked Judge Hoffman for permission to withdraw from the case. The judge said he would approve such a move only if all the defendants would agree to Tigar's withdrawal and unequivocally accept representation by other lawyers of record.

This ruling apparently was intended to halt the continued objections by Seale and defense counselors that he was not represented by his chosen counsel.

Earlier, Seale asked the trial be delayed until Garry had recuperated. Judge Hoffman denied the motion, as he previously rejected requests for continuances based on the same grounds.

A jury of two men and 10 women was seated yesterday. Two of the women jurors are Negroes. Most of those chosen are housewives. Four women alternate jurors also were agreed to by the prosecution and defense.

The defendants are charged with conspiracy to violate the antiriot provisions of the Civil Rights Act.

Defendants are Bobby G. Seale, Jerry C. Rubin, 31, and Abbie Hoffman, 31, both of New York and leaders of the Youth International Party — Yippies; David T. Dellinger, 53, New York, editor of Liberation magazine; Rennie Davis, 29, Chicago, an antiwar organizer; John R. Froines, 30, Eugene, Ore., a University of Oregon chemistry professor; Thomas E. Hayden, 30, a founder of the Students for a Democratic Society, and Lee Weiner, 29, of Chicago, a Northwestern University research assistant in sociology.

JUDGE

"religiously followed the decisions of the Supreme Court."

Mitchell's comments marked his first public statement on Haynsworth since the judge was nominated by Nixon and hearings began in the judiciary committee.

Haynsworth's nomination was opposed in the hearings today as based on political considerations and in conflict with equal rights. Much of the testimony was of the same nature yesterday.

Randolph Phillips, chairman of the Committee for a Fair, Honest and Impartial Judiciary, said Nixon's selection of Haynsworth was to repay southern delegates who supported the President at the Republican convention.

"There never has been a nomination selected on such a low basis as this one," Phillips said.

Gary Orfield, an assistant professor of politics and public affairs at Princeton University, said the role of the Supreme Court will be crucial in years ahead in enforcing civil rights laws.

"At this decisive juncture, the appointment of Judge Haynsworth would symbolize a willingness to see our highest court turn away from the cause of equal rights," he said.

Fatty Tissue Absence Not Happiness Cause

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—To adherents of the slimming diet cult, total lipodystrophy, which is the complete absence of fatty tissue in the body, may sound lake a dream come true.

Hardly. Such a condition is a disease and, fortunately, it is refatively rare.

NIXON

made many constructive moves toward peace and "now is the time for Hanoi to make the next move."

Asked about the reasons behind Russia's failure to respond to nuclear arms negotiations, Nixon replied Secretary of State William P. Rogers expects an answer soon. He said he did not know the reason for the delay in a reply by the Russians.

Asked about U.S. involvement in Laos, Nixon said "There are no American combat forces in Laos." he said the U.S. is concerned about North Vietnamese forces in Laos.

Nixon said the U.S. has been providing some logistical support and training to combat the North Vietnamese forces but emphasized that "there are no American combat troops in Laos."

The questioning swung to the government of South Vietnam and Nixon said the Thieu regime is in power there because of an election.

"Until the people of south Vietnam have another election, that mandate should not be reversed," he said.

On another domestic front, Nixon was asked about the policy of getting more Negroes into trade unions, and said it is essential that black Americans — "all Americans" — be treated equally.

"We intend to continue . . . to attempt to make progress in this field because in the long run we cannot have construction unions that continue to deny" membership to all, he said.

Nixon was asked about published reports that the administration acted on school desegregation in Mississippi under pressure from Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Service Committee.

"Anybody who knows Sen. Stennis and who knows me," Nixon said, knows that the senator would not threaten to harm an administration bill in retaliation for desegregation actions in his state.

Asked about the student moratorium and other campus demonstrations against the Vietnam War, Nixon said there was little the administration could do about running college campuses.

unconstitutional."

The Family, which lives in an old gray, three-story 18-room house at 234 Hawthorne Avenue, describes itself in the suit as "a single family united and related by ties which among other things include common religion, beliefs, philosophy and mode of living."

The 10 aduts and six children who comprise the family make their way by selling health bread and macroburgers at two restaurants and through a food concession at a San Francisco ballroom.

The family is vegetarian and lives simply in the former convalescent home atop a hill.

Noonan believes that in addition to being the cosmic Messiah, he is the "comforter" and Michael the Archangel, all in the same personage.

Not only are Noonan, and two other family members, Diane Nelson, Herta Taylor, bringing the suit to have the law declared unconstitutional on their own behalf, but they also say they are speaking "on behalf of all persons similarly situated."

They claim that others affected by the definition of family are "far too numerous to bring before the court."

Blonde Hair Count

NEW YORK (UPI)—Whether or not blondes have more fun, they do have more hair than any other people. There are approximately 180,000 hairs in the average blonde head of hair, compared with 120,000 for a brunette and only about 50,000 for a redhead, according to researchers for a hair products company.

BOLIVIA

cabinet said that "in accordance with the guidelines of the great transformations which the country needs," the government has chosen "persons whose political backgrounds are really revolutionary."

In one post there was no change. Foreign Minister Gustavo Medeiros was retained. He now is in New York attending the U.N. General Assembly.

Bolivia thus joined Argentina, Paraguay, Brazil and Peru among South American governments under military rule. Elsewhere in the hemisphere, Panama, El Salvador, Honduras and Nicaragua are under direct or indirect military control.

The coup took place while Siles Salinas was out of La Paz. He is reportedly in Chile where he will go into exile.

A communique issued by the commanders of the three armed forces of Bolivia said they took action "to avoid the danger of anarchy, capitulation and disorder."

They said the country was calm but suspended all activities in the nation and urged people to stay in their homes.

Siles, 54, was elevated to the presidency last April when President Rene Barrientos was killed in a helicopter crash.

Siles, was known as a strict constitutionalist and, as vice president, headed the convention which wrote Bolivia's current constitution, the 16th in the nation's history.

His father, Hernando, and half brother, Hernan Siles Zuazo, both were presidents of Bolivia. Hernando died in exile in Peru, and Hernan is in exile in Argentina.

Also Leave The Sales Tax Money

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — After she lost a tooth, 10-year-old Mary Read asked her mother about the possibility of the Good Fairy leaving a coin under her pillow to compensate for the missing molar.

"I hope the Fairy doesn't forget," the child worried.

"She won't," her mother said.

"And I hope," the child added, "that she doesn't forget the sales tax."

wood Empire this year, but he was not complacent, as he urged efforts to attract persons from further away and cooperation among everyone for the tourist industry.

"From the beginning of time man has been a tourist," said Potts, recalling Adam's side trip to a fruit stand.

Potts, president of the Oregon State Senate, warned however that "all too often in our haste to build more, we disregard the conservation of the very things that attract our tourists."

Speaking in the afternoon, after he had received a plaque commerating 50 years of work of the Save the Redwoods League, was Richard M. Leonard of San Francisco.

Leonard reported efforts for a national redwood park began in 1908 by a group of Humboldt County women. "It only took 60 years," he added.

He said coordinated efforts by conservation groups had made it possible. Such efforts also have spurred industry, highway builders and others to pay more attention to conservation, said Leonard, a founder and former president of the Sierra Club.

Highways were the topic of several other speakers yesterday, including Virgil P. Anderson, legislative representative of the California State Automobile Association.

Anderson talked of the current split of state highway funds which gives Northern California 45 per cent and said he seriously doubts that the committee majority which makes that split possible will continue.

"We can expect a change in the allocation of these funds," he warned, indicating Southern California would receive more.

Anderson also predicted the constitutional revision committee would recommend repealing the article which limits the use of gas tax funds to highways and urged convention-goers to work to protect the highway funds.

Also discussing highways were Alan S. Hart, chief engineer of District 4 of the state Division of Highways and Harold G. Larsen, District 1 engineer.

He showed a series of slides as examples, including green plastic divider strips, the new freeway sign at the main San Rafael exit and various plantings along Highway 101.

Because it is an old highway, "we have to rely on cosmetic devices," said Hart.

He also reviewed highway projects in progress and planned and reported that within next year all of Highway 101 from the Golden Gate Bridge to Greenbrae will be four lanes.

He said the new San Rafael viaduct would be completed in June 1970 (although the contract calls for June 1971) and the work from the north end of the viaduct to San Pedro Road would end in two months.

He urged chambers of commerce, the association and other groups to work for the highways they believe are most important.

Sutterley reported there are 600 miles of shoreline, not counting the ins and outs in the Redwood Empire. "It has failed to realize its water potential," he said.

He reported, "We are not taking advantage of the money available from the state of California to develop water resources. The state has more money than they know what to do with by way of developing harbors," he said.

Fourth Accused In Fatal Holdup

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A fourth man was charged today with first degree murder in the slaying of four women in a holdup Wednesday at a savings and loan company office.

Police identified him as Karl Engle of Cincinnati and said he was arrested at 1 a.m. He lives in the Price Hill-Delhi area where the four victims lived.

Search for two of the three men earlier charged in the case extended into Kentucky. Police said the two, Watterson Johnson, 22, and John Leigh, 20, spent Wednesday night at a motel in Whitley City, Ky., 200 miles south of Cincinnati.

Raymond Kassow, 24, in custody and charged in the case, was bound to a Hamilton County grand jury without bond after he appeared in police court on a preliminary hearing.

Roberta Cueller, 32, of 4 St. Gabriel Court, Tiburon, was treated yesterday at Marin General Hospital for back bruises after her car overturned at 3:15 p.m. in front of 120 Lyford Drive, according to a hospital spokesman.

Mrs. Cueller's two daughters, aged 5 and 23 months, received minor scrapes and bruises during the accident.

Tiburon Sheriff's deputies said the brakes on Mrs. Cueller's car apparently failed as she drove down Lyford Avenue and she turned the car into an enbankment to stop the runaway car.

A native of San Francisco, he attended the University of California at Berkeley and the University of Nevada. He spent 10 years in the advertising business in San Francisco before World War II. He moved to Santa Rosa following his discharge.

Other officers re-elected yesterday were Andrew Flynn of Crescent City and James A. Nealis of Eureka, vice presidents; J. Harold Robinson of Willits, treasurer; and Edwin A. Frediani of San Francisco, attorney. Carney J. Campion will continue at general manager.

Elected to the executive board by counties were R.M. Douglas of San Francisco County; J. Galen Foster of Marin; Joe McClelland of Sonoma; Donald J. McFarland and John R. Hancock, Napa; Earl W. Fullerton and Ray Regalia, Mendocino; Reed Hardester, Lake; Arthur Stadler, Paul Hoff and Pat Dorsey, Humboldt; Marylee Thompson, Del Norte, and Harry Christiansen, Josephine County, Oregon.

Sentenced by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. to pay the fine were Geoffrey Lawrence Tobey, 27, and Kenneth James Pearson, 28.

Quentin Disposal Site Runs Afoul

I-J Special Report

HAYWARD — San Quentin Disposal Site, which is polluting the bay with toxic wastes, was given three weeks to eliminate the problem or face court action under a cease and desist order adopted yesterday by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board.

Two breaks in the dike on an adjacent property have flooded the dump, the board's staff reported. But the dump's solid waste consultant, Bruce Bernhard, assured the board that the situation will be cleared up before the deadline.

The breaks were closed Tuesday night, he said, and three pumps are working around the clock to dewater the trash site.

The board's staff had recommended an Oct. 6 deadline, a date set previously in a conference among representatives of the staff, dump and Marin County District Attorney's office, but Bernhard won an extension to Oct. 15.

The owner of the adjacent property is Holiday Magic, San Rafael cosmetics firm owned by William Penn Patrick, according to the board's executive officer, Fred H. Dierker.

Bernhard said the regional board's decision two weeks ago to go to the district attorney was "uncalled for." He noted that San Quentin Prison dumped 800,000 gallons of raw sewage a day for a week, an action that did not send the board's staff to the district attorney.

The board also voted to ask the City of San Rafael not to renew the use permit for the 175-acre dump, which expired on Wednesday, unless the site is dry by the deadline. Norris Rawles, city director of public works, said yesterday that the city would comply with the request.

Dierker reported that the dikes had been broken since April, and that the dump operators had done nothing about the pollution despite several requests from the board's staff.

If the repaired dikes fail again, said director Sidney S. Lippow of Martinez, then the dump operators will have grounds to sue the adjacent property owner.

The Bay Water Quality Control Board Also:

DUMPS — Adopted regulations of dumps to prevent pollution of surface and ground waters, and requested local agencies to withhold new permits for dumps until requirements have been set by the regional board. The regulation, which will require ratification by the State Water Resources Control Board, will affect more than 90 dumps, including the San Quentin Disposal Site and Redwood Sanitary Land Fill north of Novato.

RATINGS — Adopted new ground rules to rate polluters earmarked for enforcement proceedings, giving extra weight ot violations that endanger public health.

BOLINAS — Asked Bolinas Community Public Utility District to report to the board on Oct. 23 its progress on joining with Stinson Beach County Water District to build a $2.3 million sewage system. The Bolinas district did not meet the regional board's May deadlines for completing the joint agreement, but Dan P. Norris, engineer for the Stinson Beach district, reported their completion was near. The Bolinas district is under a board order to cease dumping raw sewage into the mouth of Bolinas Lagoon.

NOVATO — Approved progress by Novato Sanitary District toward installation of new disinfection equipment, due to be completed under a regional board order by Dec. 20.

RANCH — Agreed to consider dropping at its November meeting a cease and desist order against the Smith Brothers' Dairy outside San Rafael, after receiving a staff report that the dairy herd has been sold and the ranch is about to be put on the market for subdivision.

RICHARDSON BAY — Postponed further action against polluters in Richardson Bay upon receiving a staff report that the Marin County Board of Supervisors "have taken definitive action toward elimination of these discharges."

SAN RAFAEL — Received staff report that further enforcement actions against San Rafael Sanitation District will be recommended to the board at its November meeting. The district pollutes the bay with raw sewage when rainfall swells flows beyond the treatment plant's capacity.

PETALUMA — Asked the Sonoma County District Attorney's office to expedite court action on a 1966 cease and desist order by the board against James Gilardi, owner of a site on the lower Petaluma River where there are 10 small cabins discharging directly into the river.

SAN FRANCISCO — Adopted toughened requirements for two sewage discharges by the City of San Francisco totaling 76.5 million gallons a day of sewage. The board's staff showed colored slides showing gigantic fecal plumes discoloring the bay down current from the two discharges.

TB In Mexico

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—There are about 20,000 cases of tuberculosis in Mexico per year, with four or five proving fatal, health authorities say.

Free-Lance Dilys Jones Dies In Crash

Dilys Jones, 47, free-lance writer and newspaperwoman who formerly lived in Sausalito, was killed Wednesday night when her car went off a cliff near Laguna Beach.

Miss Jones, who recently moved from Sausalito to San Francisco, reportedly was on a visit to her mother, Mrs. Olive Jones, at Laguna Beach.

Early this year she was employed in the public relations department of Roos-Atkins, but most recently she had been free-lance writing.

Miss Jones attended Stanford University and in 1945, was employed by the San Francisco Examiner as a reporter. She left the newspaper in 1950 to enter public relations, but later returned to write Sunday features. In 1965, she resigned to work in the public relations department of Air West.

Miss Jones was the daughter of the late Idwal Jones, a noted San Francisco writer, who died in 1964.

Fire Hose Ordered For Stinson Beach

The Stinson Beach Fire Protection District board has approved purchase of 500 feet of new hose from the Van Pelt Fire Engine Co. of Oakdale at a cost of about $500, board president Joseph Lawrence reported.

He said the board, which met Wednesday night, also is seeking estimates on a four-wheel drive fire-fighting unit and is continuing its testing of the district's water mains and hydrants.

San Francisco Faces Construction Halt Over Delay Of Sewage Plan

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

HAYWARD — San Francisco's construction boom may be ordered to a sudden halt if the city continues stalling promised action on a pilot project designed to solve its entire sewage problem.

This was the clear warning yesterday by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board, which was angered to learn that the city's supervisors voted to delay the project.

The city's chief administrative officer, Thomas Mellon, who blamed the delay on citizens' action insisted it was unlikely the delay would cost the city its $1 million federal grant that is to pay for most of it.

But the regional board members cited a letter from William D. Bishop, project officer for the Federal Water Pollution Control Agency, that the delay will require that his office to "carefully reconsider the continued eligibility of the project for federal grant support."

The warning of the penalty against the city was made by board chairman William C. Weber of San Mateo. The board, after a new state law takes effect Jan. 1, can bar any discharger from increasing the flow of pollutants — in effect, a bar on any new construction that will need sewer service.

The new law also empowers regional boards to seek $6,000-a-day fines against polluters, but the penalty cited by Weber is expected to be more effective. It not only would deprive the city of huge increases in assessed valuation, but also would subject the supervisors to a storm of protest from builders blocked by the regional board.

The experimental sewage disposal plant was about to be built in the Marina, at the foot of Lyons Street, Mellon said, but residents of the area complained after the regular public hearings that they had not known of the plan. The plant should go in the Presidio, they said, a plea that led the supervisors to vote 7-4 on Sept. 2 to delay the project pending discussion with the Army about relocating the plant onto the Presidio.

The plant would replace the six-foot discharge pipe that now dumps raw sewage and globs of grease in front of a picture window at the St. Francis Yacht Club.

The regional board's executive officer, Fred H. Dierker, said the supervisors' vote to reconsider the location meant the city could not meet the regional board's Oct. 1 deadline for construction to begin. As a result, this coming rainy season's polluted waste from the area continue to be dumped in the bay.

San Francisco's unique problem is that it combines storm and sewage lines, so that anything wetter than a drizzle overwhelms its antiquated sewage treatment plants, thus dumping massive quantities of raw sewage in the bay.

The experimental plant is to test new methods of treating the huge flows that bypass the regular treatment plant.

Mellon told the directors he was "almost sure" the Army would decide whether to accommodate the plant on the Presidio before the regional board's Oct. 23 meeting. He did not mention that the city's engineering staff then would have to begin extensive testing to determine the feasibility of a Presidio site.

Dierker said that a cease and desist order, which must wait on the first rains, against the city for failing to install the plant would be ready for adoption at the board's January meeting. The order would set the legal stage for penalties against the city under the new law.

Mike Hanging Is Fatal To Singer

NEWCASTLE - UPON - TYNE, England (AP) — British pop singer Richard Stott was electrocuted early today while handling a microphone on the stage of a local night club.

Stott, 22, had just been playing an electric guitar. He stepped up to the microphone to announce his next song and collapsed. His partner, Elizabeth Sykes, was unhurt.

Another pop singer, Michael Joseph Hayes, 21, died on Aug. 10 after touching electrical apparatus on the stage of a London club.

LOCOMOTIVES DERAIL, KILLING THREE

Wreckage of five linked diesel locomotives of the Southern Pacific Railroad lies outside a tunnel near San Luis Obispo, a grim testimony to the death of three trainmen. The three were killed yesterday when the engines drailed. The engines, however, were not pulling any cars.

Conservation Deemed Good Vote Fodder

SACRAMENTO (AP) — From the misty North Coast redwoods to the smog of the Los Angeles basin, conservation is emerging as a major political issue in California, party leaders agreed today.

"I think it's a good issue, a damn good issue," said Leon Cooper of Los Angeles, the state Democratic party's Southern California chairman.

Increasing public concern with the quality of environment will appear during the 1970 campaign, Cooper predicted.

"Candidates are going to have to be discussing these issues," he added in a telephone interview. "It is a major issue because of absolute need."

GOP AGREES

Dennis Carpenter of Newport Beach, the state Republican chairman, said political involvement of conservationists is becoming evident throughout the state and country.

"Previously, a conservationist was one of those unusual and small group of people who oppose anything that involved turning a leaf," Carpenter said.

But now, he added, "it is no longer an abstract concept."

"Everyone who drives in Los Angeles, or lives there, has to be painfully aware we have air pollution. Anyone who camps knows that the places where he can go are extremely crowded and there are beer cans all around."

Carpenter said of conservation as a political and legislative issue: "Practical realities have pushed it to the fore."

"People can't turn away from it and ignore it," Carpenter said.

FISCAL IMPACT

Both he and Cooper said they didn't think that tough stands on conservation issues, such as the Santa Barbara oil spill of early this year, would hurt their campaign contributions from industrial sources.

"The kind of political leader the people are going to look towards is the one who stand up on these issues . . . I think political leaders have to recognize the breadth of the constituency and depth of feeling on that issue," Cooper said.

$3.7 Million Shakeup Urged To Cut State Computer Bill

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California could save $4 million a year by consolidating and reprogramming the state executive branch's costly 48 computers, an expert said today.

The one-time cost of doing this would be $3.7 million, reported Charles P. Smith, the state director of management services.

Just consolidating "excess equipment," without redesigning or reprogramming the computers, would save $1 million a year, Smith said.

The suggestions came in his draft of a long-range master plan for use of computer equipment by the state government.

Smith also proposed the elimination of his own office, of the State Electronic Data Processing (EDP) Policy Committee and the Intergovernmental Board on EDP. They would be succeeded by a cabinet-level Department of EDP Services, Smith said.

Smith said the plan proposes that emphasis in use of state computers be shifted from "internal administrative processes" to public service, particularly in the areas of social service, education and law enforcement.

The report said the current state budget includes about $52.5 million for electronic data processing, with 67 computers and an estimated 3,600 fulltime state employes. The figures do not include the University of California, which has many computers.

The master plan proposes these steps over a five-year period:

Redesigning of inefficient EDP programs.

Merging of consolidated systems and resources into six EDP service facilities.

Smith said, "If currently inefficient systems were redesigned and reprogrammed, the current number of 48 computers in the executive branch would be reduced to 26 over approximately a four-year period resulting in a onetime expenditure of approximately $3.7 million and net annual savings of approximately $4 million in equipment in operations personnel."

He added, "However, if only excess equipment were consolidated, without significant redesign and reprogramming, the current number of 48 computers would be reduced to 34 over approximately an 18-month period resulting in onetime expenditures of approximately $500,000 and net savings of approximately $1.1 million annually."

U.S. motorists drove about 1 trillion, 10 billion miles during 1968, equal to more than 40 million trips around the earth.

Ex-Kennedy Worker Takes Reins Of Unruh's Potential Campaign

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The man who lost to Barry Goldwater Jr. for Congress has taken charge of Assembly Democratic Leader Jesse M. Unruh's expected 1970 campaign for governor.

He is John Van de Kamp, 33, who joined the U.S. Justice Department under the late Robert F. Kennedy and served there almost eight years. He lost to young Goldwater in a special election earlier this year.

As staff director, Van de Kamp is in command of a growing Unruh political operation in Los Angeles that includes a new press secretary, Eli Bregman, 42, a producer for Los Angeles radio station KNX.

"It's no secret," said Van de Kamp. "We are organizing what could be turned into a full-fledged political campaign."

Unruh is touring the state in what he describes as an assessment of support for a gubernatorial campaign. He is expected to announce late this year or early next year whether he will enter the Democratic primary in 1970.

A potential opponent is Democratic Mayor Joseph Alioto of San Francisco. Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan is expected to seek a second term.

"I think he'll run, if it were my guess today," Van de Kamp said of Unruh. He added, though, "I can't commit him."

In addition to Van de Kamp and Bregman, a staff is being assembled with strong ties to Kennedy and to Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif. Unruh directed Kennedy's last campaign, in the 1968 California presidential primary, and was at his side when he was shot to death on the night of his primary victory.

Frank Vaca, a former Kennedy political worker, now is an administrative assistant to Unruh. Robert Kolos, who has been working with Cranston, is assisting Unruh with radio and television public relations.

Taking part in the operation in an unofficial capacity is a Los Angeles attorney who isn't well known to the public, but has been Unruh's closest adviser for more than a decade.

He is Frank Burns, who got his first taste of statewide campaigning last year when he helped Unruh direct the Kennedy campaign.

If he runs, Unruh's advisers say he'll try for a low-key primary campaign, saving his strength for the general election against Reagan.

Polls taken a month ago show Unruh leading Alioto in a primary race, but trailing Reagan in a general election. No polls have been taken since the latest development — Look Magazine's article alleging Alioto had alliances with Mafia leaders. Alioto, denying the allegation, filed a $12.5 million libel suit against the magazine.

Van de Kamp said he thinks Unruh will be able to appeal to the minorities who supported Kennedy and to the middle class voters who have been increasingly conservative in recent elections.

"I think he'll be very strong in that category," he said.

Van de Kamp is a relative novice in politics. A member of a prominent Southern California bakery owning family, he was in the attorney general's office from 1960 to 1967.

As director of the attorney general's executive office, he supervised administration of 93 U.S. attorney's offices around the country. He served briefly as U.S. attorney in Los Angeles, and then quit to run against Goldwater in a special election.

Goldwater had little trouble winning in the Republican district, but Democrats said they were pleased with Van de Kamp's showing in a strongly Republican and conservative district.

Army To Bare Spy Case Details Defense Appeals To President

LONG BINH, Vietnam (AP) — Military spokesmen said the Army would disclose tomorrow details of its case against six Green Beret officers accused of murdering a Vietnamese spy.

Sources said the disclosure also would identify the alleged "trigger man."

The path was cleared to make public details of the charges after Army legal authorities rejected for the second time a defense motion to prevent release of the information.

The alleged victim was Thai Khac Chuyen, a Vietnamese identified by the Green Berets as a double agent for the Americans and the North Vietnamese. According to defense accounts, he was ordered executed by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency. The CIA has denied any such involvement.

Henry B. Rothblatt, civilian attorney for two of the accused men and for a third against abeyance, said release of the details by the Army is "an attempt to inflame public opinion."

"It's another example of the military authorities' unethical conduct, a deliberate attempt to prejudice the case," he said.

Attorneys for three of the accused Green Berets appealed to President Richard M. Nixon today to dismiss the charges.

Defense attorneys said they believed the direct appeal to the President was unprecedented in American military law.

The motion was submitted to Maj. Gen. G.L. Mabry Jr. to be sent to Nixon in his capacity as commander in chief of the armed forces. Mabry is commander of U.S. support troops in Vietnam, which includes the Special Forces, and it was he of the Green Berets and military trial for six of them on murder and conspiracy charges.

Claiming that the case had been "irreparably tainted by command influence," the motion asked Nixon to dismiss all charges against three of the six officers and "in the alternative to issue a new series of charges."

The petition to the President was filed on behalf of Col. Robert B. Rheault, 43, of Vineyard Haven, Mass., the former commander of all Green Beret forces in Vietnam; Maj. David E. Crew, 33, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and Capt. Leland J. Brumley, 27, Duncan, Okla.

Defense attorneys said that if approved, the motion would apply to all six of the men who have been ordered tried. The others are Maj. Thomas C. Middleton Jr., 29, Jefferson, S.C., Capt. Robert F. Marasco, 27, Bloomfield, N.J., and Capt. Budge E. Williams, 27, Athens, Ga.

Service Station Sign Approved

The Novato Plan Review Committee yesterday approved of plans for a 9-by-17-foot addition to the Shell service station at 2085 Novato Boulevard in the Novak Square Shopping Center.

The addition would be constructed to the rear of the service station and would not be visible from Novato Boulevard, according to Planning Director Brian W. Mattson.

Westwood Homes Inc. was given approval by the committee of plans for a duplex at 1612 Center Road adjacent to the Westside Terrace apartments.

Jerry Taylor was given approval for plans for three signs totaling 170 square feet for the Cloudburst Car Wash on the west side of Highway 101, south of Hill Road.

Green Berets' Spy Called Triple Agent

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP) — The dead spy in the Green Berets murder case in Vietnam was more than a double agent, Newsday columnist Flora Lewis says — he was a triple agent owing allegiance to South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

In a copyright story in yesterday's editions, she said she learned the new information in a report from Vietnam. She did not elaborate on her source.

She said the spy, Thai Khac Chuyen, was working with the Special Forces on orders from Thieu, who wanted to see what U.S. troops were doing across the border in Cambodia and Laos. Thieu did not trust American explanations he received, she said.

Chuyen allegedly was killed by the Green Berets, Miss Lewis said, when the Central Intelligence Agency found out he also was working for the North Vietnamese. The CIA recommendation for Chuyen was to "terminate with extreme prejudice," she said.

The Army intended only to wound Chuyen to frighten him into talking, she said, but the assailant wounded the spy fatally.

When Thieu learned of the slaying he rushed to Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, according to Miss Lewis, and demanded to know "why you are killing my people."

"Only then, with Chuyen dead," she wrote, "did any American know the answer to the riddle of the agent's loyalty. It was to Saigon."

Marin City Planning Coordinator Voted

Marin City Council last night recommended Jack Williams of Oakland for the post of community coordinator for Marin City's $75,600 planning project.

The council's recommendation will be presented Tuesday to Marin County Board of Supervisors which has the power to hire the project coordinator.

The federal planning grant is being processed through Marin County, which will put up $25,000 in planning services as its matching contribution.

After screening of seven candidates by a committee, the finalists were Williams, personnel manager for Aladdin Heating Co., San Leandro, and Fred Williams of Oakland, employed by the Opportunities Industrialization Center in Oakland.

By secret written ballot in open session, the council voted 5-1 to recommend Jack Williams for the $13,500-a-year post.

The two top candidates spoke briefly at open session before the vote was taken.

Paul C. Zucker, Marin County planning director, told residents his department would serve as a consultant to the Marin City Council.

He also said that direction should come from the council on "what you want us to explore . . . I can't say what you want. You have to say that yourself."

At the close of the session, Ulysses J. Montgomery, San Francisco urban consultant, urged action toward forming a Marin City Development Association, a nonprofit development corporation, owned and controlled by Marin City residents.

He suggested that to get the incorporation articles filed the council designate five persons, consisting of two from the council and three from the community, as incorporators.

Once the corporation was started, "everyone would be a member and could elect directors," Montgomery said.

Since it was a late hour and two new council members weren't familiar with the incorporation proposal, the council postponed action until a special meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Manzanita Center.

The Marin City Council also recommended to the Housing Authority that Earle Stanton of San Francisco, who is providing television antenna service to Marin City, be declared in default of his contract.

The council announced that an election for seats on the council will be held Oct. 7 at the Economic Opportunity Council office at the Manzanita Center.

Council members Mrs. Charles W. Hodges, Ronald Foster and Joseph Knighten were absent.

Pompidou To Visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Georges Pompidou of France will visit the United States for about a week next February, the White House announced today. Pompidou will be in Washington Feb. 24 and 25, then visit other American cities.

Rent Orders Freeze Asked By Council

Marin City Council last night recommended that the Marin County Housing Authority put a freeze on moving notices and rent raises while efforts are under way to change rental policies.

The action was sparked by a report from Mrs. Alice Curry of 147 Drake Avenue that she was given notice to move because she was "overincome."

Wallace K. Shepherd, administrative assistant with the authority, reported that the income limits are set by law and the top for one person is $4,700 a year.

If Mrs. Curry cannot find another place to live, she can remain and her case would be reviewed in 60 days, he said. "We're not talking about putting people out, just giving notice," he said.

Mrs. Curry said moving would put her in jeopardy, and felt the policy was penalizing people when they "try to be independent."

Shepherd said there is a tenant committee working on a set of proposed policy changes to be submitted to the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Mrs. Thelma McKinney said there is little housing available in Marin, and since "$5,000 is considered poverty," the limit should be raised.

Residents "are barely getting by now," and if they have to "move out where rents are higher, they aren't going to make it at all," she said.

Shepherd said in view of existing regulations, "all I can do is work to make changes."

Melvin Randolph, public housing manager in Marin City, reported that three moving notices "are now in process." He said that action on Mrs. Curry's notice would be withheld for 60 days.

Mrs. Curry also reported that her rent had been raised from $77.35 to $99.35 a month. Randolph commented: "We can't stop raising rents," which are based on income.

Shepherd explained that rents are based on 22 per cent of gross income, and residents suggested that they be based on net income.

Councilmen then voted 5-0 there should be a moratorium on moving notices for exceeding income limits and on rent hikes until policy review is completed.

Fails In Try To Take Life

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A man charged with three execution-type murders unsuccessfully attempted suicide with an overdose of sleeping pills in jail, police said today.

Robert Jahmelik, 36, was taken to San Francisco General Hospital, where physicians said they pumped his stomach for at least 10 sleeping tablets.

A grand jury indictment charges him with killing three persons in a Haight-Ashbury District hippie pad. Police said the three victims all had been narcotics users and may have been "burn artists" — pushers who sold inferior drugs.

Five Hurt In Three-Car Crash In Waldo Tunnel

Five persons were injured yesterday in a three-car pile-up in the Waldo Tunnel on southbound Highway 101, the California Highway Patrol said today.

Treated at Marin General Hospital were: Susan Parker, 26, of Cambridge, Mass., for forehead cuts and bruises; Anne Lillian Turnanjanin, 56, of San Francisco, for a fractured rib; James M. Radcliff Jr., 25, of San Francisco, for bruises on the left temple and elbow, and Mary Bobbitt, 25, of San Francisco, for skull bruises.

The fifth person, Katherine Jane Sisler, 46, of 212 Brookside Drive, San Anselmo, was to see her own physician, the patrol said.

The patrol said Radcliffe's car swerved and overturned in the tunnel because of defective equipment and Mrs. Turanjan in s car swerved into the side of one driven by Mrs. Sisler as she tried to avoid hitting the overturned car. Miss Bobbitt and Miss Parker were passengers in Radcliffe's car.

Black Point Tract Plans Draw Fire

The North Marin Federation (of homeowners associations) will oppose the request of Jack D. Kinney to substitute 1,800 mobile homes for planned single-family dwellings when it comes before the Novato Planning Commission at 8 p.m., Oct. 6 at the Novato Community House, according to secretary Evelyn Johnson.

Kinney has asked the change in plans for 2,300 family dwelling units on the area between Novato Creek and Highway 37 west of Black Point.

Arnold Baptiste, president of the federation, reported that mobile homes tax revenues are not sufficient in the support of schools.

The federation expressed interest in helping the development of Pioneer Memorial Park on Simmons Lane and will ask the Novato Civic Foundation how it could help, Mrs. Johnson said.

The federation also voted to give $25 toward the housing conference to be held Oct. 25 at Dominican College and contribute some money if necessary to the Novato Creek study committee.

Deputies Donate $9,000 To Six Charity Groups

The Marin County Deputy Sheriff's Association has given $9,000 to six local charitable organizations, the association has reported.

Receiving checks from the association at a recent meeting were the Marin County Epilepsy Society, the Multiple Sclerosis Society of Northern California, the Marin chapter of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults, the Marin Aid to Retarded Children, the Southern Marin Boy's Club and the Marin chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation.

The donations represented portions of the proceeds from the association's second annual benefit circus at Marin Catholic High School last June.

MANILA (UPI) — Two out of five Filipinos who study abroad eventually become immigrants to foreign countries, according to a research paper published here. The study, conducted by Ateneo University of Manila, covered school years from 1948 to 1963.

Mill Valley Teachers, Staff Split On Raises

The Mill Valley Chapter of the California School Employees Association last night voted not to join the Mill Valley Teachers Association in asking that salary negotiations be reopened.

According to secretary Barbara Powers, the chapter voted to reaffirm its previous agreement with the Mill Valley School District board not to ask for new ngotiations during the 1969-70 school year.

Meanwhile, the teachers association executive board has called a special meeting for 8 p.m. Monday to discuss possible action if the school board refuses its request to negotiate an additional 3 per cent salary increase over the 5 per cent granted in June.

Action to be considered by the teachers, according to association president Pat Assimakis, includes meetings with parents anl community members and advertisements in newspapers outlining the teachers' stand, demonstrations and, possibly, sanctions against the district.

No strike is contemplated, she said.

Some 92 teachers and staff members voted Monday night to seek the additional salary hike, according to Miss Assimakis, because the school district received $200,000 in additional funds after the salary agreement was reached June 30.

The 5 per cent increase followed lengthy negotiations during which the district's finances were audited by the California Teachers Association. The auditors affirmed the district's claim it could not pay higher wages and recommended the teachers settle for 5 per cent.

On July 7, trustees heard that the county schools office had under-estimated the areawide tax returns by $130,000 and that an additional $100,000 could be expected for the 1969-70 school year.

At that time, Miss Assimakis said, the teachers immediately asked to reopen negotiations but got a "flat refusal" from Trustees Joseph E. Bodovitz and John H. Cutler, board representatives on the negotiation committee.

The additional 3 per cent hike would place the Mill Valley District in the average range of raises given this year by Bay Area school districts, according to Miss Assimakis, who said it would cost the district $70,000.

She said district salaries have been slipping in comparison to other districts in the Bay Area and that this year Mill Valley did not place among the top 30 out of 79 districts compared.

"It would take a 12 to 15 per cent increase based on last year's salaries to put Mill Valley back in the top 30," Miss Assimakis said.

Last year the district granted a 4.4 per cent increase, in 1967-68 a 5.45 per cent hike and in 1966-67 a 5.77 per cent increase.

Parking Lot Status For Quentin Show

San Quentin Prison officials said today the visitors' and employees' parking lots at the prison will be open tomorrow for visitors to the inmate arts and crafts show. Parking is free.

However, a charge is assessed for parking in a private lot up San Quentin Street from the main gate.

A Sound Sleeper The Age Of 100

A beautician was unable to arouse the 100-year-old woman and thought she was dead. The police were called but suddenly Mrs. Priest "just woke up."

Policeman Wayne Costa, who answered the call, radioed back that all was well and that it was just a case of a 100-year-old woman who was hard to awaken from a nap.

Mrs. Priest, who said she was unaware of efforts to awaken her, added that she was embarrassed about the distrubance she caused.

FEATURED THIS SATURDAY

The 1959 Rolls-Royce Silver Cloud sedan that Erik Krag of Mill Valley will be showing at Sunday's Concours d'Elegance at Napa's Silverado Country Club is not the first, but the tenth, Rolls-Royce he has restored to mint condition. Krag finds the work a relaxing and satisfying hobby. How he got involved in it and how he goes about restoring one of these fine automobiles to their original glory is the subject of a special feature story in tomorrow's I-J Marin Magazine.

More and more, Marinites are looking to the College of Marin and its Kentfield campus as a sort of community center, housing a wide variety of special activities and services. The man responsible for scheduling and carrying out this growing schedule of lectures, concerts, seminars and other community events is Dr. Eugene Farrar, director of community education. And how he goes about that assignment is told in tomorrow's issue of the I-J's weekend supplement.

THE SAN LEANDRO IN ITS PRIME

Policy On Transfers Established

A new policy on interdistrict pupil transfers that includes compensation for the cost of educating a new student was approved unanimously last night by the Larkspur School District board.

Dist. Supt. Milton Cohen said that under the policy non-neighboring districts from which a student's transfer is approved will be charged the difference in cost to the Larkspur district of educating the student.

Cohen explained that his district receives only state aid for the new student and no tax monies. The difference, he said, is considerable.

The county board of education on Tuesday approved transfer of a student from Sausalito School District to the Larkspur district, despite the opposition of the Sausalito district board. The pupil was one of seven permitted to transfer out of Sausalito.

Cohen told the Independent-Journal he understood the child had enrolled in a private school, but that if she did seek entry into a Larkspur school, the new policy would apply.

The Larkspur School District board also:

DELEGATE — Endorsed David D. Ring, a member of the Tamalpais High School District board, as a delegate to the California School Boards Association assembly.

BUSSING — Was told by Patchetts Transportation that it would not send school buses up Christmas Tree Hill because of steep grades and lack of turning spaces. About a dozen parents had sought bus transportation for their children.

LIBRARY — Heard a report that more than 11,000 items were purchased for the school libraries in the 1968-69 school year and that the average number of books per child was 16, compared with five in 1965. Last school year, a total of 19,000 library items was circulated, 12,000 more than in 1965. Parents donated more than 2,000 hours of time to process library materials last year.

CUSTODIAN — Hired David Saldana as custodian at Larkspur-Corte Madera School, replacing Bruce Wilson, who resigned to move. Saldana's salary will be $475 a month.

CONFERENCE — Said it would attend the California School Boards Association school administrators conference Dec. 6-9 in San Francisco.

HEART — Heard that Dr. Richard F. Corlin of the public health service branch of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare would not be conducting a demonstration project in the district to assess cardiac risk factors in children because of a lack of federal funds.

Diane Bessee Will Head San Rafael Freshman Class

Two hundred of the 550 freshmen cast ballots, Miss Ward said.

Robert Seymour was elected vice president, Nancy Leydecker, director of social affairs, Jerris Greenblat, secretary, and the Bulldog Express, led by Jo-Ann Jurchan, as yell leaders.

There was no competition for top seats except the post of secretary, where Candi Chamberlain and Chris Dill were defeated by Greenblat.

School Employees Fill Committee Vacancies

Members of the California School Employees Association, Mill Valley chapter, last night named five persons to fill vacancies on standing committees, according to reporter Patsy White.

Wilson Mignerey was named chairman of the legislative committee, Mrs. White said; Barbara Foutch to the salary committee, Colin Menzies to the Mill Valley district citizen's committee, Floy Lunt to the grievance committee and Patricia Halford to the bond building committee.

Reagan Paddles College Chiefs

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan accused state colleges and university administrators today of putting their priorities "upside down" — protecting themselves first and helping students last.

It was one of his harshest condemnations yet of professional educators, and a flat rejection of their current complaints that his budget economies must result in hardship for students.

He said such administrators worry more about building themselves fancy homes, luxurious buildings and protecting colleagues than they do about helping students.

Reagan said if his remarks "indicate a disenchantment with certain parts of the educational establishment — it is a disenchantment which is felt not only by the taxpayer, but by many educators and also many students."

Californians are committed to a great educational system, the chief executive declared. However, he added:

"They grow restive, for they are not committed to any system which is inefficient in its operation or top-heavy with establishment functionaries, or preoccupied with fancy homes or professional prerequisites."

His comments about the home apparently referred to the action by University of California regents in spending about $500,000 on refurbishing a home for University of California President Charles J. Hitch.

Reagan's speech was prepared for a luncheon of the California Savings and Loan League.

He bluntly told state college and U.C. administrators who are complaining about his orders to cut basic spending next year below current levels that he is standing by his economy program.

"Academic freedom — which must be preserved — was never intended to grant fiscal license to an annointed few. And, it was not conceived as a screen for excessive spending or irrelevant activities."

In carrying out economy orders, he said, administrators are expected "to do this in such a way that they put the educational needs of the students first — not last — in their priorities."

But when they react to such orders, the governor said, "instead of looking for ways to reduce per student costs, the educational establishment comes out with some shallow argument . . . The only answer they have is — not to cut out the fat — but to cut out the students."

This Reagan said, "puts the lowest priority on the students, and the highest priority on saving the establishment. And that is upside down," the governor added, emphasizing his words.

TV Cable Antenna Given Nod

G'Tec, which holds the cable television franchise for Novato, last night was granted a use permit to install a 74-foot television antenna on Lynwood Hill by the Novato Planning Commission.

The company had asked the North Marin County Water District to lease a site for its antenna at South Novato Boulevard and Sunset Parkway, but the district board postponed action until the city approved. The lease will go before the water board again at Oct. 17.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

REZONING — Approved rezoning from signle family to planned residential 2.9 acres on the south side of De Long Avenue between Reichert Avenue and Railroad Avenue for Manuel T. Affonso. This must be approved by the Novato City Council.

VARIANCE — Approved a variance for two 20 foot cut banks with a service road between them for Jack D. Kinney for the Novato Convalescent Hospital at Hill Road and Indian Valley Road.

Bicycle Stolen

Lee E. Wilkening of 1004 Irwin Street, San Rafael, reported that his bicycle, of undetermined value, was stolen from the Montecito Shopping Center parking lot on Third Street, 6 p.m. yesterday, police report.

Fairfax Planners Ask Formal Rezone Plea

The Fairfax Planning Commission last night asked Mrs. Lillian Skillman of 161 Bolinas Road to submit a formal application rather than the letter she sent, to rezone her property from commercial to multiple.

Commissioners were divided over whether the property, now the site of a single family residence, should remain commercial and afford a dividing point between the business district and residential area, according to commission chairman Albert E. Gately.

Quest To Aid Non-Readers

By BETTY FROST

Why can't this child read?

A teacher who left the classroom seeking the answer to this question 15 years ago has concentrated on methods to improve the reading and study habits of normal children.

Mrs. Frances De Witt of San Rafael, nationally recognized for her work in education, has recently received substantial local support from fellow members of the Soroptomist Club of Marin County. The club has given a $10,000 grant to the De Witt Research Center in San Rafael to be used specifically to develop an auditory screening test for kindergarten and first grade pupils. This would bring the Screening Test for Auditory Perception, developed under Mrs. De Witt's guidance, for grades two through six, to younger children.

THE HANDSOME gray-haired woman explained, "The earlier the identification of auditory-perceptual inefficiencies, the better the prognosis The STAP is a teacher-administered test, which can be given in the classroom. The teacher can refer to the results immediately and the children who need help can get it earlier."

Originally from Florida, Mrs. De Witt served in the Women's Army Corps for over three years during World War II. She went to college on the G.I. bill, selecting Dominican College in San Rafael for her studies. She was graduated from Dominican College in 1950 with the B.A. degree in social sciences and qualified for the Elementary Teaching Credential. She taught the fourth grade in the Larkspur-Corte Madera Unified School District for two years and was a teacher in the San Francisco Public School system the following year.

She returned to Dominican College where she worked under the direction of Dr. Dorothy Blackmore to learn more about those few children who couldn't seen to learn to read. One case study undertaken at that time was working with a boy in the seventh grade who was unable to read.

The boy learned to read and Mrs. De Witt claims that she really learned more than he did. Such experiences confirmed her decision to make reading teaching her specialty, and she began the serious studies which she continues today.

SHE WAS invited to work with the Dominican Upper School, establishing a reading and study program. Later a testing program, speed and power reading instruction were given in both the upper and lower schools of Dominican, and Mrs. De Witt was asked to do the same thing for Marin Country Day School. She was also a consultant to the Marin County Superintendent of Schools in the mid-1950s when reading skills programs were being established.

In 1959, Frances and her husband, Merrill H. De Witt, an engineer with radio and television stations, toured the United States, visiting reading clinics throughout the country.

At the end of the summer Frances De Witt started the first of the three organizations dealing with reading training which she has founded. The De Witt Reading Clinic in San Rafael, now in its 10th year, is the largest private reading clinic in the world, according to its founder.

An outgrowth of the clinic is the publication, Academic Therapy Quarterly, which has a circulation of 6,000 throughout the United States and abroad. It is in demand in England and Australia. The controlled circulation includes college libraries, individual teachers, parent groups, and pediatricians. Her latest baby is the De Witt Research Center, a nonprofit corporation.

"OUR HOBBY" says Mrs. De Witt, "gradually became a serious business. Mr. De Witt is now the business administrator of the enterprise which employs around 50 people.

"In the beginning," the reading expert said, "I didn't understand that subtle perceptional disfunction could relate to auditory-vocal problems and influence the ability to read. At first I tried phonics, but some couldn't learn by that method.

"I went all over to get more information and worked up techniques. We must study new ideas and not close our minds, then relate these ideas to what has gone before. Now we invite experts from all over the country to come to San Rafael and give workshops for our staff.

"The schools do a tremendous job for all children, but a few normal children do have trouble learning.

"I BELIEVE in providing a controlled functional climate to meet the emotional needs of the student and in teaching in a structured environment in an unstructured way."

Could the expert explain the frequently used term "dyslexia"?

"About three years ago," she said, "there was an awakening about dyslexia, which I consider to be the inability to integrate auditory and visual linguistic symbols in proper spatial position and time sequence. The term dyslexia carries the connotation of minimum cerebral disfunctioning. This inability is manifested when the child cannot associate the speech symbols he has learned to receive and express during his pre-school years with the representative visual symbols he must learn during his initial school years.

"Dyslexia is only one area of symbolic learning disabilities. Arithmetic difficulty, dyscalculia; spelling and writing problems, dysgraphia, are others."

SHE HAS taught at Dominican College and at Sonoma State College Extension, is a consultant to a bakers' dozen school systems and in demand as a speaker at educational conferences throughout the country.

Among the highlights of her professional appearances was addressing the College Reading Association in New York in 1961, as keynote speaker; a conference of experts called together in a conference at San Marco, Tex., by the Senate Investigating Committee to discuss dyslexia; and an appearance on KQED with Dr. Donald Durrell, a reading expert whom Mrs. De Witt had studied and admired.

She is a member of the Orton Society, formed to continue the work of the late Dr. Samuel Orton in spatial disorientation; the Soroptomist Club of Marin County, the California Association for Neurologically Handicapped Children, the Council for Exceptional Children and the International Reading Association.

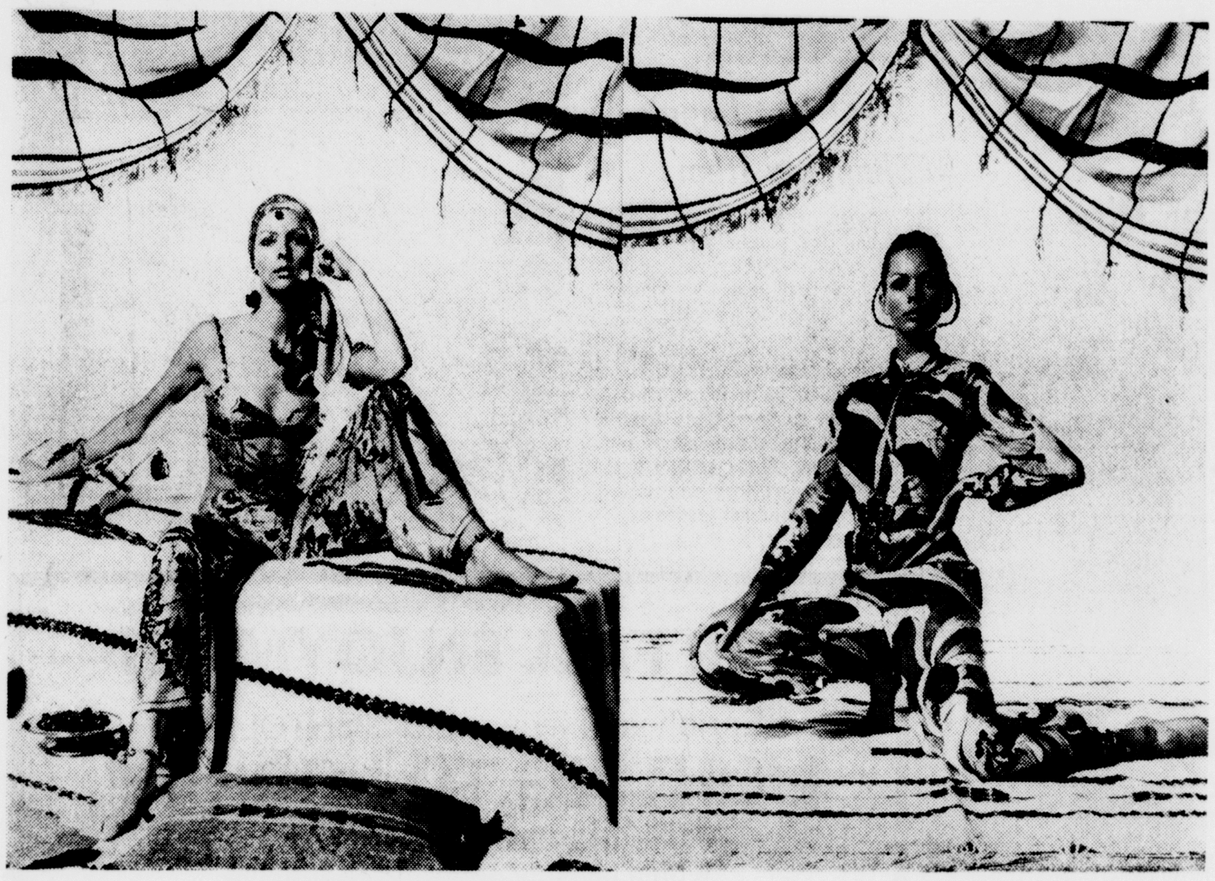
Why Women Volunteer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Volunteer work is as much an American tradition as politics and apple pie. Why do busy women get involved in volunteer work?

The Federal Bureau of Labor Statistics says a study showed that 38 per cent of the women volunteers simply wanted to help people, a specific organization or a community; 29 per cent expressed a "sense of duty" to their communities; 36 per cent said they simply enjoy doing volunteer work and gain self-satisfaction from it.



HAREM LOOK—SEXY AND EXOTIC

Time Ripe For Fashion Star

By MARIS ROSS

LONDON (UPI)—The world of fashion modeling is ripe for the discovery of a great new name.

But the question is, who will be the new Twiggy, or the new fatter-than-Twiggy if the poor girl has to hoist around the heavy floor-length maxi coats that Paris fashion seers are trying to popularize.

One girl has already been dubbed "the Face of 1970." She is Sue Baloo, 21, from the Beatles' old home town of Liverpool. Sue, with a wistful, fragile look and long dark hair, joined a London model agency that sent her round to see David Bailey, the photographer who made Jean Shrimpton and Penelope Tree into front-cover figures. She found herself signed up that very day for a trip to Paris to be photographed by Bailey for Vogue magazine.

She is a sort of pocket-size edition of the average model. She is only five feet, one-inch and measures 31-24-33.

Felicity Green, fashion editor of the London Daily Mirror, gave her a try-out as a photographic model with a certain degree of success, but reported:

"At the moment Miss Wallentin speaks rather more English than she understands, and when asked over the blast of the Rolling Stones' version of 'Honky Tonk Women' to move her left foot, she was inclined to raise her right hand."

Sylvia, 23, who started modeling just a few months ago, is remarkable for tackling the profession wfth the handicap of a crippled leg.

She must wear a light brace but hides it by putting on two pairs of tights. She has done very well in a short space of time with beauty shots concentrating on her face —glowing smile and fine features.

Vicki Hodge is one of the highest paid girls around London right now. But at 22, after six years in modeling, she wants to break new ground and is having a try at movie work, undeterred by the lack of success that Jean Shrimpton met on screen.

"I'm starting quietly and sensibly with small parts," Vicki said.

Twiggy, 20, is going strong. She is photographed exclusively by her manager, Justine de Villeneuve, 30, who took to a camera only in the past year or so and turned himself into a professional photographer — with a little help from Twiggy.

BANK WOMEN TOLD

Demand Requires Women Executives

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The banking and finance industry is turning to women for executive talent, Thyra Thomson, Wyoming secretary of state, said Tuesday.

"The industry is expanding much faster than the supply of young male executives," Mrs. Thomson said. "It is turning to women because the alternative is to reduce growth."

Mrs. Thomson, who as secretary of state is also securities administrator, spoke at the national convention of the Association of Bank Women, a group representing about 20,000 women bank employees. She said both state and federal laws are necessary to adequately regulate banking and securities markets.

"State securities laws do not duplicate federal laws but complement them," she said. "They offer greater protection for the public."

Mrs. Thomson said state laws generally cover areas not touched by the federal laws, such as regulating sale of stock offerings.

"We feel that these state laws offer the public protection against the quick-money, in and out, white-collar criminals" who deal in questionable securities.

The meeting of the 700 bank women ended yesterday.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Divorced Mothers Aren't Best Tenants, From Landlords View

DEAR HELEN:

I agree with "Unwanted Mother of Two, Aged 21" because I too am an unwanted mother. Except I have five children and am 26 years old, divorced.

No apartment or house owner wants to rent to a woman with children but no husband. I can't really blame landlords. They have seen too many places ruined. The bad tenants spoil it for those, like me, who would take pride in her home.

Yes, we are discriminated against, but if the cards were turned, we might be the first to refuse rental to the likes of us. If you loaned an expensive dress to a friend and she purposely ruined it, would you again loan another dress to almost the same kind of friend? — SAME BOAT, BUT UNDERSTANDS

DEAR HELEN:

A word from landlords. These young divorced mothers look for places they can't afford, then never pay the rent, while ruining the property. Evictions are very costly. By the time they're out, you have hundreds of dollars of repair bills ahead of you.

Why not have the county put these mothers and their children in their housing units and collect rent from their allotment?

Anyone who cries crocodile tears about those poor dear things has never owned an apartment house. — W. P. R.

DEAR QUEEN SOLOMON:

You have had a lot of things in your column that made me chuckle and some that made me angry, but this is the last straw!

You sided with Miss 42-24-34 who wanted to have her bust reduced. Tell her you weren't speaking for the men in this world, but your own selfish, catty self.

What nature built, let no plastic surgeon destroy. We want beauty, and the vision of a size 42 (top I mean) wafting along the avenue is enough to make a male's day.

Every time I pick up a magazine I see ladies' panties with false bottoms, bras with padding, padded stockings, false eyelashes, corsets to pull you where you bulge, wigs. . . . I tell you a man can't be sure nowadays just what is in the package. Even swimming suits have built-ins.

Please don't go telling girls now that they can surgically be pared down to an uninteresting size 34. She'll turn "Wow!" to woe! — WORN OUT WOLF

DEAR WORN OUT:

Unless you can speak from experience — the experience of a gal who carries all that extra weight around until she's stoop-shouldered — then hold your fire, man.

A pendulous size 42 needs help and not from bug-eyed wolves. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Is it really necessary for the telephone company to jingle the telephone if you accidentally on purpose leave it off the hook, so you can get a nap? I can't afford one of those no-ring attachments you described, and every time I've tried to take the phone off the hook for needed rest, the operator alerts me. — INVASION OF PRIVACY?

DEAR I of P:

I understand that in some areas this jingle system has been eliminated. However, I have often been very grateful when the operator alerted me to my oversight. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Women Go Back For Refreshers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Most women who return to college after graduation do so either for personal enrichment or to update their employment potential.

Mrs. Kathryn Ashcraft of Ohio School University's School of Home Economics said a recent survey showed a majority of women graduates were interested in returning for refresher courses and graduate work in their profession.

"A significant number, however, preferred to take courses such as drama, art and music appreciation for their own enjoyment," she said.

"With more employment potential education for work is a major reason for increased college enrollment by adult women," Mrs. Ashcraft explained. "Many women are enrolling in standard college programs."

She said the increase in school enrollment of adult women of all ages was "phenomenal."

Birth Control Failures Bring Bitterness, Blame

Federal regulations requiring packages and advertisements for contraceptives to carry approximate effectiveness rates were called for by a national women's magazine.

The magazine's report of a survey of 248 women seeking abortions revealed that a large percentage experienced repeated contraceptive failures, which many bitterly blamed on their doctors or the birth control method they were using.

The results of the survey showed that many women switched to the birth control pill from other contraceptive methods "after the shock of an unwanted pregnancy," although "deep anxieties" about the pill's side effects were widely voiced.

"Among those women who did receive professional advice, many expressed bitterness against their doctors," the article said, adding that "their bitterness extended to such highly promoted methods as the intrauterine device and foam."

Of those using contraception, the common complaint was the failure of the method. "Despite the common assumption that expert advice is easily available, only 39 per cent received contraception from physicians, only two per cent from birth control clinics or other medical services," the article reported.

"Another disturbing result" of the survey was its finding that better-educated and high-income women, whom population experts claim are more efficient contraceptors, were "responsible for the same failure rate" as other groups. Almost half of the women surveyed had incomes of over $10,000 a year; half had completed at least one year of college, 10 per cent at least one year of graduate school.

Such statistics "show a breakdown in our whole system of birth control," the magazine charged. "Because of inadequate contraceptive techniques, irresponsible medical advice, human error, and other causes, a critically high percentage of women are becoming pregnant against their will."

While recognizing the pill as "the most effective of all methods," the article reported that "the sequential type was the object of frequent attack," with "a small but significant failure rate."

$100 Million Lehman Art Treasure To Met

NEW YORK (AP) — The famous Robert Lehman art collection, which experts say might have brought $100 million if sold, has been given to the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

It includes approximately 3,000 objects, among them paintings by Rembrandt, Botticelli, El Greco, Goya, Van Gogh, Renoir, Gauguin, Matisse and Picasso.

Other works, covering the 12th through the 20th Century, are Western European bronzes, tapestries, jewelry, furniture and ceramics.

Thomas P. F. Hoving, director of the museum, described the collection as priceless and said it was "practically without parallel in the history of private collecting."

The collection was assembled by Lehman of the New York investment banking family, who was the museum's board chairman when he died Aug. 9 at the age of 77.

The gift to the museum was announced by his son, Robert Owen Lehman, and Edwin L. Wisl, president of the Robert Lehman Foundation, at a dinner last night touching off the Metropolitan's year-long centennial celebration. The 100th anniversary is next April 13.

Arthur A. Houghton Jr., president of the Metropolitan, called the gift the largest in the history of the museum and "a crown of glittering and priceless jewels."

The collection is presently housed in the late banker's 18-room apartment and five-floor mansion, both in Manhattan.

The collection will be "maintained together as an entity within the museum forever," the museum reported yesterday at a news conference.

Robert Owen Lehman said he and his father often had discussed the future of the art treasures and that together they had decided they would go to the Metropolitan.

He said they felt the collection would be "preserved in perpetuity," and would be shared "not only by the people of this country but also the people of the world."

Nixon Asks Escalator Plan For Social Security Checks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon has proposed $4.25 billion hikes in Social Security reforms and benefits plus a new, automatic locking of the system to cost-of-living increases.

The President outlined his unexpectedly broad proposals for Social Security change yesterday to a Congress apparently eager to go him one better on better liberalization.

Beneficiaries have seen inflation whittle almost 8 per cent from their Social Security checks since the last increase in March 1968. Accordingly, the chief executive asked a catch-up, 10 per cent, across-the-board benefit hike effective for payments in April 1970.

To meet the cost, President Nixon recommended an increase in the maximum earnings subject to Social Security levies from $7,800 today to $9,000 beginning Jan. 1, 1972.

But he also asked that legislated contributions for both employers and employes be pared between 1971 and 1976.

Instead of a jump from 5.2 per cent to 5.7 per cent over that period, the President wants the range 5.1 per cent to 5.5 per cent. The current rate is 4.8 per cent for both worker and employer through 1970.

Present law calls for maintenance of the $7,800 wage base. Therefore despite the proposal for a levy rollback, a worker making the wage maximum would pay $54 more a year under the President's proposal in 1972—$459 versus $405.

In what will probably be his most controversial reform request, Nixon asked an end to the kind of catch-up, benefit increase he proposed for next year.

The President wants an automatic escalator provision that increases Social Security benefits by the same percentage the cost-of-living rise over a year.

The escalator would also boost the maximum wage base every two years proportionate to the increase in average earnings per worker.

Automatic increases would remove the congressional politicking that surround biannual benefit hikes, usually in election years, said White House Counselor Arthur F. Burns.

Burns, with some embarrassment, conceded the administration isn't sure whether automatic increases would ease the impact of inflation or fuel it.

Executive Home In Carmichael Is Being Urged

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Leroy F. Greene says a new governor's mansion should be built in nearby Carmichael instead of in the Capitol area to insure privacy for the chief executive.

Greene, D-Sacramento, said yesterday the executive residence should be constructed on an 11-acre site deeded to the state for that purpose. The Department of Finance is studying whether the state can accept the deeded land.

"Such a site will afford the governor privacy and the opportunity to rest, reflect and revitalize himself to confront the burdens of his great office," the lawmaker said.

Three Single Mobile Homes Win Approval

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Three single mobile homes were approved yesterday for the rural Petaluma area by the Sonoma County Board of Zoning Adjustments.

The requests for mobile home use permits included Harry Johnston, 379 Ely Road; Richard L. Crane, 1171 Ely Road, and John Rapoza, 1156 Eastman Lane.

WING NEST

High-Flying Mice Back To Ground

HOLBEACH, England (London Express) -- A pair of mice found the perfect place to set up home, the wing tip of Brian Chapman's plane. They built a nest and raised their family in the warm and sheltered spot.

And they got an unexpected bonus, free jaunts among the clouds.

There was only one snag, food was scarce in Chapman's hanger at Holbeach, so they resorted to nibbling the wax-coated cords which hold the canvas covering to the wing frame.

But when engineers made annual check of the three-seater Beagle Terrier they found the wing was on the point of collapsing. Now vegetable dealer Chapman will make a thorough examination of the plane every time he takes his three children out for a flight.

Chapman, 38, said, "We were very lucky not to have crashed. I never realized anything was wrong."

"It cost a considerable amount of money to put right, but it was insured for ground risks. The company had never had a claim like it before, but they agreed to pay up.

The mice must have been scared out of their wits when I was flying. I use it once or twice a week."

Earliest Visitor

SANTE FE, N.M. (UPI)—The first European to set foot on New Mexico soil was Alvar Nunez Cabeza de Vaca, a Spaniard who was shipwrecked on the Gulf of Mexico in 1528 and traveled on foot for eight years through the American southwest.

FAMILY

"Great Race" — Elaborate comedy-parody takes place in 1908. Two rival daredevils in a round the world auto race. Great fun.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Bridge at Remagen" —Exceptionally well made action film telling of capture of last bridge over the Rhine in 1945.

"Bullitt" — Melodrama involves gangsters, police and an ambitious politician. Violence goes all out in blood and gore for its shock effect.

"Chairman" — An American biochemist is sent on an espionage mission to Red China. Complicated plot of intrigue holds suspense high. Background in Taiwan is beautiful, art work superb.

"Hang 'Em High" — This western story of vengeance, sadism and explicit violence goes on and on in morbid detail.

"Learning Tree" — Events of a day in the life of a black boy in a Kansas town in 1920s is plot of film. Injustices shown may have been typical of times but does little to better understanding between whites and blacks. Exquisite color photography.

"Lion In Winter" — Rich, explosive drama that makes brilliant reality out of distant history. Excellent production.

"True Grit" — Amusing satiric western about a determined 14-year-old girl's attempt to track down her father's murderer. Violence and rough language an integral part of story. Grandeur of scenery is memorable.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Bonnie and Clyde" — Young man teams with pretty waitress on a grand crime spree. Treating armed robbery and cold-blooded murder as comedy will offend some viewers. Sadistic violence and explicit sex shown.

ADULTS ONLY

"Good, Bad and the Ugly" — Made in Italy, adventure film is filled with ugly violence and offensive situations. Explicit brutality.

"Goodbye Columbus" — Picture of a Jewish family is real and humorous. The warmth of the people comes through all the surface vulgarity. Explicit sex and nudity.

"Last Summer" — A harrowing drama about growing up, stuns as it moves from youthful activity to depravity with a frightening combination of innocence, thwarted sex drives and destructive impulses in the skillful interplay of these groping, growing personalities.

"A Man and A Woman" — A minor masterpiece of mood photography. A tender love story of two people who have known sorrow. Love scenes frankly presented.

"Wild Bunch" — Opens and closes with two action sequences of such awesome brutality and explicit gruesomeness as to leave an unprepared audience in a state of shock. Director in attempting to make a statement about the true horror of gunplay completely deglorifies the act. Children are included in scenes, their repeated exposure to violence makes them immune to its effects with emulation of their elders the inevitable result. Top flight cast.

Marin Dining And Wining

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

It's Good To Have Restaurant Where Quality Is A Constant

If there is any one test of a restaurant's "staying power" (besides the food) that is more important than other factors, it is uniform courtesy and service and the feeling that you can take a guest to this place anytime without having to make apologies.

It usually takes more than one visit to confirm this quality.

Once, when it was still too young for people to know just how it would wear with constant use, someone suggested that I count all the bricks at Rubini's in Fairfax. The idea was, I believe, that this might make an interesting and "safe" column item in the event that things didn't work out.

I never did count those bricks. It never seemed necessary as a dodge to discussing either the food or the service, which I have always found honest and forthright.

The menu seldom changes. Chef and co-owner Gordon Jones does like to think up new dishes but it isn't a fetish. And after a fair trial if they don't prove popular, off they go. Consequently those that are left have earned their right to a continued listing. The fact is, Gordon may be a little too quick on the closeouts. He took off Corky's seafood platter because he thought it was lagging and immediately there was a hue and cry for it to be brought back. It will be.

Count Rubini's bricks if you must, while sipping your before or after dinner drink. I'd rather listen to Lowell Hawk at the piano. Oh, yes, and congratulate hostess Eve Novak on her recent nuptials. New name is Cunningham.

WHAT WAS A RUMOR is now a fact — the Linds have taken over the entire food, banquet and bar facilities at the Lodge in Novato.

In fact, everywhere you look you'll see a Lind. It seems I underestimated this family which apparently, goes into a new venture all the way.

It was my original understanding that Pete, son Pete Jr. and daughter Jackie would be the principals here. Now it's the entire lot — about a dozen of them — who've gotten into the act. Here's the roster and their responsibilities:

Pete Sr. — chief mogul and breakfast cook.

Pete Jr. — cocktail lounge.

Jackie — dining room.

Sally — (wife of Pete Jr.) — cocktail waitress.

Mike — night cook.

Barbara (Mike's wife) — catering hostess.

Nancy and Kathy — waitresses.

Doris (wife of Pete Sr.) — hospitality.

Candice — babysitter; and Cindy and Jenny — flower girls (in case you were thinking of having a wedding here).

Other staff members include Micky Johnston and Al Dye, bartenders, and Dick Young, gourmet lunch.

Breakfast, lunch and dinner are served seven days a week and there's a Sunday fizz brunch with service from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. The bar is open from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m.

For an idea of the menu, think back to what Pete used to serve at Pier 15: New York steaks, steak sandwiches, seafoods and the like.

STAN AND URSULA VALAN at the Grotto in San Rafael hope to have their general onsale liquor license validated by the first of next week.

Suggested entree here: The sole meuniere. French visitors eat it nostalgically, claiming it's just like they get at home.

STEAK AND LOBSTER has become very popular in the last few years and now you'll find it on menus far and wide. Although I know it's a favorite of many I have never been very enthusiastic about this combination, finding it too heavy.

Now there's a new one out, and so far as I know, only one restaurant in the county features it. The ingredients are much more compatible to my way of thinking — chicken and lobster. The place is Eugene's Country Club Restaurant in San Rafael, which serves it as fried breast of chicken and a lobster tail.

If you're the type to get yourself impaled on the horns of a red or white wine dilemma with steak and lobster, the new combo offers no problem. Order it white and you're right in line.

GOBBLER'S ROOSTAURANT, the Sonoma County dinery specializing in turkey entrees and smoked meats, has acquired a chef long known in Marin County, Gene Pah.

Gene, who lives in Sebastopol, near Gobbler's, was scheduled to go in here earlier this year when the restaurant was opened, but at that time he was tied up with the Robin Hill Lodge in Lakeport. Marinites will remember him for his years at Rancho Nicasio and many years ago at the Music Box in San Rafael.

A new specialty at Gobbler's, located at 5186 Gravenstein Highway South (Highway 116) between Cotati and Sebastopol, is a stuffed pig buffet, smoked pig for groups of 30 to 40 persons arranged by advance reservation.

The place is only open for restaurant service Thursdays through Sundays, with lunches on Saturdays and Sunday dinners starting early at 2 p.m. Thursday dinner special has been a complete roast turkey dinner. Now there's one more — an "Irish turkey dinner" (corned beef, if you haven't guessed).

Menu is more extensive Fridays through Sundays and now includes as an a la carte item turkey cannelloni, beside several other turkey dishes and smoked meats.

In other words, it's a vast menu, for which you can thank proprietors Fred and Silvie Vast.

WORK IS EXPECTED to start in a few days on the new Noyo River Lodge in Fort Bragg. This will be located on a hillside overlooking the Noyo River Yacht Harbor.

It will be a while before completion but the restaurant should be quite an affair, seating over 300. And it will have a Marin County man as its manager, Gregory Seubert, owner of Gregory's Restaurant on Paradise Drive, Corte Madera, who has a home on the Mendocino coast.

NEW CHEF at the Oak Tree Inn, San Geronimo is Joe Moyle, who has been out of circulation recently due to an accident. This is a return to a familiar kitchen for Joe, who was last here when the place was owned by the late Dean De La Montanya.

He is revising the menu which now boasts of such entrees as oysters Rockerfeller, baked lasagne, veal scallopini and parmigiana, steaks and seafoods.

AT MIKE CONSIDINE'S new Lion Share at 60 Red Hill Avenue, San Anselmo, the recording group Faun will appear next Thursday, Friday and Saturday before making a tour of major West Coast cities.

SONOMA'S annual Valley of the Moon Vintage Festival opens tomorrow with the blessing of the 1969 wine grapes on the eve of the National Wine Festival. Saturday highlight will be a half-hour play about early vintner Count Agoston Haraszthy. A Spanish ball will be held in the evening. There will be a parade at noon Sunday. Local wineries will hold open house during the festival.

PETER CLUTE of San Anselmo, who owns Earthquake McGoon's, San Francisco, will celebrate the ninth anniversary of that nightspot starting tonight and ending — who knows when?

It is the home of Turk Murphy and his jazz band. Other entertainment includes singer Pat Yankee and banjoman Clancy Hayes. The Carter the Great magic museum is a basement feature. Dinners are served and the club caters to young adults.

Pot Growing Charge Denied

Charles Vallee Moran Jr., 25, of Sausalito, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of possessing and cultivating marijuana and having a narcotics smoking device.

A preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 13.

American Legion Post Wins Citation

San Rafael Wilkins Post 37 of the American Legion has received a citation from national headquarters for outstanding service to local children and youth, post commander Yves Langlamet announced.

The efforts of Lily D. Whittle, child welfare chairman, were mainly responsible for the award, Langlamet noted.

300 STUDENTS TOO MANY

Ruling Stalls Portable Classrooms

By ALAN JONES

Classes for some 300 students in the Tamalpais High School District are being crowded and delayed because of delays in completion of portable classrooms.

Similar crowding and delay have struck other Bay Area school districts and the problem could be statewide, since the manufacturer, Speedspace Corp. of Santa Rosa, is one of the largest builders of portable classrooms in California.

Design changes which took several weeks to make and getting through official channels caused the current delay in installing eight portable buildings in the Tamalpais district. The portables were to be in place in August, but target dates now stretch into November.

The delay may cost Speedspace $100 a day, dating from the August completion dates, according to penalty clauses in the contract.

The district board signed a contract in May to buy seven portables from Speedspace for $351,152. One more, for the new Opportunity School, is to be leased for $17,427 a year. Completion dates were Aug. 7 for the seven buildings and Aug. 19 for the Opportunity School's building, which is to go in the district corporation yard.

The design changes and the delay can be traced to a state attorney general's ruling which changed the procedure for planning classroom buildings.

The state requires that working drawings of school buildings be inspected by an architect or structural engineer, then passed on to the state Office of Architecture and Construction for approval.

For several years, the Tamalpais district had sent drawings for its portables to a Southern California engineer, Ben Benioff of Sherman Oaks, who then processed them through the Los Angeles branch of the Office of Architecture and Construction.

Benioff, however, is a former designer and consultant for Speedspace. The attorney general's opinion, issued on July 11, 1968, says that inspections must be made by an architect or engineer who is independent of the project.

As a result, this year the Tamalpais district hired San Rafael architects Crawford and Banning for the review. They got working drawings from Speedspace July 7. (Plans for one building, which had special requirements, were submitted later and handled at different times throughout.)

Crawford and Banning's structural engineer reported the plans did not meet Title 21 of the state building code, and that the state probably would not approve the. Title 21 deals with resistance to side forces.

The plans went back to Speedspace July 14, architect George V. Banning said, with the required changes marked. Revised plans were returned July 18, but some changes had not been made, Banning said. The firm then went ahead and sent the plans to the state architecture office in San Francisco on July 22, and "sure enough they bounced them back," Banning said. The state even ordered more changes.

The state architects, however, did not return the plans until Aug. 14. Speedspace returned the re-corrected drawings Aug. 22, and with on-the-spot checking and corrections by the state office, the plans were finally approved Aug. 29, clearing the way for construction.

This was the first year building plans from the district had gone through the San Francisco office of architecture and construction.

Nonetheless, neither Banning nor an official of the San Francisco office would point a finger at the Los Angeles office. J. Herbert Rokita, assistant office engineer in the San Francisco office, said it was "difficult to answer" whether previous Speedspace designs might have the same design shortcomings, because manufacturers are constantly changing, refining and improving designs.

The previous plans all were approved by an architect or engineer, Rokita said, "so as far as we're concerned, they are adequate buildings." It is unlikely, he said, that any buildings already in place will be affected by the current case.

The change in procedure apparently has caused delays in other districts in the Bay Area.

College of Marin, where seven large Speedspace units are to be installed for a campus office center, has reported a two-week delay because the state Office of Architecture and Construction required a change in the design of footings. Target date now is the last half of October, according to Arthur L. Sell, district construction engineer.

Other districts where there are delays include San Francisco and Sequoia School District, on the San Francisco Peninsula.

In the Tamalpais district, some 250 to 300 students have been displaced or crowded into other classrooms because of the delay. The 53 Opportunity School pupils first met in the district board room, and are now in rented quarters at the former Ross Valley Clinic in Kentfield.

Tamalpais High School is to get three portables containing six classrooms, Sir Francis Drake High School is to get one single-classroom building, and Redwood High School is to get three buildings with four classrooms, offices and practice rooms.

The Redwood pupils are particularly crowded now because the music and art rooms which the portables were to replaced have already been closed off for repainting and renovation.

If the district decides to dock Speedspace the $100 a day provided in the contract's penalty section, it would probably be done by deducting from the payments for the portables, according to Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino. The amount deducted probably would be settled in conferences between Speedspace and district officials to determine how much of the delay should be laid to the builder, Godino said.

Border Patrol Shooting Suspect Dead In Canada

CHAMPLAIN, N.Y. (AP) — A man who police said shot and wounded two border patrolmen and a customs agent at a Canadian border crossing point today was found dead in Canada after he apparently committed suicide, police report.

State police said the man, Jesus Mark White, 22, of Brooklyn, N.Y., had been charged on a federal warrant with three counts of felonious assault upon federal officers.

One of the federal agents, who underwent emergency surgery, was listed in critical condition at a Plattsburgh hospital. The other two were in fair condition. The customs 5th graf A045

The customs agent, Leonard Chagnon, 50, of Rouses Point, was wounded in the abdomen and was listed in critical condition. William Grinter, also 50, of Rouses Point, was shot in the hip and David Hoff, 43, of Ellenburg, was hit in the groin.

Orientation To Blind Collegians

SANTA CRUZ (UPI)—Twenty-one college-bound blind students are on the University of California campus here for a special six-week program of orientation to college life.

Mrs. Mary Lou O'Donnell, the program coordinator, says the course will give the blind students a chance to learn about "everything from academic standards and library use to social life on a college campus."

FORTUNATELY, IT'S HARMLESS

Marin County residents with snake problems can relax, this gopher snake is still in captivity. The five-foot-long reptile was found Wednesday by Blake Waltrip, 8, and his sister, Carey, in the Waltrip backyard at 862 Patricia Way, San Rafael. Blake is trying to make friends, even though he seems a bit nervous. The non-poisonous reptile is presently enjoying the hospitality of a neighbor's home. Carey and Blake are the children of Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Waltrip. (Independent-Journal photo)

Chairman For Bonds Named

Campaign committee chairmen for Sausalito's bond election to be held Nov. 4 were named last night at a meeting of the bond committees.

If approved by the voters in November, the bond election would authorize $85,000 for the fire station expansion, $80,000 for the police station and $65,000 for Tiffany Beach.

Barry C. Hibben was named chairman of the committee promoting the bond issue to expand the main fire station and Don Olsen as chairman of the committee supporting the bond issue to purchase and expand the police department, according to publicity spokesman Tom Rogers.

Hugh G. Lawrence previously had been selected to head the Tiffany Beach reconstruction bond issue committee.

William Remak was named finance committee chairman and Bea Seidler and Rogers publicity co-chairmen for the three bond committees.

The committees will meet again at 8 p.m. Monday at the Sausalito Yacht Harbor to name committee members and to review supporting arguments, Rogers said. The meeting is open to interested citizens wanting to work on the campaigns, he said.

BACKYARD BURN BAN

Chiefs See Big Headache

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

The men who head Marin's fire departments are looking ahead with some trepidation to next Jan. 1.

That is the date when the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District's ban on backyard burning takes effect. Fire departments, which issue permits for such burning, won't be able to do so any more.

Unless cities and counties meantime take steps to provide better refuse pickup, the resultant accumulation of trash is likely to increase fire hazards, the chiefs agree.

Their predictions range from gloomy to cautiously optimistic.

"All I can say is that it's going to create an awful fire hazard," declared Chief Charles Pinza of the Ross Fire Department. Alone among chiefs interviewed, he predicted the ban will necessitate greater expense for the fire departments.

Most optimistic is Chief Vance Trivett of San Rafael, who thinks that "after some experience, it will work out all right." Trivett is alone among the Marin fire chiefs in frankly favoring the backyard burning ban.

"My view on backyard burning is the same as the smog board's," he said. "I am in favor of the ban. The problem is going to be that there's going to have to be a program of education for householders. From the experience in Los Angeles, it will take two or three years to educate them."

Also, he declared, there "will have to be plans for picking up excess trash." To this, every fire chief interviewed agreed.

Most of the fire chiefs have adopted a "wait and see" attitude, with hope for the best. Chief Franklin J. Buscher of dent of the Marin Association of Fire Chiefs, noted that the group consistently opposed the burning ban for several years. This year, however, it did not send a representative to the single hearing held by the air pollution control board. "Most of us were against it, but we decided it was inevitable," said Buscher.

The Tiburon chief noted that Marinites have voluntarily decreased burning in recent years, apparently turning to other methods of trash disposal. "In the 10 years I have been chief, the number of burning permits issued has grown fewer and fewer," he said.

Similar decline in burning permits in recent years was noted by Louis J. Bloom, who as county fire chief has the biggest area of any of the departments, and by Chief Joseph E. Regalia of the Mill Valley Fire Department. Both hoped this indicates householders are at least partly educated against disposal by burning in advance of the ban.

Buscher noted, however, that nothing in the impending regulation will prevent the people from burning in fireplaces.

To Chief Kenneth Kamp of Kentfield Fire District, this poses a threat of additional roof fires. County Chief Bloom also predicted such an increase and suggested passing ordinances requiring screening of chimneys. Chief Trivett, however, felt there should be little or no increase hazard from fireplace burning.

All expect there will be more dumping of refuse in vacant lots and on roadsides by people who have been burning it, although Chief Trivett believes those who keep their yards clean by burning in incinerators will haul or send the rubbish to the dump if necessary.

Particularly worried about the hazards of such dumping is Chief Gaylord E. Bonfield of the Marinwood Fire Department. Bonfield reported Marinwood had two fires this summer from spontaneous combustion of grass that was dumped while green.

The Marinwood chief has a specific complaint against the burning ban. "Instead of worrying about backyard burning," he said, "they should do more to get these diesel engines off the roads. They are big polluters, and there is no restriction at all on them."

One other matter all the chiefs agreed on: They do not intend to be enforcement agents for the smog district. Most said the system of burning permits has worked well, and if the smog district will not allow them to issue permits, it will have to do its own policing.

Typical of the comments were those of Chief Carl Heynen Jr. of Alto-Richardson Bay Fire District at one end of the county and Chief James W. Kidder Jr. of Novato Fire District at the other end. Both said they foresee problems "for awhile."

"We're just going to have to play it by ear," said Chief Kidder in what might be taken as the keynote of all the chiefs' comments.

But Chief Frank A. Sousa of San Anselmo Fire Department thinks "playing it by ear" may be a lot more difficult than it sounds.

"They're going to be dumping trash in the streets and any place they can," predicted Sousa, "or they'll hold it in the yard and let it pile up. It's too expensive to have garbage collectors haul it away.

"I know we will have a greater hazard . . . I think it's going to overload us with work."

Future Carpet Home Being Picketed

Representatives of Painters Local 83 are picketing the future home of Canterbury Carpets, 1337 Fourth Avenue. The store is presently being remodeled to house the carpet firm.

According to Franklin G. Gneri, business agent for the union, the painters are protesting the firm's hiring of three nonunion men to paint the building's interior.

Chaka Loses Credential Bid; Berkeley Duties In Limbo

Black educator William (Chaka) Bradley, a target of "black racism" allegations when he taught in Sausalito last year, has been denied his teaching credential, officials of the Berkeley school system said today.

The action by the state, for which no reasons have been announced, left Chaka's status with the Berkeley schools, where he is teaching at Longfellow Elementary, up in the air.

Chaka said this morning he still has not been informed of the state's decision.

Bernard Flanagan, director of personnel, said he and Berkeley Supt. Richard Foster of Greenbrae would meet sometime today to discuss Chaka's status.

Flanagan said the options open to the controversial Chaka include accepting a noncertificated job — similar to his status at Sausalito's Martin Luther King School last year — or leaving the district.

Flanagan said Berkeley school officials have not talked about whether he will be offered another job and they have not talked to Chaka.

Chaka, asked today what his plans were, said, "That's something I'll talk about later."

Dr. Carl Larson, chief of the state bureau of teacher education and certification and chairman of the state credentials committee, could not be reached for comment today.

Dr. Max Rafferty, state schools superintendent and a member of the credentials committee, said late yesterday he was not aware of any action taken by the committee. He did not attend the committee's sessions this week, he said.

A spokesman for the committee told the Capitol News Service in Sacramento that Chaka would be informed of the state's decision by registered mail and would make no announcement until they received verification of receipt from Chaka and then only if directly queried by the news media.

The spokesman also indicated that reasons for the denial of a teaching credential probably would not be revealed.

The credential committee meets in closed session.

Meanwhile, Rafferty indicated that a hearing on the teaching credential of another controversial black educator in Sausalito, Sidney F. Walton Jr. may still be two or three months away.

Rafferty's office began investigating Walton's past after allegations were published this summer that he was a Black Panther, that he had threatened the life of the former president of Merritt College and other charges.

Walton, new principal of Martin Luther King, has denied all of the charges repeatedly.

Marin County Schools Supt. Virgil S. Hollis also was conducting an investigation into the charges but was out of town today and not available for comment on the progress of his probe.

Teen-Ager Admits Marijuana Guilt

Gary Reid Steadman, 19, of Corte Madera, admitted yesterday in Marin Municipal Court that he had marijuana in the bedroom of his home at 100 Edison Avenue on Jan. 10.

He was ordered to appear in superior court Nov. 23 for sentencing.

Steadman came to the attention of law officers when a Corte Madera policeman, investigating a neighborhood burglary, glanced through the window of Steadman's room and saw him rolling a cigarette.

A search warrant was obtained, and police found a bowl of the contraband weed, they said.

Petaluma Traffic Signals Delayed

Installation of signals at East Washington Street and McDowell Boulevard, Petaluma, which was to have been completed today, will be delayed for another week or two, according to City Engineer David A. Young.

The engineer said that street widening and electrical installations have been completed, but that the controls of the signal lights were being tested at the division of highways office in San Francisco.

Meanwhile, Young said that work on the boat launching ramp on the Petaluma River off Lakeville Highway is ahead of schedule and should be completed in December.

He said dredging and installation of water and sewer lines had been completed and that ground work on the parking lot and access road will be finished before the rainy season starts.

Psychological Scientist Holds Human Test Approach Wrong

NEW YORK (UPI) — One of the psychological scientists who try to understand human beings by experimenting with them is telling his fellows they're going about it in wrong ways. For that reason, in his view, much of their acquired knowledge is highly questionable.

Psychology's "image" of the human subject is of a "stimulus-response machine," said Dr. Duane P. Schultz. You put a measured stimulation in and you get a measurable response out. As image that is "inadequate," in his opinion. The human being is much more.

Some 80 per cent of experimental subjects are college students, mostly sophomores. For a variety of reasons, he contended, college students are NOT representatives of people as a whole. Furthermore, many volunteer and psychology scientists should know the volunteer is a special person in no matter what enterprises.

He cited psychology's extensive research into its own research to show that most subjects are not chosen at random which is an essential scientific requirement, and many of them are far from being naive and neutral in the experimental situation.

BIAS CITED

They have biases and they may well dislike the experimenting psychologist and are not above deceiving him in their responses. After all, it is commonplace in psychological experiments for the psychologist to deceive his subjects. With some subjects it could be tit for tat.

On the ethics of human experimentation he cited the ethical standards of the American Psychological Association which specify that "the psychologist seriously considers the possibility of harmful after effects and avoids them, or removes them as soon as permitted by the design of the experiment."

Schultz "suggested that many of our experiments do involve potential emotional stress and that our subjects are rarely informed of this possiblity. Further, we seldom bother to attempt to deal with any possible harmful aftereffects, for our interest in the subject ceases as soon as he leaves the laboratory."

NOT 'SCIENCE'

Schultz' academic base is the University of North Carolina in Charlotte. His critique was intended only for psychologists and was published in one of the association's technical journals. Among his conclusions were these:

"We cannot continue to base some 80 per cent of our human subject data on college students and still call our work a science of human behavior. . We cannot continue to ignore the welfare, dignity and privacy of our subjects."

But "the more basic, important and compelling reason for change," he said, is that "our model or image of man as an organic, stimulus-response machine, an inanimate, determined, reacting, empty organism, is obsolete. The image of the human subject-as-object is no longer appropriate, if, indeed, it ever was."

CESIL To Become Familiar Name For School Children

LONDON (London Express) — CESIL is a name which will be thoroughly familiar to the school children of the 1970s. It isn't just a misspelled Christian name.

CESIL is a new language which has been developed to enable teen-agers to understand the workings of computers.

Some 1,200 children in 27 schools in and around London are being introduced to CESIL. They will discover that the letters stand for Computer Education in Schools Introductory Language.

It is the result of a year's research by a management consultant who has sold the project in package form to International Computers Ltd. They will market it here and aboard.

The plan is for computer education to become a regular part of the school curriculum. Because the children at schools today will be the leaders and managers of the next century it is vital for them to grow up with an understanding of computers.

"Many people are afraid of computers," said Peter Hall, an ICL director.

"The remedy is to teach today's school children about them. We must educate them that computers are our slaves and not our masters."

A pilot program, has been operating in several schools — one of them Winchester College, Hants.

Ginger-haired Martin Howe, a 14-year-old Winchester boy, has even made a robot that will follow a silver line and homes on a light.

"I was absolutely mystified about computers before," said Martin. "But we did organizational problems such as working out gas bills and it all seemed quite simple in the end.

"I'm going into electronics as a career and my knowledge about computers will be very useful now."

The cost of the computer package is $17 per pupil per year. For $838 a school can run a year's course for 15 pupils without even possessing a computer. This includes all the instructions for the teacher.

"We're not aiming to make a vast profit out of this scheme," added Hall. "It's obviously in our interests, long term, to have more people educated to the merits of computers. That's why we're doing it."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

VAN DELLEN

Humans always have something to gripe about and never are satisfied with their lot. This dissatisfaction may explain the superiority of man over all other living creatures. A certain amount of fear keeps us on our toes and mildly discontented. This makes us ready to fight to protect ourselves and to get ahead in the world.

Tension affects the mind more than the body. It encompasses worry, discontent, and mental strain. Abnormal anxiety arises in those who do not have what it takes to cope with troublesome situations. Can we acquire the additional fortitude, backbone or moral fiber to overcome this weakness? Yes, but not without difficulty, especially when the weakness represents an inherent trait.

THESE PEOPLE are more inclined to flee than fight. Many try to build up confidence through the use of alcohol or a narcotic. But such crutches often have unpleasant or harmful side effects that lessen their desirability.

The most common defense against overanxiety is to follow the herd. There is strength in numbers. An individual acquires unusual courage in a crowd. A man will do things he never would dare try when alone.

IN THIS RESPECT, membership in an organization is a tranquilizer in itself, because it bolsters ego and confidence. Other methods of overcoming tension center about mental hygiene. Some persons learn to compensate through training; others hide their heads in the sand or run away from problems.

New inventions and labor-saving devices are worthless unless the people using them are happy and content. Humans still derive more satisfaction from accomplishments that engender the feeling of security than from technical progress.

TAKE FEWER CALORIES

REPLY

It's not low enough, provided the increase in weight is not caused by retention of water. If a person cannot lose weight on 1,200 calories, he must be getting enough food to maintain his present weight and enough fuel to take care of his activities. In such instances, reducing the daily intake to 1,000 or 800 usually brings down the calories to the point where some of his own tissues are utilized to supply the energy to keep him going.

HAIRY WOMEN

A. M. writes: Why do some women have mustaches and hairy arms and legs?

REPLY

This is known as hirsutism and usually is of glandular origin. On the other hand, it rarely responds to hormones and is best treated via shaving, the use of hair removers, or electrolysis.

STONES NOT CANCEROUS

A. G. writes: Do gallstones ever become malignant?

REPLY

No, stones are not living tissue and can no more become cancerous than the bricks or mortar in your home. Occasionally cancer develops in the gallbladder and it is more likely to occur when stones are present.

INCOGNITO INDOORS

M. B. writes: Is it harmful to the eyes to wear sunglasses indoors?

REPLY

No, but they cut down on visibility.

Today's Health Hint — Contact lenses should be replaced when chipped or scratched.

This Weekend Is Renaissance Fair's Finale

A "forest glen" off North San Pedro Road will again be just another wooded area at 6:30 p.m. Sunday when the third annual Renaissance Pleasure Faire closes.

The Pleasure Faire, a recreation of an Elizabethan county fair at harvest time, attracted nearly 60,000 people during the first three weekends in September. Proceeds from the event will go to organizations involved with Renaissance arts or crafts and to development of a proposed Renaissance Cultural Center.

On last two days, Saturday and Sunday, the faire will be open from 11 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

Alcohol Rules Set For Parks

The Terra Linda Parks and Recreation Commission has instituted a ban against alcoholic beverages at district parks unless a permit is issued, Mrs. Frederick K. Mulhaupt, general manager, has reported.

The district had an ordinance controlling drinking of alcohol in buildings, but it has been extended to cover outdoors at the Recreation Center Park, Oleander Park and Munson Park, Mrs. Mulhaupt said.

Anyone who wants to bring alcoholic beverages on property owned by the district must get a permit from the district board, she said.

'Hair' Rules: Some Schools Have, Some Don't

By GARY TISCHLER

Some have them, and some don't.

What's pretty much the picture on athletic hair and grooming regulations among Marin County and Southern Sonoma high schools in the wake of Bob Troppmann's resignation as athletic director at Redwood High School in a clash with Tamalpais School District administrator over the "hair" issue.

Two other high schools in Marin County, Terra Linda and Drake have athletic department policies similar to Redwood's on length of athletes' hair, while coaches at Novato, San Rafael, San Marin and Tamalpais regulate at their own discretion. Petaluma and Rancho Cotate high schools operate under a Petaluma School District policy that covers the entire student body.

At Terra Linda High School, all athletes must conform to a policy formulated by athletic director Don Lucas, which states that hair must be tapered in back, must not fall over the eyebrows. No mustaches or beards are allowed. Sideburns can come to the bottom of the ear.

"We have the policy," Lucas said. "If the boys don't meet the regulation, they're just not issued equipment. It's not a written policy, but the coaches have agreed to abide by it, and it will be come a written policy."

"I agree with Troppmann," Lucas added. "I feel that if the coaches can't have control of athletics, then it's not worth coaching under those conditions. It's bad enough teaching now. The administrators don't have guts. They just look out their windows and think everything's fine. Well, it's not fine. I think they ought to go out and teach a class and see."

"Our regulations are very similar to the ones at Redwood," Drake athletic director George Corson said. "There is no state regulation on sideburns as to special length."

Novato High School athletic director Al Scott was sympathetic with Troppmann but couldn't agree with him.

"We're a lot looser than other schools," he said. "There are no regulations governing hair. I feel if a boy is willing to come out, do everything that is demanded, respect his coach and his teachers, then that's the most important thing. Personally I don't care for long hair, but other things are more important. That's the style now. We leave it up to the individual coaches."

"Tropp is a hell of a guy," Scott added. "He should have a right to set athletic policy. But I think it's the wrong policy."

"We haven't had any problems about hair," San Rafael athletic director Jack Sims said. "There's nothing definite on paper. It's up to the coaches."

San Marin athletic director Bob Martin, who also doubles as football coach, has regulations for his own football team, but other coaches are allowed to handle the situation as they see fit.

"Our school dress code is comparable to the athletic policy at Redwood," Petaluma High School athletic director George Gilmore said. "The only difference is sideburns, which come to the bottom of the ear."

At Rohnert Park, athletes fall under the Petaluma district regulation, but have a certain degree of democracy in choosing regulations. A committee of the coaches and 12 representative athletes formulate policy and meet about three times a year.

The committee, however, cannot go counter to Petaluma District policy.

"If they voted to wear mustaches," athletic director Hal Janney said, "well I think we'd overrule that."

"We don't have a detailed policy," St. Vincent's of Petaluma Athletic Director Michale Gonzales said. "We just say they have to have a businessman's haircut, neat and clean. We had a detailed policy once, but it was just too difficult. This leaves some leeway for teachers, coaches and students."

JIM GILMARTIN

I'm 100 Per Cent Behind Redwood Coach Policy

I can't for the life of me find anything so unreasonable about the Redwood High School athletic department's erstwhile hair grooming policy which, until temporily rescinded Wednesday by District Superintendent Robert D. Torrey, stated: "Hair cannot fall below or over the shirt collars or over the eyes and must not fall over the ears. Sideburns must not be longer than the mid-ear level."

Let's see, now, that ruled out King Kong, Lassie and the Abominable Snowman but, with a little tonsorial touchup, the Beatles, half the population of the zoo, Prince Valiant and the Lennon Sisters could qualify for a block letter.

Torrey's recision of the policy which prompted Robert Troppmann's resignation as Redwood director of athletics makes it obvious that a few inches of hair is only a minor issue now. What it boils down to is that administrators are handcuffing athletic coaches in a field where uniformity and discipline are as essential as the three R's are in the academic field.

Disgusting On Athletic Field

My Establishment may be showing, but frankly I think long hair looks disgusting on the high school athletic field. The coaches should draw a line somewhere and I think Redwood's policy was quite liberal.

In the next few days I think the complacent folks in the district will be heard from. If they don't support the coaches fight for their right to demand uniformity and discipline, then the people of the district deserve precisely what they will ultimately get — the end of high school athletics as we know them today.

Walk through some of our campuses and look at the dress and appearance and deportment of the students and you will understand why taxpayers repeatedly reject school bond issues. The zoo keepers have let the monkeys take charge everywhere except the Redwood athletic department. Until Wednesday, that is.

SERIOUSLY ILL at his Mill Valley home: G. T. "Pop" Wendering, former builder of baseball champions at Tamalpais High School who started the likes of Sam Chapman, Art Schallock, Tony Freitas, Joe DeMaestri, Karl Olson and Charley Wensloff on their way to the major leagues.

CHAD ERTOLA, guard on the College of Marin football team, is son of San Francisco Supervisor Jack Ertola who was also a jock at the Kentfield school back in the late 1940s.

COLOR FILMS of the 59th annual Dipsea Race run from Mill Valley to Stinson Beach will be premiered tomorrow at the Avenue Theater, 2650 San Bruno Avenue, San Francisco at 7 and again at 9:30 p.m. Admission is $2 for adults and $1.25 for children. As 750 persons ran/jogged/walked/crawled the gruelling race Aug. 24, this could be a smash hit at the box office. The S.F. Bay to Breakers Race is an added feature.

NEXT MONDAY'S guests at the Marin Chapter, 49ers Goldrushers Club (Dominic's Restaurant, San Rafael, noon) will be fullback Ken Willard and defensive tackle Charley Krueger. The Goldrushers also will start inviting local high school grid stars as special guests each week. Monday it will be Tamalpais sophomore Clifford Hall who scored all the Indians' points in their 18-14 victory over Richmond's Salesian High last week.

WHAT A DIFFERENCE NINE YEARS MAKES

Marin Prep Football Teams To Take On Vallejo's Best

The football pride of Vallejo will be on the line this weekend when two Marin County Athletic League high school teams take on Vallejo's best.

Terra Linda travels to Vallejo tonight to take on mighty Hogan High at 8 o'clock while Drake hosts Vallejo High at 8 p.m. tomorrow at San Rafael High School in the featured games of another heavy prep schedule.

In other games tonight, Montgomery of Santa Rosa is at San Rafael, and Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park plays host to surprising San Marin of Novato at Durst Field in Petaluma.

In tomorrow afternoon action, Redwood hosts mighty Riordan of San Francisco at San Rafael at 2 o'clock and St. Patrick's of Vallejo visits Tomales at Durst Field in Petaluma at 3:30.

"I think we can win it," he said. "They're going to be more physical but we'll try to be smarter."

The trick here is to stop a very versatile offense headed by all-state halfback Jim Upchurch, who scored three times in a 50-0 rout of Skyline of Oakland last week, once on a 93-yard kickoff return.

"On offense, we'll just have to try to be balanced," Lucas said. "We don't really have the real fast backs. Our backs aren't quite there yet, but they'll be better than what we had last year."

Drake's problem, not even thinking of Vallejo, is shoring up an awfully leaky defense.

To this end, Coach Bob Franceschini has made some changes, especially in his defensive backfield, where Jim Forney, and Jim Domingues will take over two spots.

Also, Mark Silverman, a veteran halfback who was used as a flanker in a 24-14 loss at the hands of Petaluma last week, will be running more.

"I didn't realize it, but we only used him once or twice last week," Franceschini said. "That will change."

Vallejo, which downed Oakland Tech 28-14 last week, is traditionally tough and is the defending North Bay League Section I champion. As usual, the Apaches will have a tough running game and a sound line headed by the Osterkamps, guard Dave and center Dennis. The running is led by Ron Burris.

Novato will get the honor of trying to stop Petaluma's suddenly resurgent attack, and it won't be easy despite the fact that Coach Al Scott feels he has one of his better defenses on hand.

"No doubt about it," he said. "This will be a real test for us."

The big thing will be to stop quarterback Fred Klemenok, who passed for 210 yards and four touchdowns against Drake. The Trojan running game is sound behind Steve Hing and Dan Williams.

The Hornets must also get their own offense a little more up to snuff, with fullback Dan Reece, and quarterback Brett Bilsboro and halfback Dave

Metsomania: Waiting For Tickets

NEW YORK (AP) — While the groundskeepers tried to put Shea Stadium back together again, while the Mets sang for their lunch, while Tom Seaver and Cleon Jones laughed it up on national television, young Mark Cohen waited in line for playoff tickets.

"I wouldn't miss this opportunity for anything in the world," the 17-year-old student from Brooklyn said today. So determined was he to get his playoff tickets that he started the line at 6 p.m. Wednesday three hours before the New York Mets clinched the National League's East Division title.

There were more than 300 other Metsomaniacs waiting behind Cohen, but it was appropirate that he should lead them. After all, his father, Ruby, was third in line when the tickets went on sale for the subway World Series between the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Yankees in 1941.

Although he did miss the clincher and the Metsomania that followed, Mark did not come out of the evening empty-handed. one of the departing players gave him a bottle of champagne.

It's been a long time since New York baseball fans had anything to wait in line for. It's the first time ever for Mets fans, and Yankee fans haven't come up with a winner since 1964.

While Mark waited in line and Mayor John Lindsay declared next week as Mets Week, the Mets still were loudly celebrating. By yesterday afternoon, they were toasting in a record-

Giants Pin Hopes On Perry Tonight

San Francisco Giants will send Gaylord Perry to the mound tonight against the Los Angeles Dodgers in the start of a do-or-die three game series at Los Angeles.

The game will be televised by KTVU, Channel 2, as will the games tomorrow and Sunday. Tonight's starts at 8 o'clock, and the weekend games at 1 p.m.

Opposing Perry (17-14) will be Don Sutton (17-16). The second place Giants are trailing the Atlanta Braves by 1½ games in the N.L. West. The Braves open a three-game series with the San Diego Padres tonight in Atlanta.

Hodges Rewarded With New Contract

NEW YORK (AP) — Manager Gil Hodges who guided the New York Mets from ninth place to the National League East pennant, was rewarded by the club today with a new long term contract at an increase in pay that probably puts him in the $75,000-a-year class.

The new contract topped off a fantastic personal comeback for the likeable 45-year-old manager who suffered a heart attack that threatened to end his career last Sept. 24—a year to the day before the Mets clinched the pennant.

Hodges, a local favorite as a player with the Dodgers and who still lives in Brooklyn, was working on the second year of a three-year pact reportedly calling for $60,000 a year. The new contract is another three-year pact running through 1972 and is reported to call for a $15,000 raise in salary.

Hodges' patience and guiding hand with the young talent on the Mets is generally acknowledged to have been a major factor in their amazing rise from ninth place in last year's 10-team National League race to fire place this season and a berth in the new playoff system.

A's Get Victory Easy Way

OAKLAND (AP) — California Angel manager Lefty Phillips may think twice before he walks another Oakland A's batter on purpose.

Phillips ordered an intentional pass to Oakland's Joe Rudi last night and then watched in horror as relief pitcher Ken Tatum couldn't break the habit and unintentionally walked Ramon Webster to force in the winning run.

The A's rallied to nip the Angels 7-6 with Rudi keeping them in the game with a pair of homers until the walk decided the game.

Rudi, who apparently will be the Oakland first baseman for the remainder of the season, hit his first two homers of the year to drive in three runs.

Raiders May Need More Luck On Road Trips

OAKLAND — The Raiders have left town, which gives folks here nothing to do for three weeks. With any luck at all, the Townie footballers can come home on Oct. 19 5-0 after stops at Boston, Miami and Denver.

The way it's been going, the Raiders need all the luck the good fairy is peddling this autumn. Their opening wins over Houston and Miami were 11th hour affairs. Daryle Lamonica hasn't been missing by much, but he has been missing. And not all of their receivers are doublechecking their Firm Grip.

THE SECONDARY, principally David Grayson, has been saving Coach John Madden's automatons. The 30-year-old Grayson plucked four Houston passes — two of which were legitimate interceptions — and grabbed one from Miami's Bob Griese.

The Raider defensive backfield has been astounding ("Better than Baltimore's," says Houston quarterback Pete Beathard) when one considers that Rodger Bird and Kent McCloughan have been missing with injuries. What's more fascinating about the current Oakland back four of Grayson, Nemiah Wilson, Howie Williams and Willie Brown is that all began their pro careers elsewhere. So the next time you buy a pro football team, don't trade with Al Davis.

THE PATRIOTS, however, are doing so poorly they wouldn't mind trading with the Sacramento Capitols. The Pats, who've been outscored 66-7 in their opening losses to Denver and Kansas City, are either rebuilding or getting ready to move to Seattle. Which, on top of the Pilots, could be disastrous for Seattle.

This Sunday's Raider foe has won only seven games in two seasons. After coming close to winning the Eastern Division title in 1966, the Pats fell to 3-10-1 in '67 and 4-10 last year. Those four wins cost them O. J., so they got a new coach — one-time Jet assistant Clive Rush. He is an honest man. "We are not," he says, "a good team." They are barely a bad team.

THE RAIDERS have delighted in playing them the last two years; Oakland winning scores have been 35-7, 48-14, 41-10. Yet, the Raiders stay fretful of overconfidence. On paper caution sounds good; against the Pats, who needs it?

Boston hasn't had a decent defense in three years. And THAT used to be their strong suit. Denver and K.C. manhandled them on the ground, with the Chiefs picking up a preposterous 232 yards rushing.

THE PAT offense is in the hands of fullback Jim Nance, who runs a lot, and well. But stop him and you stop Boston. Kansas City certainly did; in fact, the Pats groveled for only 43 yards against the Chiefs. In the whole game. Ex-league rushing leader Nance used to pick that up in one series.

Their passing might be getting better — eventually. After Mike Taliaferro beat out guys named Parilli, Trull and Sherman for the No. 1 quarterback, he blossomed with potential — starting the season with 237 aerial yards against Denver. The Chiefs held him to 57. Yes. 57.

BECAUSE THE Raider secondary is better than K.C.'s, Taliaferro might be wise to call Nance's number all day. Then, surely, Nance would have something to call Taliaferro.

Should the Raiders slip against — or barely beat — Boston, the Super Bowl harbinger would be dim. Some folks are starting to believe the Raiders aren't great any more. But wizened observers suggest the rest of the league may just be getting better.

It's not easy to believe, howare part of the rest of the ever, that the Boston Patriots league.

Coin Toss Advantage To Braves

CINCINNATI (AP) — Atlanta was guaranteed a spot yesterday in the final playoff game for the National League's West Division championship in the event the Braves, San Francisco and Cincinnati wind up in a three-way tie.

The decision was made at a meeting in the office of league President Warren Giles, who flipped a half dollar several times to help work out a playoff system.

Entering today's action, Atlanta was on top by 1½ games over the Giants and 3½ over the Reds.

If all three deadlock, Atlanta, which drew a bye, will meet the victor of the Cincinnati-San Francisco game in the winner's park.

If Atlanta and San Francisco tie, the sudden-death contest will be held at Atlanta on Oct. 3. If the Braves and Reds tie, the game will be played at Cincinnati. And if the Giants and Cincinnati tie, the affair will be played in San Francisco.

OSHAWA, Ont. (AP) —Coach Fred Glover put his Oakland Seals through an intensive drill yesterday after the team returned from Sudbury, Ont., and an 8-2 loss to the St. Louis Blues.

The fast-skating workout was the Seals hardest thus far in the exhibition practice season.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Two Haunting Ex-Reds

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Jim Wynn and Johnny Edwards came back to haunt the Cincinnati Reds last night and left the Reds with only a ghost of a chance to win the National League Western Division pennant race.

Wynn and Edwards, both the property of Cincinnati at one time, belted home runs in helping the Houston Astros to a 4-3 victory which dropped the Reds 3½ games behind the Atlanta Braves in the Western Division. The Reds, who trail the Braves by three games in the lost column, now have only a slim chance of surpassing both the San Francisco Giants and the Braves for the division title.

33RD CLOUT

Wynn, who played for Tampa in the Reds' farm system before being drafted by Houston in 1962, crashed his 33rd homer in the fourth inning to give the Reds a 1-0 lead, but it was Edwards' sixth homer of the season in the ninth that proved to be the margin of victory.

Edwards, who played on the Reds' pennant winning team of 1961, spent seven years with the Reds before being traded to the St. Louis Cardinals in the winter of 1968. He played one season for the Cardinals then was traded with catcher Tommie Smith to the Astros for pitcher Dave Giusti and catcher Dave Adlesh in October of 1968.

While the homers hurt the Reds considerably, manager Dave Bristol thought the turning point of the game came in the seventh inning when the Astros scored twice. Houston had a runner on third with one out and Doug Rader batting, when the Astros attempted a suicide squeeze.

PITCHOUT

Catcher John Bench of the Reds smelled the play developing, however, and called for a pitchout. But Rader flicked his bat at the ball and made contact for a foul strike. On the next pitch he singled to score a run and pitcher Denny Lemaster followed with a double to chase home Rader.

"Rader saved the game for them," Bristol said. "We had the runner dead at the plate, if he doesn't make contact with the ball."

Bristol wouldn't say the Reds were finished, but he realized their chances were slim.

"You gotta hope, believe and win. You have to play every game like it's the last one," he said.

Pete Rose continued his torid hitting for the Reds by banging out three singles and a double in five at bats to take over the league lead in batting with a .347 average, but the only other member of the hard-hitting Reds to contribute anything was Tommy Helms, who collected three singles. Wynn drew his 148th walk of the season for Houston, tying the league record set by Eddie Stanky of the Dodgers in 1947.

SCORES

In the only other NL games played, the Pittsburgh Pirates swept a doubleheader from the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-3 and 9-7.

Boston edged New York 4-3, Washington defeated Detroit 7-2, Chicago nipped Kansas City 2-1 in 10 innings, Baltimore whipped Cleveland 4-1, Oakland tripped California 7-6, and Seattle defeated Minnesota 5-1 in American League games.

Ashe, the former UCLA and Davis Cup star, started slowly but fought back for a 4-6, 6-3, 6-4 victory over Marty Reissen, Evanston, Ill., yesterday in the quarterfinals of the tourney at the Los Angeles Tennis Club.

There were only two service breaks in the second and third sets—both by Ashe. The Richmond, Va., player was fourth-seeded when the tourney began but the three above him—Rod Laver, John Newcombe and Tony Roche, all of Australia—have been beaten.

Newcombe lost to Pasadena's Stan Smith, 3-6, 9-7, 6-0.

Laver, who had lost to Ray Moore earlier in the tourney, suffered another setback yesterday when he and fellow Aussie Roy Emerson dropped a 7-5, 13-11 game to aging Pancho Gonzales and Ron Holmberg.

Bob Lutz of Los Angeles also moved into the singles semi-finals with a 6-2, 3-6, 6-2 victory over Moore of South Africa. The other singles winners were Cliff Richey, San Angelo, Tex., 5-7, 6-2, 6-1 over England's Roger Taylor; and Thomas Koch, Brazil, 6-1, 8-10, 6-1 over Dennis Ralston, Bakersfield, who was ill before the match but played anyway.

Ashe teamed with Spain's Andres Jimeno to win a doubles match from another Australian pair, 8-6, 6-2 over Ken Rosewall and Fred Stolle.

In a late doubles match yesterday, Australia's Richard Crealy and Thomaz Koch of Brazil outplayed Ray Russels of Australia and Alex Olmedo of the U.S., 6-1, 15-17, 6-3.

Horror Hole Can't Stop Golfer Sikes

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — What would you do if you shot an 8, four over par, while leading the first round of the Alcan Golfer of the Year Tournament?

Dan Sikes, the golfing lawyer from Jacksonville, Fla., recovered with an eagle and a birdie, tying for first with a three-under-par 69 over the 6,541-yard Portland Golf Club course. Lou Graham of Nashville, Tenn., also had a 69.

Sikes' quick recovery was in contrast to an 8 which Sam Snead, one of golf's all time greats, took on the 18th hole of the U.S. Open in 1939. Snead never did win a U.S. Open.

INTO TREE

Sikes was four under par and far ahead of the 24-man field when he hit his tee shot on the 13th hole into a fir tree.

"It is frightening to see a ball go into a tree," Sikes said. "But the second shot was the bad one. It shouldn't have happened."

The ball went beneath a tree. Sikes chipped out, then put the ball into the trap. He two-putted for the 8.

Sikes had a par on the next hole, then on the 511-yard, par 5 15th hole, Sikes sank a 15-foot putt for an eagle. He birdied the 16th hole.

Sikes got another shock just after he walked off the course when a section of bleachers near the 18th green collapsed. Nine persons were hospitalized with minor injuries.

SURPRISED

Graham, having what he says is one of his worst years on the pro tour, described his play as "fair" and said he was surprised there were no lower scores.

Fourteen golfers matched par or better and there was general agreement that scores will be lower if it doesn't rain.

Gay Brewer, winner of the two previous Alcan tournaments played in Great Britain, was two strokes back at 71 and said he was pleased with his position after the first day.

Six players tied for second place with 70s. They are Billy Casper, Lee Trevino, Bert Greene, Deane Beman, Grier Jones and Kel Nagel, the veteran Australian.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Good Question: Where Does The Money Go?

"Fish and Game: Where Does The Money Go?"

That's the title of an article appearing in the September issue of The State Employee, official publication of the California State Employees Association which should be of general interest to you sportsmen.

IT FOLLOWS:

"California's fish and game preservation fund is one of the oldest special funds in the state. It was established by the legislature in 1909.

"License and permit fees, taxes, fines and forfeitures are set aside by statute to protect, conserve and promulgate fish, mollusks, crustaceans and game.

"No general fund money is used to administer or enforce the fish and game code, or to acquire or construct facilities for related uses.

"No income tax money, or cigarette tax money, or sales tax money is used to operate that department.

"2,247,000 anglers who fish in state waters or 755,137 sportsmen who hunt California game, pay for the department's operation, with the exception of kelp harvesters, who lease off-shore areas from the state. Also, there are federal reimbursements for cooperative projects.

"Expenditures at Fish and Game have been about $16 million annually, although income has been at about $18 million, so a surplus of $10.3 million has built up.

"Directives from the finance department this summer on budgeting for 1969-70, which call for cuts averaging 20 per cent, made no exception for special fund agencies, and the edict to cut personnel back to the level of 1967 applied to Fish and Game as well as the Department of Motor Vehicles.

"So, despite the fact that income this year will probably top $18 million, latest reports from Fish and Game indicate the department will be allowed to spend only about $14 million, 12.5 per cent under the $16 million in this year's budget for expenditures. Approval of supplemental funds could increase the budget total.

"(This does not take into consideration use of about $8 million of that $10.3 million surplus now budgeted for a new fish hatchery on the Mad River and screens on major diversion canals to keep fish from being swept into irrigation projects.)

"In 1956 the Department of Finance decreed that the ratio of wardens to license buyers should be one to 7,500. Since that decision, the warden staff has increased by only five men and the ratio stands at one to 13,500. The average workweek for wardens is 53.75 hours and the department, in a recent study to determine need for more wardens, based its figures on a 12-hour day.

"One warden's comment to the recent finance proposal was: 'Cut back what?'

"The edict to cut back personnel is expected to result in loss of about 50 'man years' of help from seasonal aides, young men hired for nine months a year. This could mean as many as 100 fewer such young men would be hired next year.

"Fish and Game has asked to be allowed to spend more money — supplemental requests they are called — but if it is not forthcoming the program which likely will feel the brunt is fish planting. Instead of planting trout three or four times a week it will be one or two times, according to a reliable source within the department.

"The California State Employee asked this source what the point of the cuts were, since the money is being collected anyway (no drop in license fees is planned) and can't be used for anything else.

"'You'll just have to ask somebody in the administration that,' was the reply."

WOULDN'T IT BE great if some of the fish and game funds could be directed to some of the ideas expressed in the following letter from Justice Court Judge David R. Baty of Point Reyes Station?:

"Dear Al:

"From time to time you and I have discussed the dwindling silver salmon and steelhead fishery in Tomales Bay and Paper Mill Creek. Apparently the high dams on Nicasio and Big Carson Creeks have cut off so many of the spawning areas that both of these species are rapidly disappearing from the waters of West Marin.

"Last week Sue and I drove down from Vancouver, British Columbia. On the way south along the Olympic Peninsula, we stopped at the Quilcene National Fish Hatchery. There they trap hundreds of silver salmon migrating up the Quilcene River to spawn. The eggs are fertilized, hatched and the young salmon raised in tanks until they are large enough to be returned to the river to migrate down stream to Puget Sound and the ocean. Large numbers of rainbow trout are also raised to stock the rivers and lakes of the area.

"It seems to me that such a facility, state or federal, would be ideal to replace the lost spawning areas of Paper Mill Creek and restore the salmon and steelhead fishing in West Marin to the level that it was a generation ago. Additionally, such a hatchery could serve as a conservation education center conveniently available to the school children of the county and other parts of the Bay Area.

"Perhaps some of your readers would be interested in participating in such a project. If so, ask them to drop me a line at Point Reyes and we'll see if we can get something started."

Perron expected to carry the load.

San Rafael will be trying to bounce back from a 13-7 loss to Napa against a Montgomery squad that lost, 12-7, to Novato. The reappearance of injured fullback Leon Leonhart will help some and the ironing out of early season mistakes will too, for a Bulldog squad that is expected to battle Terra Linda for the MCAL title.

Redwood, a 14-0 winner over Archbishop Mitty High of San Jose last week, goes against Riordan with a certain amount of trepidation after a large part of the Giants' coaching staff watched the Crusaders defeat Terra Linda, 21-13 last week.

FINE REUNNER

The Giants' defense will be sorely put to stop Carl Braboy, a beautiful open field runner and the remainder of a talented Riordan backfield. The Giants can probably forget about running up the middle, since the Trojans had absolutely no luck with it.

San Marin, a 21-6 winner over McClymonds in its opener, goes against another winner in Rancho Cotate, a 20-0 victor over Cloverdale last week.

"I think we ought to be able to win," San Marin coach Bob Martin said. "They have some pretty good backs, but I think our line is better."

VS. WINNER

Marin Catholic will try to perk up its offense against Piner, an 8-6 winner over Jefferson of Daly City last week. The Marin Wildcats of Kentfield stopped Albany, 7-0, although their offense was muffled by a big inside rush on the guards and center.

Mark Lewis figures to give the Wildcats a lift with his speed.

Ron Petroni, who couldn't quite avert a 21-20 loss at the hands of El Molino of Forestville last week, will try again as Tomales takes on St. Patrick's. Petroni gained 1,000 yards-plus last year for Tomales.

706 Bowling Headliner By Treadway

Dick Treadway, the veteran secretary of the Marin County Men's Bowling Association, came up with the new season's first 700 three-game series.

Treadway, rolling in the 915 Travel League at Country Club Bowl, came out with games of 222, 252 and 232 for a 706 total.

It was a week for high games by bowlers with not so high averages. At Country Club Bowl in San Rafael, Nan Blackburn (135 average) rolled a 218 line in the Morning Glories; Pam Shannon (132 average) rolled a 222 and Gayle Graham (138 average) a 227, both in the Keglerettes; Jerri Scheiner (149 average) tossed a 223 game in the Winter Wonders; Helen Piecznski (143 average) had a 225 line in the Hi-Lo's.

At Nave Lanes, Doris Colen (111 average) shot a 201 in the Hawaiian League and Mary Ferrari (131 average) rolled a 200 even, her first time at the double century mark. Among the high scores from Greenbrae Lanes were Shirley Larsen (150 average) with a 229 and her teammate of the Mixed Mates League, JoAnn Richardson (158 average), 221 game; Myra Yerion (155 average) rolled a 226 line in the Hits and Mrs. League, and Grace Hopkins (130 average) rolled a 203, her first 200, in the Coffee Cuppers. It was one of five 200 lines rolled in that league.

STRIKES TO SPARE — Shirley Santos picked up the 6-7-10 split in the Keglerettes League at Country Club Bowl. . . . BOWLING TIPS

A strike delivery should convert the 1-2-5-8 into a spare. The 5-pin usually is the most troublesome in this set-up and a fairly good "pocket hit" is needed to bring it down along with the others.

Marin Tars Anticipate Rough Trip

The College of Marin Tars travel to Eureka this weekend. And as if that weren't bad enough, tonight they'll be subjected to a game against defending state small junior college football champion College of the Redwoods.

On top of that, the Corsairs will be looking to avenge a 33-0 whitewashing handed them by the Tars the last time the teams met, in 1967. After the first week of play, Redwood is ranked tops in the state's small school division. Considering these things it would be most understandable if the Tars decided to board the wrong bus and go elsewhere.

Marin coach Dick Read isn't counting his team out, however. The Tars have spent the week adding plays to their passing attack, which in its elementary pre-season stages netted 141 yards against San Jose last week.

NEW QUARTERBACK

The only change in Marin's starting lineup will be at quarterback, where Jim Peters will get the nod. He was impressive against San Jose, passing for more than 100 yards, including a 68 yard touchdown aerial to Larry Blackwell.

College of the Redwoods, who according to Read are stronger than last year, will be counting on the passing of quarterback George Apo, and the running of setback Jim Kehl. Last week they led the Corsairs to a 41 to 20 romp over powerful Hartnell.

As a final note, last Saturday marked the first time since Read took over at Marin that anybody has run a punt back against his team for a touchdown. The Jaguars' Dave Pike did it in the second quarter. Needless to say, the Tars worked on their punt coverage this week.

Stanford To Host Oregon In Pacific-8 Grid Action

STANFORD (AP) — Oregon's dark-horse Rose Bowl hopes get an early test tomorrow when the Ducks collide with Stanford's powerful offense in the first Pacific-8 Conference game for both teams.

Kickoff at Stanford Stadium at 1:30 p.m.

The Ducks put on an impressive offensive show last week when they downed Utah 28-17 while Stanford was rolling over San Jose State 63-21.

"Stanford," says Oregon Coach Jerry Frei, "is awesome. They have one of the best quarterbacks in the country in Jim Plunkett and the Indians have to be considered one of the favorites in the Pacific-8."

Frei also makes it clear that he is not overlooking the Indians' ground game that last week rolled up 315 yards led by sophomore Jackie Brown who carried 13 times for 93 yards.

Stanford Coach John Ralston says he expects a real test from the Ducks, who unveiled a balanced attack against Utah.

Quarterbacking Oregon is junior Tom Blanchard who showed last week that a year's layoff following knee surgery has not slowed him up. Blanchard threw three touchdown passes, tying a school record, while completing eight of 13 passes for 157 yards.

But Blanchard's performance was overshadowed by the play of sophomore slotback Bobby Moore, who caught all three scoring passes for a school record and caught five passes for 104 yards.

Rocky Pamplin led the Ducks' ground gainers with 18 carries and 150 yards. However, Pamplin suffered an ankle sprain and how much he will be able to play is not certain.

Stanford will welcome tight end Bob Moore back to the lineup after he was held out of the San Jose game with a knee strain.

Five other Pac-8 clubs go up against Big 10 opponents and Oregon State rounds out the Saturday schedule with a visit to Arizona State.

49ers Still Hobbling

REDWOOD CITY (UPI)— The San Francisco 49ers are suffering a rash of minor injuries that may keep some of them out of Sunday's battle with Green Bay at Milwaukee.

"Stan Hindman has a muscle pull in his side, Bill Tucker is still not fully recovered and Forrest Blue is still hobbled," Dick Nolan said yesterday. "But we won't know until game time if they'll be ready."

Earl Edwards would start for Hindman if need be and Blue's center job would go to Howard Mudd, Cas Banaszak or Lance Olssen.

Nolan said he was considering starting Skip Vanderbundt at corner linebacker in place of Harold Hays. Vanderbundt, healthy now after an injury-riddled rookie campaign last year, split the position with the veteran Hays against Atlanta.

Nolan says his offensive line is improving slowly. All-pro guard Mudd had a long holdout and "is just now catching up." He still is listed behind starters Elmer Collett and Woody Peoples. And just acquired offensive tackle Randy Beisler "is still not at the point where he could step in and start," Nolan said.

Today is Friday, Sept. 26, the 269th day of 1969, with 96 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Venus and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1950 U. N. troops took Seoul, the capital of South Korea, from the Communists.

Cooks And Bakers Paint Friend's House

Barbara Emter, a cook at the restaurant for six years, retired and as a special gift, her fellow kitchen employees joined to paint her white frame house. The restaurant paid for the paint and the job was completed in one day by two shifts of workers.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Crime Not Detected, Just Believer It Was Bad Luck

BEAMS AT DUMMY

West opened the six of spades, and South beamed when he saw the dummy. He won with the nine of spades, led a club to the king and returned a club from dummy to the ace.

West ruffed the ace of clubs and returned his last trump, leaving only one trump in the dummy. South could ruff one club in dummy but then had to give up a club trick. Down one.

Dr. Watson was sure that South was the victim of misfortune, a combination of bad distribution and a brilliant opening lead. Sherlock Holmes thought that a horrible crime had taken place. See if you can decide who was right before you read on.

SAFETY PLAY

Holmes was right, as the great man always was. South was a criminal, because he should have made his contract by way of a simple safety play.

LOW CLUB LEAD

Declarer should lead the low club from dummy but should play low from his own hand instead of trying to win the trick with the ace. Regardless of the defense, South can next ruff a low club in dummy, draw trumps and cash the good clubs.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ 6 5 4
♥ K 9 8 4
♦ K 8 7 4 3

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades.

Your trump support is very weak, but the side singleton suggests a spade raise rather than a no-trump response. Few partners are uncivilized enough to open with a weak four-card spade suit, so you are no likely to run into trouble by raising.

84 Trichinosis Cases Reported

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI)— Eighty-four cases of trichinosis were reported to the National Communicable Disease Center in 1968, the Kentucky State Department of Health reports.

The cases, from 22 states, were traced to: pork products 71 per cent; bear meat 10 per cent; hamburger 19 per cent. The hamburger cases "probably reflect contamination of beef when ground in meat grinders used previously for pork," the report said.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Macrodyne Turnaround Potential Held Good

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I hold 200 shares of Macrodyne-Chatillon bought at 27. Is there any hope for recovery? — G. P.

A. Macrodyne is considered to have long-term potential. Some recovery in share price from a low of 8½ has been already seen. Formed earlier this year by merger of Shinn Industries, Macrodyne and Aero-Chatillon, the company is a supplier to the aerospace industry.

Contract stretchouts have had an adverse effect on sales this year. Including newly acquired companies, earnings for fiscal 1969 — ended June 30 — were 53 cents a share down from 87 cents the year before. As of June 30, 1969, backlog had doubled and stood at $50 million.

With orders of more than $11 million in June, fiscal 1970 was off to a good start. The acquisition of Shoup Voting Machine — annual sales rate $9.6 million — is another promising move.

Hold shares for recovery.

Q. My wife acquired what now amounts to 220 shares of Libby, McNeill & Libby. We are in our early 50s and interested in long-term gains. What is your opinion of this stock? — A. P.

A. In the most recent fiscal year Libby reported a $4.7 million operating deficit on slightly higher sales. Costs associated with the disposal of facilities resulted in an extraordinary charge of $10.4 million against income.

Trying to reduce its dependence on seasonal products with an erratic earnings pattern, Libby has introduced several specialty food items. Market acceptance has been good but, fruit and vegetables will continue to account for the most sales. I recommend sale of the shares.

Building Pace Up In August

August building permit values in Marin reached $6,750,450 this year — almost one-third more than a year ago, according to the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau.

As usual the greater part of this was in residential activity which recorded a total of $4,691,370, up 23.3 per cent from August 1968. Except for $611,068 in San Rafael and $511,000 in Corte Madera, commercial activity was nominal in all areas.

San Rafael and its environs took third place in residential permits last month, $911,615. Miscellaneous unincorporated areas had $1,193,000 and Novato $929,400. Mill Valley ranked fourth with $604,750.

In other areas, Larkspur residential permits stood at $485,000; Tiburon, $269,200; Sausalito, $100,500; Ross, $81,500; Fairfax, $61,000; Kentfield and Greenbrae, $65,000; Belvedere, $54,750, and Corte Madera $30,730. West Marin permits totaled $153,250 and San Anselmo showed no residential activity during the month.

American Motors Has Least Price Tag Hike

Much Is 'A Little Queer' In Mental Health Dispute

In one year, from fiscal 1967 to fiscal 1968, the outlay for mental health by California's 58 counties increased by 30 per cent.

That was just double the percentage increase for county health departments in the same year.

These figures, drawn from California Taxpayers Association research bulletins, suggest that the fiscal part of Marin County's community mental health problem is scarcely unique.

Mental health did not even appear in the Marin County budget until fiscal 1964. In the budget that year was a $10,000 item to finance the mental health advisory board in setting up a program to qualify for federal funds under the Short-Doyle Act.

This year's county budget calls for an outlay of $2,215,000 for mental health.

PART OF THE SUDDEN skyrocketing in the cost of public mental health programs results from a tardy awakening to the need to provide something better for disturbed members of society than the traditional "snake pit" institutions.

But part of it also must be put down to the desire of psychiatrists and psychologists to feather their own nests.

Many a school psychologist has presented figures showing an inordinate proportion of disturbed children — of whom many had, until the psychologist's "discovery," been regarded as normal, healthy, happy kids by teachers, playmates and parents.

It sometimes appears that the professionals take the same approach as the anonymous 18th Century Quaker who told his wife, "All the world is queer save me and thee; and sometimes I think thee is a little queer."

THERE SEEMS TO BE some of this attitude in the current embroglio over Dr. Clyde G. Miller, county director of community mental health.

Those with whom Miller deals — the mental health center director, hospital administrators, operators of therapy programs — appear to be almost unanimous in declaring the county director is impossible to deal with and is hamstringing the mental health program.

Dr. Miller, however, complains that the mental health center director fails to furnish written program outlines, and that others with whom he deals refuse to follow county guidelines.

At the heart of the dispute lie differences about what kind of mental health program the county should have, and — not unexpectedly — about money.

SALLY MISHKIND, a member of the mental health advisory board who is neither psychiatrist, psychologist nor institutionalist, contends that there is no need for the county's $195,000 appropriation for Dr. Miller, his staff and headquarters.

Mental health, she asserts, could be handled by either the county health director or medical director through contracts with the same agencies with whom Miller contracts — and with whom he is constantly embroiled in disputes.

Whether it is "thee or me" who is "a little queer," what Mrs. Mishkind says makes a good deal of sense. Mental health seems to have become a terribly expensive affair. It is certainly made more expensive by being given its own bureaucracy.

We think the board of supervisors, when it confronts this thorny issue next Tuesday, should give careful consideration to Mrs. Mishkind's suggestion.

The Age Of Aquarius

The young people of an astrological bent tell us through their song that this is the dawning of the Age of Aquarius, when "harmony and understanding, sympathy and love abound." We wish the young folks luck. Surely, the world could use much more of these precious values.

But we would remind the young that their dreams will remain just that until they include those victims of mass prejudice, their parents, as being among those deserving of their sympathy, love and understanding. Parents as well as children are to a certain extent prisoners of their environment, and once they, too, thought they had found the Holy Grail.

Reagan's Move May Herald A New Day For Consumers

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — What could be the beginning of a new era in consumer protection started recently when Gov. Ronald Reagan created a division of consumer affairs in the state Department of Professional and Vocational Standards.

For many years, the consumer, his needs and wants, have been something like a football in play between teams consisting of the retailer, the distributor and the manufacturer.

He has had no central place to go for redress when inconvenienced or damaged by the sale of inferior goods or delays, sometimes of months, in the delivery of goods ordered. Nor has he had the ability to pinpoint responsibility, at least speedily, for such malfunctions in what needs to be an orderly process of doing business.

A REMEDY for these evils will not immediately follow with the organization of a new division in government, but at least it will pave the way for study of the problem and the ultimate enactment of legislation.

And even if no improvement through new legislation is sought, the new division will give the consuming public a single center to voice complaints and secure what remedies are available under present laws.

Centralization of government operations designed for consumer protection will result, the governor said, in obvious administrative efficiencies.

Comprising the new unit will be the office of consumer council, now in the governor's office; the collection agency licensing bureau; the bureau of electronic repair dealer registration; the bureau of employment agencies; the bureau of furniture and bedding inspection, the bureau of private investigators and adjustors.

MANY CONSUMER complaints have to do with late deliveries of goods ordered, and there is no recourse against either the retailer, the distributor, or the manufacturer.

Thus, this might be the time to start a study as to whether business should be required to post a bond guaranteeing deliveries on the date promised.

Such a procedure would in most instances insure that orders were filled in turn, and the small customer would not be required to wait endless days for his goods.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Fairfax Festival Termed Disaster

Last weekend Sept. 20 and 21 Fairfax was host to an art festival which had a disastrous conclusion.

The first day of the two-day affair was serene, enjoyable and filled with beautiful people doing their own beautiful thing. Several young musicians were mellowing out their instruments playing easy to listen to blues, which hit the right tone for the groovy people who were attending.

The next day however was something dirty, scary, and a low blow for the beautiful people of the Fairfax art festival. Some person or persons authorized the selling of old used houseware and other usable garbage. With this opportunity for cheap profit unleashed, all the human trash in the area and in the outline (sic) vicinities came to exploit. Even the young musicians turned their minds away from art to become just plain old hard rock bands. I guess we know where their thoughts still are. But the bands are young and can't be blamed for their actions which were influenced so greatly by the hords of scavengers who came down on Fairfax last Sunday. Scores of policemen had to be called in to keep things under control and safe for all the profit seekers and bums. The last thing that beautiful, creative, hep people need is cops, plastic people, and dirty hippies to show up and over-run the one weekend that was supposed to be theirs. Hope also died in Fairfax last Sunday.

More To Blame On Computers

It is fairly well accepted that as an artifical extension of a physical attribute is developed, that attribute will tend to atrophy. That is, the development of radar has reduced the sharpness of eyesight, lifting equipment has weakened backs, automobiles have had a destructive effect on legs, etc.

Perhaps if this is a true phenomenon, it would explain some trends in the foreign policies of the major nations of the world since the development of computers.

Restaurant Incident Needs Explanation

I have just read Dorothy Moreland's letter in yesterday's (Sept. 22) paper, and find myself not only surprised but embarrassed also.

Unless Denny's Restaurant comes up with a satisfactory public explanation of why this incident happened and of its policy re segregation, I for one, as a white resident of Novato, will consider Denny's as off limits for dining out in the future.

Ferries Answer To Commute Woes

I have lived in large metropolitan areas throughout the world and it amazes me to see the number of people who accept the inconvenience and waste of 1½ to 2 hours of their working day by sitting on Route 101 following the other man's bumper. Is "this" the price that one pays for working in San Francisco?

A large scale commuter bus system will not alleviate the problem. A Marin bus system will fail for the same reasons that similar systems (Flint, Mich.) have failed throughout the United States: (a) added congestion both on the freeway and in the city, (b) the need for a primary means of transportation to the bus depot, and (c) an increase on total door-to-door travel time. The offset in monetary savings will not be enough to convince the average Marin commuter to give up his personal automobile.

High-speed ferries will provide a solution to the problem. They will take people off the road and most important of all, they will alow the commuter to "use" his commute time! I am told that Sydney, Australia, has put into operation a large-scale water transportation system that really works.

The potential solutions to Marin County commuter transportation problems should be put to those most affected: the commuters. My vote goes with the San Francisco Board of Supervisors.

Fairfax Festival Found Disgraceful

I am in complete agreement with the gentleman at the Fairfax City Council meeting that voiced his disapproval of the Fairfax Art Festival. The so-called "art" festival was nothing more than a two-day rock concert. It appeared to have attracted every undesirable element from miles around. It certainly was no family affair. Young people were openly drinking and smoking marijuana, plus committing acts in public not meat to be printed in a family newspaper. When the police were asked why no arrests were made, they said they were afraid it might touch off a riot which they were not equipped to handle.

Fairfax does not need this type of festival. "Whose Town?" should be answered by the people of Fairfax. When the next city election comes up, keep in mind the members of the city council that are far too liberal. Let's get someone elected to clean up the mess than Fairfax has become.

Shakeup Of State Department Needed—And Nixon Knows It

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — The fact that President Nixon has held up his long-promised overhaul of the State Department doesn't mean he is satisfied with its performance.

He isn't. He is dissatisfied. He is displeased.

In his campaign Richard Nixon said again and again he intended to turn the State Department upside down, shake out the dull and the mediocre and put more venturesome minds at work.

HE HASN'T. He passed up his first, best opportunity during the weeks immediately after taking office. Perhaps he thought it might not be necessary or that what was needed would follow the appointment of his trusted intimate, William Rogers, as secretary of state.

There is no evidence that any significant overhaul or stimulation of State Department talent has followed. Just about the same people are doing the same things the same way they always have. There are just too many morticians' minds shuffling through the past competently finding reasons why nothing should be changed.

The password is "No."

THAT'S WHAT the President concluded — and he was not amused. The negative approach of State Department professionals impressed Mr. Nixon painfully in connection with the preparations for his recent trip to Southeast Asia, India, Pakistan and Romania — and during it.

When anything venturesome was proposed, he found the State Department people were mostly against it. They didn't want him to go to Romania: it might rock the boat with the Russians. They didn't want him to go to Vietnam. They didn't want him to expound his evolving post-Vietnam policy in his long briefing to the press at Guam. The President couldn't see that he was getting any original creative thinking on foreign policy from where it should come.

THIS IS WHY he made no effort to cover up his adverse reaction after he returned from his overseas travels. Indeed, far from covering it up, he let it emerge deliberately in the hope that awareness of his dissatisfaction would stir things up at State.

If it has, it's not visible, and now Nixon is right back where he started, facing the task of shaking up and shaking out from near-the-top to bottom at the State Department and feeling an increasing need to do it.

THE FAILURE of the State Department to respond according to presidential expectation is nothing new. F.D.R. found that in order to get things done he had to go over the head of State Secretary Cordell Hull and deal directly with Undersecretary Sumner Welles. President Kennedy built a little state department into the White House under McGeorge Bundy, and President Johnson did the same thing with Walt Rostow at his elbow.

Influence in the creation of foreign policy will inevitably come from where the best brains are located. As assistant to the president for security affairs, Henry Kissinger and his staff have talent unmatched by the State Department, and when there's a vacuum at State it is bound to be filled by others. It is being filled by Kissinger and his people today and Mr. Nixon isn't resisting it.

It is better to have an abundance of creativity among the President's foreign policy staff in the White House when there is a dearth of creativity in the State Department.

WHEN MR. NIXON in going to Romania rejected the negative advice of the State Department, he did one of the best things on his trip. He demonstrated that if Moscow wants better relations with the United States, it can't expect to be free to cultivate its contacts with the non-Communist nations and veto the United States from having closer contacts with the Communist nations.

If President Nixon wants to get more creative push from the State Department along with fewer overcautious negatives, he can't leave things as they are. That long-promised shakeup seems more needed than ever.

Congress Happy To Leave Draft Reform To Nixon

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — In his strategy for forcing Congress to reform the military draft, President Nixon resembles a stern father who is threatening his laggard son with a new bicycle.

The President has solemnly warned that, if Congress does not act, he will do just what its military experts want him to do: that is, order the reforms himself. It is a warning without a menace.

All indications are that the House and Senate will be happy to let the President go right ahead and effect changes in the draft machinery which has been the target of so much criticism by young people.

The President wants to induct young draft eligibles at age 19, rather than the oldest eligibles, as at present. He envisions one year of draft vulnerability at age 19, after which a young man would be free to pursue a career, barring only an all-out national emergency.

HOUSE AND SENATE military experts have long been telling President Nixon, and President Johnson before him, that those changes can be made by executive order, without congressional action.

Both Presidents have favored a lottery-like random selection plan to select among eligible 19-year-olds. President Nixon in his comments last week was prodding Congress to approve such a wholly haphazard selection system.

However, congressional experts, expecially in the House, are skeptical about the lottery plan. Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., immediately questioned whether the random plan was really needed to assure fair and impartial selection machinery.

AT LAST WEEK'S White House briefing, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said the President would now seek only the simple repeal of one portion of the draft law which bars a lottery selection plan without prior congressional sanction.

The trouble is that repeal would not be simple, and Laird as a former congressman, must know that very well.

A repeal bill might emerge unaltered from the House, where tight rules can block amendments. In the Senate, however, a simple repeal bill would be fair game for a pile of complex draft amendments already proposed by draft critics.

For example, Republican Sen. Mark Hatfield, Ore., offered legislation last January which would end the draft six months after its enactment and move to a voluntary army. The President wants a voluntary army too, but after the Vietnam war.

SENATE EXPERTS say the President's simple repeal bill for draft reform would surely become entangled in Senate deliberations with the voluntary army concept which he espouses.

Even more embarrassing possibilities were mentioned by congressional experts in conferences which preceded last week's briefing by Nixon and Laird. It was duly noted, for example, that an amendment would surely be proposed which would bar the use of draftees for the war in Vietnam unless the President directed their use by executive order.

Here's Hard But Simple Solution To Myriad Bay Area Problems

I've just passed another birthday and as a result am another step closer to age 30 and the end of my usefulness to the world, so I am writing this column as my part towards solving all the world's problems.

At least, all the problems of the Bay Area. My plan is devastatingly simple but it would solve just about everything us marvelous Marinites, sophisticated San Franciscans and other Bay Areans are uptight about.

Pave the bay!

It would eliminate water pollution, bay filling and BCDC.

It would end the commuter problem, the grumbling about one-way bridge tolls, the highway lobby, and maybe even the state Division of Highways.

It would end the ferry strike.

It would solve Mill Valley's tennis court shortage.

It would make Sausalito's houseboats fixed structures so county building codes could be applied with gusto and all those scary people driven out.

It would make further widening of Bridgeway and more Sausalito parking meters unnecessary.

IT WOULD PROVIDE an answer to airport congestion.

It would provide all the bicycle paths anyone could ever want.

It would solve the problem of what to do with Alcatraz sitting out there in the middle of all that water.

It would soothe the ruffled feelings of us proletarians who get severe class identity problems every time we see a sailboat.

It would lower parking rates and end the parking congestion problem as well as providing vast new sources of revenue for cities and counties.

It would make it possible for San Francisco — that shimmering Athens of the West — to sponsor the cultural event to end all cultural events: the biggest roller derby in history.

IT COULD SOLVE the problem of whether Marin County should back a nude beach by putting up some plastic trees and bushes on some out-of-the-way stretch of cement.

It would save our many troubled editorial writers from wringing their hands, warning direly, and the other things editorial writers do so much.

It would eliminate the stink of Richardson Bay.

It would be a boon to the cement industry and of course have important residual benefits to the rest of the economy.

Further, it probably would raise the water level throughout the rest of the world, which would have these results: Coastal cities where the bulk of the world's population is would be flooded, ending the problem of overpopulation; Los Angeles would sink; such troublesome areas as Vietnam and Cuba probably would be inundated; New York City also would sink, eliminating professional San Franciscans' psychoses about who's best; the liberal eastern seaboard that Californians worry about would be under water and good, conservative places like Pittsburgh would be on the east coast.

I COULD GO on and on, but I'll let you come up with your own problems that need to be solved.

And besides all the problems solved, Pave the Bay would make a great bumper sticker.

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Mental Health Blowup Shows How Supervisors Are Hoodwinked

Fusselman

The real situation has finally started to surface. It's been fomenting for close to five years, since "the most powerful man in county government," received a $5,000 a year wage boost gift from his supervisor buddies.

The abdicators on the board then knew they could rely on the eager beaver to do those things they were supposed to do and for which they themselves had each received a $3,600 a year boost.

A HOST of voters supported John McInnis because of his expressed desire to see some changes made in the setup. He has disappointed them and has fallen a victim to the constant "I'll handle this and relieve you of the burden" line of subtle persuasion.

He is reported to have stated to a group that County Administrator Alan Bruce was being crucified and that the public had no idea the millions he was saving the taxpayers. Oh yea—yea—Hallelujah!

It has been common knowledge out at Brasilia that he wouldn't let any communication reach the board of supervisors until he had censored it. You would be amazed how many were sent back to be re-written.

"I am going to run this county and don't you ever forget it."

THE BOARD as now constituted has an opportunity — a duty in fact — to put the train back on the track as provided by state law governing general law counties, or else submit to the voters the proposition for their decision. This was denied the voters, you will recall, by the man who is now heading up the Save Our Seashore and attempting to obtain a million signatures to present to President Nixon. How's that for a switch?

This mental health debacle is a direct result of the administrator and assistant Thomas Campanella not coming clean with the board nor the public. They couldn't afford to. So they worked out a scheme to bypass Dr. Clyde G. Miller and at the same time they raised his salary. But this didn't work. It didn't keep him quiet and he has blown the works by his actions.

They have clothed the problem in such a mysterious atmosphere that, as Sally Mishkind states in her comprehensive, two-page, single-space statement, ". . . . has left the BOS confused about the effectiveness . . . and uncertain about how the public is being served. Chairman McInnis recently expressed his feelings at a workshop that was held with the Mental Health Advisory Board and the BOS — when he said that he had difficulty comprehending the mental health scene. Much of this confusion stems from the fact that straight, frank, answers are seldom heard from the county administrator or his assistant (Campanella) or Dr. Miller's office." It's a shameful situation. If the board of supervisors don't take it out of the administrator's control it will get even worse.

THIS MENTAL health matter is just one of many mismanged things out at the blue-roofed ship of state — the glittering "tourist attraction."

We find the administrator in opposition to the position the board has taken on state highways in the county. When he and the board talk of overlapping, it is to laugh.

When a supervisor has the board request the administrator to report on the "status" of the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control project, we have a glaring example. This is entirely an engineering matter and he is not an engineer by any means.

It may be well, for the benefit of those who just tuned in, to again give you a run down of the employment record of the "most powerful man in county government." You'd be surprised.

Soviets Reported Building Missile Sites In Algeria

BRUSSELS (AP) — The Soviet Union has built one missile base in Algeria and is installing others just north of the Sahara Desert, a former chief of staff of the French Air Force says.

Gen. Paul Stehlin, now a member of the French Parliament, said in an article in the Belgian National Review that a missile base is in operation at La Calle, near the Tunisian border.

He also said the Soviets have built seven bases for TU16 bombers in Algeria.

A Munich newspaper, the organ of West German Finance Minister Franz Josef Strauss' Christian Socialist Union, reported in July that Soviet rockets were being installed around La Calle.

Moon Sample Arrives At Cal

BERKELEY (AP)—The first Apollo 11 moon rock to arrive in the San Francisco Bay Area went on display today.

It's the vanguard of several loads of lunar samples destined for detailed probing by researchers and millions of dollars worth of equipment.

The white-flecked rock, about the size of a large walnut, will be on public exhibit until Thursday at the University of California's Lawrence Hall of Science.

Then it will be scrutinized by scientists.
